"BREWSTER WAGON,"
with and without tops, and of all weights required for speeding or pleasure driving. These wagons continue to be THE STANDARD for quality and style, and, with all other vehicles in stock, are offered as equal in all respects to those built to the order of the most valued customer, and at prices fixed and uniform to all.
In order to prevent confusion, we beg the public to bear in mind that we have no connection whatever with a Joint Stock Company of Carriage Dealers organized two years ago under a firm name very similar to our own, and now advertising itself as the "Old House of Brewster"—our only places of business being at the factory on Broome street and warerooms on Fifth avenue. BREWSTER & CO.

THE COURTS.

Jarvis Irving in Court Again—The Alleged Forged Distiller's Bond—The Stuyvesant Bank in Bankruptcy—Important Decision—Held to Await the Action of the Grand Jury—Obstructions on the Piers and Slips—Decisions—Business in the General Sessions.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT

Criminal Trials.

Before Judge Benedict.

James T. Brady pleaded guilty of stealing packages, containing articles of value, from the Post Office. He was remanded for sentence.

Stephen D. Carpenter pleaded guilty of forging a postal money order. Remanded for sentence.

The Case of James Irving.

The case of James Irving, ex-Alderman and ex-Assemblyman, was then called up by the District Attorney for the purpose of having a day named for a trial. It will be remembered that, at a former term of the Court, the defendant Irving, was tried for an alleged violent assault upon Deputy Marshal Dowley, and that the jury were discharged without being able to agree to a verdict. Counsel for Irving now moved for a postponement on the ground that there was sickness in Irving's family. Finally the case was set down for Tuesday next, with the understanding that if the illness alluded to then continued a further postponement might be asked upon proper affidavit.

The Case of Charles Callender, the Bank Examiner.

The defendant is indicted for having, while acting in the capacity of Bank Examiner, accepted valuable considerations for the purpose of influencing his report in relation to the affairs and condition of the Ocean National Bank. The facts, so far as they were developed at the preliminary examination, have been fully published in the HERALD. The District Attorney moved to fix a day for the trial, and after some conversation between counsel, Thursday of next week was named.

The Trial of Messick—Alleged Forgery of a Distiller's Bond.

The trial of William Messick, who is charged with having forged a distiller's bond under the circumstances reported in the HERALD of yesterday, was then resumed. As already stated, the defence is that Messick is a person of unsound mind.

Mr. H. B. Davis summed up the testimony on the part of the accused, and Mr. A. H. Purdy for the government.

The jury disagreed and were discharged without finding any verdict. Six of the jurors were for acquittal and six for conviction.

Counsel for the accused intimated to the Court that he would this morning make a motion for the discharge of Messick, so that he might be sent to a hospital or asylum.

Alleged Smuggling of Gold Watches.

Charles Marxsen was indicted for having, in the early part of this year, smuggled a large number of gold watches, gold chains and rings from Europe into this port.

Mr. A. H. Purdy and Mr. S. De Kay appeared for the government, and Mr. Samuel G. Courtney and Mr. B. F. Russell defended Marxsen.

According to the testimony of the Custom House officers it appeared that a trunk or box containing the watches was seized by them at the Canard Dock, in Jersey City, after the arrival of the steamship Calabria from Liverpool, on which the defendant had been a passenger. The officers put a mark on the trunk for re-examination, and when it was overhauled there was found in it a false bottom, into which were packed tin cases soldered up. These tin cases contained the watches, each watch being enclosed in a small, handsome box. One of the witnesses, a Custom House inspector, named Meyer, deposed to having had a conversation with Marxsen, in which the latter is alleged to have said that if the inspector would get the box through for him he would give him $200, that he knew what Custom House officers were, that he was an "old rounder," that he did not get caught more than once in ten times and that, as he had no friends and no money, he was afraid he must go to the Penitentiary. The witness also stated that he had seized a trunk, containing watches, packed in the same manner as above, in the possession of the defendant's brother Udo, who had also arrived by one of the steamers from England, and that Udo said he was made a present of the box from his brother Charles, but did not know what was in it.

In cross-examination by Mr. Courtney Meyer said the defendant had not stated to him that the goods were purchased in Europe and intended for sale in Mexico or Texas. The cross-examination was directed with the view of showing that there was a conversation between the witness, the defendant and a man named Scow, a keeper of a boarding house, in reference to the trunk, and that because the defendant did not give $200 to the officer the complaint against him was made. The witness negatived the idea that he had made any proposal to the defendant for money, but admitted that he told him if he prepared an invoice of the goods and presented it to the Custom House he might get them through, and that he (witness) would give him what facility he could for that purpose. He further admitted that Scow brought him the information that Charley Marxsen had arrived in the Calabria.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned till this morning.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—IN BANKRUPTCY.

The Stuyvesant Bank—Refusal of the Court to Confirm Mr. Archer's Appointment as Trustee—Important Decision by Judge Blatchford—John H. Platt Appointed Bankrupt's Assignee.

Yesterday, in the matter of the Stuyvesant Bank, a bankrupt, Judge Blatchford rendered an important and interesting decision in reference to the motion recently made before him for the confirmation of the nomination, by the creditors, of Mr. O. H. P. Archer as trustee of the Stuyvesant Bank. The Judge refuses to sanction that appointment, but appoints Mr. John H. Platt assignee of the bankrupt. His Honor gives his reasons at length in the subjoined

DECISION.

Being of opinion on the papers before me in this case that the interest of the creditors of the bankrupt will not be promoted by the appointment of Mr. Archer as trustee, I must decline to confirm the resolution to that effect.

One of the grounds on which the bank was adjudged a bankrupt by the Court was, that, being insolvent, it procured and suffered its property to be taken on legal process with intent, by such disposition of its property, to defeat and delay the operation of the Bankruptcy act, and suffered and procured and effects to be appointed by a State Court, and surrendered possession thereof to such receiver. Mr. Archer was appointed such receiver, and is such still. All the property which belonged to the bank passed into his hands as such receiver, he, thereafter, claiming the legal title to it by transfer, and claiming to hold it as against all the world. Such as remains of it in his hands he claims to hold by the same title. The proceedings in bankruptcy were commenced on the 23d of December, 1871. If Mr. Archer is ever to account to this Court, or to its proper officer, for what was the property of the bank, he must account for it as it stood on that day. It must be administered as of that day, and from that day, according to such principles of administration as may be determined by this Court. It appears that Mr. Archer has, since that day, been which came into his hands as receiver, as having the legal title to it, collecting moneys and paying them out. For these acts he must, if he is to account to this Court at all for them, account to a trustee or assignee to be appointed by this Court. It is not proper that he should, as trustee, be plaintiff, and as receiver be defendant in respect of these matters. Moreover, nothing can pass from him as receiver, of which he is now in possession, to any trustee or assignee to be appointed by this Court, unless he voluntarily surrenders it, or is compelled to do so by proper legal proceedings. It appears that

A RECEIVER OF ALL ITS PROPERTY

HE DOES NOT INTEND TO SURRENDER IT;

nor does he intend, if confirmed as trustee by this Court, to cease acting as receiver. He announces that he intends to act both as receiver and as trustee, and have his acts sanctioned by the State Court which appointed him receiver and by this Court. This is a position of incompatibility which this Court cannot permit one of its officers to occupy. If he is to be trustee under the Bankruptcy act, appointed by this Court, he must look to this Court alone as the source of his authority. If he is to hold and administer as receiver under the State law the property which he received as receiver he must so administer it without looking to this Court for any authority or direction. If he is to administer such property as a trustee appointed by this Court he must so administer it, or to any other Court but this Court for authority or direction.

WITHOUT LOOKING TO THE STATE COURT

The Judge quotes the language of Judge Woodruff in the case of [illegible] in support of his view, and proceeds as follows:—

There is another objection to confirm by the proceedings of the creditors in regard to a trustee. [illegible] to the three persons [illegible] creditors [illegible]

MR. [illegible] OF THE NEW YORK [illegible]

That [illegible] New York, to be entitled to a preference [illegible] the asset of the bank [illegible]

The Register [illegible] appointment of assignee [illegible] Mr. Archer [illegible] I appoint Mr. John H. Platt as assignee of the bankrupt.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Alleged Violation of the Revenue Laws.

Before Commissioner Shields.

The United States vs. Anna Meters.—The defendant was charged with selling liquor without a license at 112 Prince street. She was discharged on her own recognizance to appear for examination.

The United States vs. Henry Lenoweker.—The defendant, who resides at 275 Bleecker street, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury for the alleged removal of cigars from a manufactory without having been properly stamped or branded.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Removing Obstructions from Piers and Slips.

Before Judge Barrett.

John L. Williams, et al. vs. The Mayor, &c., and the Department of Docks of the City of New York.—The history of this case is well known, having been fully published at the beginning of the suit. In the discharge of its duties the Department of Docks undertook the removal of various encumbrances of some of the North River piers and in the adjacent docks. An injunction was obtained restraining the Dock Commissioners from their removal. The matter came before the Court on a motion to show cause why the injunction should not be continued. Judge Barrett, before whom the motion was heard, has rendered a decision dissolving the injunction. His grounds are—First, that the authority which the Legislature has conferred upon the city to make grants of water privileges and wharf property is limited to such use of the wharves, piers and slips as shall not interfere with their free and unobstructed use for the general purposes of trade and commerce; second, that the owners of this water grant are entitled to the fullest protection in their exclusive right to wharfages and they cannot be deprived of that right without due compensation; third, that no one, be he a lessee of a or the owner of a private wharf, has any right to erect any building upon the street or wharf or between them respectively and the river upon which they shall respectively front and adjoin, nor otherwise permanently to obstruct such street or wharf or such intermediate space; fourth, that the barges, office, dumping board and other structures complained of are in the nature of such permanent obstructions and in a legal sense are nuisances; fifth, that being such nuisances they are not entitled to the protection of a court of equity; sixth, that the Department of Docks has the power to require the removal of these obstructions, the dredging of the slips under the provision with respect to "exclusive government and regulation;" that for such purpose the wharves are to be treated as highways, and directions for the removal of unlawful obstructions should be upheld to the same extent as police regulations with respect to the streets of the city; seventh, that neither the order of a harbor master, nor the permit of the Commissioner of Public Parks, nor the certificate of the Superintendent of Buildings, given under direction of the Court, can avail any of these plaintiffs, it not being in the power of any official to legalize a nuisance; eighth, that there need be no conflict of authority between the Department of Docks and Captain of the Port and the Harbor Master. The Department of Docks in removing obstructions prior to the adoption of any general plan of water front is simply providing additional accommodation for ships and vessels, the proper use of which will as usual be regulated by and be subject to the direction of the Harbor Masters, the Captain of the Port, or the Commissioner of Pilots. The power of interfering with or removing vessels thus assigned to particular piers for the purpose of loading or unloading is conferred upon the Department of Docks only when necessary for the convenient prosecution of any work being done by them. Thus the Department of Docks, instead of conflicting with, really promotes the functions of the other officers, by increasing the supply of wharfage, which is at once placed at the disposal of the Harbor Masters for the legitimate purposes of commerce. The injunction in each case must be dissolved, with $10 costs.

Decisions.

Goodenough vs. Spencer.—Motion to open default granted. Terms to be settled on two days' notice.

In the Matter of William Fulon vs. Van Hovenberg.—Attachment may issue, &c.

Agate vs. Mendes.—Motion denied, with $10 cost and leave to review.

Starkweather et al. vs. Van Cott.—Defendants should be allowed their costs.

Clifford vs. Washington Iron Works.—Motion granted.

In the Matter of the Petition of Gilbert F. Rudd to Vacate Assessment for Sewer, &c.—Order to take proof granted.

Bolton et al. vs. Harvey.—Allowance granted.

Van Name et al. vs. Keating et al.—Motion denied, without costs.

Shepard et al. vs. Denison.—Motion for short calendar granted.

Davis et al. vs. Barker.—Motion denied, with leave to renew.

Keyser vs. Keyser.—Report of referee confirmed, and judgment of divorce granted.

Barnes vs. Barnes.—Same.

Chapman vs. Chapman.—Same, and custody of children awarded to plaintiff.

Kolb et al. vs. Jaroshowski. Attachment issue unless the defendant submits to examination, on a day to be specified in the order.

Elston et al. vs. Murray.—Motion denied, costs to abide event.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART I.

Divorce Granted by Default.

Before Judge Barrett.

Sarah Reiser vs. Samuel Reiser.—This was a suit for divorce on the ground of alleged adultery. When the case was called the plaintiff, with her counsel and witnesses, put in an appearance, but neither the defendant nor any one representing him was forthcoming. After taking the testimony on the plaintiff's side a verdict was rendered granting her a divorce by default.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Decisions.

By Judge Sedgwick.

Turk et al. vs. Beckerman.—Motion denied, without costs. See memorandum.

Gorski vs. Gorski.—Order granted.

By Judge Monell.

Duncan vs. Berlin et al.—The pleadings in this case must be inserted.

By Judge McCunn.

Clapp vs. Devlin.—Case settled.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

The Question of the Jurisdiction of the Recorder's Branch of the Court—The Recorder Claims He is Right and Judge Daly is Wrong.

Before Recorder Hackett.

After the transaction of some preliminary business, Assistant District Attorney Fellows was about proceeding with the trial of William Dennis and Mary Florence, charged with abduction, when Mr. Howe, counsel for Dennis, moved that no testimony be admitted in the case, on the ground that this Court, as at present organized, has no jurisdiction to try any case. Among the reasons assigned for this motion were these:—That the Recorder issued an order directing that Judge Daly, who was a Judge ex officio of the General Sessions, should preside upon the trial of the Mayor; and that if that order be of any effect, that was the only court now in session. Counsel believed that Judge Daly stated on Tuesday that his was the only Court of General Sessions now legally in existence. If this ruling be correct, then Judge Daly's Court is properly organized, and consequently every prisoner tried before the Recorder would be entitled to his discharge.

THE RECORDER ON THE SITUATION.

Recorder Hackett in overruling the motion said he had every respect for the rulings of his colleague, Judge Bedford, in extending the term of the Court for the Grand Jury to continue its proceedings, but he differed with him as to the power to do so; and were it not for subsequent legislation legalizing the orders made by him in his judgment they would have been void. His Honor further stated that he had very great respect for the opinion of Judge Daly; but he was settled in the belief that there was no Court of Sessions in existence except the one over which he now had the honor to preside; that upon the death of the juror the power of Judge Daly to further hold the Court ended.

Alleged Abduction and Acquittal.

The trial of William Dennis and Mary Florence was then proceeded with.

Caroline H. Moore, a young girl, about thirteen years old, testified that she lived with her aunt at 767 Sixth avenue; that on the morning of the 13th of December, while going to school, with her school books under her arm, she was met by Dennis in Sixth avenue (whom she had seen twice before), who told her that there was a schoolmate of hers in a carriage waiting to see her; that she stepped into the carriage, which was empty; that she was immediately followed by Dennis, who placed a handkerchief saturated with something to her mouth, rendering her insensible, and when she woke up she found herself in a shanty in Twenty-ninth street, near Eleventh avenue; that during the day Dennis returned and took her to a house in Twenty-sixth street and repeated the application of the handkerchief to her mouth.

The girl was cross-examined at great length and in such a searching manner that District Attorney Fellows abandoned the prosecution, and the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty without leaving their seats.

Pleads Guilty.

Moritz Rosenthal, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny in stealing a silver watch and some clothing on the 20th of February, the property of Meyer Rosenthal, was sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

Acquitted.

George Lawrence was tried upon a charge of stealing a pocketbook, containing $5, from Catherine Shatzlein, while she was getting on a Bleecker street car; but the complainant failing to identify the accused, the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Robert Deno and Edward Costello were also promptly acquitted of a charge of stealing a set of harness from Andrew Conradt, on the 25th of October, the defendants showing that the complainant hired a stable from them, that all his property was attached, and that the harness claimed to be stolen was never taken from the premises.

Thomas Cosgrove, charged with stabbing Lewis Olmstead with a knife, on the 4th of February, was tried and acquitted not guilty, he having established the fact that he used the knife when attacked by three men and other parties. Mr. Kintzing consented to have the complainant's statement made before the magistrate read, the former refusing to obey the summons of the Court.

THE PACIFIC MAIL BATTLE.

Testimony of Messrs. Stockwell and Baxter, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company—Loaning Upon Its Own Stock—The Stock Enhanced in Value Owing to Their Manipulation of It—Has Money Been Used to Corrupt Congress?

The further hearing before Referee John S. Lawrence in the case of the application of Luther C. Challis for an injunction to restrain the Pacific Mail Steamship Company from misappropriating the stock of the company was resumed yesterday morning at No. 117 Broadway.

Judge Fullerton being suddenly summoned before the Judiciary Committee, the plaintiff's case was deferred and the counsel for the defence recalled Mr. Stockwell, President of the company, who said that his evidence of yesterday was slightly inaccurate; he had supposed that Osborne & Cammack had put in the notes of the Howe Sewing Machine Company as collateral for a loan made them by the Pacific Mail, but such was not the fact.

Q. Why did William M. Tweed pay the interest on a mortgage loan, mentioned in your direct examination? A. I am not sure; I learned that Tweed was the person liable to pay the mortgage, and as such paid the interest.

Q. Did the statement that Tweed paid the interest come from Mr. Bellowes, Vice President? A. It did come from him.

Q. You stated that these loans made by the company were made to accommodate the company. Were they made for the mutual benefit of loaner and borrower, so that they could be called in or paid at any time? A. Such was the case.

Q. Has there been an increase or decrease of the business or earnings of the company since you became President? A. It has increased.

Q. Had this company any interest in your contracts referred to in your previous evidence? A. No, sir.

Q. What was the value of the stock when you were elected President? A. About forty-six.

Q. What has been the course of the market since? A. Upward.

Q. To what rate? A. Sixty-three or sixty-four; I do not know the exact price at different times, but it runs from sixty-three to sixty-four.

H. H. Baxter, director of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, was called and sworn.

Q. How long have you been a director? A. Since November; I am also a member of the Executive Committee.

Q. Do you know what surplus assets you had when you came into office? A. About $3,500,000; I made an examination of the exhibit of the old board; it was, I found, correct; it was, I believe, $3,050,000.

Q. What has become of the governments then held? A. Some have been sold; we have on hand now about $600,000 governments.

Q. Why did you sell governments? A. As we had contracts and liable to be called upon for money we sold.

Q. Do you know you got a good price? A. Yes.

Q. You are building steamers? A. Yes, four; the old board contracted for three, we for four steamers; we have $600,000 governments, money, &c.

Q. How much have you lost by loans? A. Not a dollar.

Q. Interest nor principal? A. Neither interest nor principal.

Q. Have you borrowed from the company? A. Never a dollar.

Q. Do you not know some loans were made on usurious interest? A. No, nor for commission.

Q. Has not some of the money been loaned to your co-directors? A. Not as I have learned.

Q. There is a bylaw showing how funds are to be deposited? A. Yes.

Q. Has it been observed? A. Yes; the Executive Committee order the deposit and it cannot be withdrawn without the signature of the President and Secretary.

Q. By Mr. Craig—Have you been connected with other companies? A. Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Nelson.

Q. Have you not been able to buy your governments back at a lower rate than you sold? A. Yes, about four per cent.

Q. What do you say as to the custom of corporations to loan their surplus on call loans here in New York? A. That has been the habit with companies I have been connected with.

Q. Have not your loans been made in the same manner as other companies, banks and trust companies? A. Precisely, sir.

Q. Is it not also true as to the amount of margin required? A. Yes, sir.

Q. By Mr. Craig—Do you know of any law to prevent a bank loaning money on its own stock? A. There is such a law relating to national banks.

Q. Do banks and trust companies loan on their own stocks? A. National banks don't; as to State banks I can't say.

Q. Has your company loaned money on its own stock? A. Yes; when we had surplus money we have made loans on collaterals, with sufficient margin to prevent loss from ten to twenty per cent when upon the market value of the stock.

Q. Do you mean to say that loans made of surplus funds have not been used to manipulate the stock? A. When we have surplus we loan without any care whether it puts stocks up or down; I think it is safer for the company to loan money on its own stock, for the reason that we know its value.

Q. Do you know of railways discriminating in favor of their own stock? A. The Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company have done so.

F. W. G. Bellowes, Vice President of the company, sworn—I have been vice president or executive officer for some years; have knowledge of loans made by the company under the new board; when they came in the cash assets were about $3,000,000; we had governments amounting to $1,800,000; we disposed of a part of the governments only because we wanted to raise money; we had contracted for four steamers of the China route, the hulls of the $[illegible] each, and the engines each $[illegible]; we make loans on many stocks [illegible] margin of from ten to twenty per cent; between 10th November and 10th March all loans made were [illegible] we loan on our own stock [illegible] collaterals [illegible] and knew where it always was, never lost anything by loaning money; between 10th November and 10th March, have loaned money on sewing machine notes or stocks; I don't know that Stockwell has borrowed money from the company.

Q. There is a bill pending before Congress for a subsidy to your company; do you know personally whether or no any money of this is have been expended in the passage of that bill?

Mr. Nelson—Do you mean to corrupt members of Congress?

The question suggests its own meaning. If you do not answer we will refer it to the Court.

Messrs. Shafer and Nelson for the defence still objected to the question.

The question was withdrawn for the present.

Judge Nelson—We have no objection to answer any question about corrupting Congress; but we admit we have an agent in Washington, and there is nothing hid behind the door. We do not object to the admission of evidence pointing to the use of money to corrupt Congress, or any member of Congress.

Q. Has the mode of making loans changed since the new board came in? A. No, sir.

Cross-examined by Judge Nelson—I can't tell how much has been paid on these new ships, but I think between $400,000 and $500,000; our cash assets have increased under present management, and also our business.

Q. By Mr. Shafer—From what you know of the management of the company how does that of the new board compare with that of the old? A. I don't see that there has been any change of policy, and the management remains unchanged.

The hearing was adjourned until Saturday, at ten o'clock A. M.

THE JERSEY CITY FRAUDS.

Third Day of the Trial—A Squad of Police Spies Tampering with Jurors—Another Blow at the Subsidized Local Press—A Jury Obtained at Last.

Yesterday was the third day of the trial of the Police Commissioners and Chief of Police of Jersey City. The closing part of the proceedings of the previous day possesses more than ordinary interest for the taxpayers of Jersey City.

A juror named William Munzing was challenged by the defence and placed on the stand for examination. He denied that he had expressed any opinion as to the guilt of the defendants. Counsel for defence then called up Charles Thompson, who related a conversation he had with Munzing. This Thompson, as will be seen, is one of a squad of policemen specially detailed to go in citizen's clothes among the jurors and use devices, according to the exigency of the case, for the purpose of extorting some opinions from the jurors for or against the defence; and these men are to be paid out of the city treasury just as if they were on regular police duty.

Thompson took the witness' stand and replied to the questions of counsel in this fashion:—I had a conversation with Munzing about this case; I broached the subject myself; he said he thought the charges against the Police Commissioners and the Chief were just.

Here the counsel for the State interposed, and questioned Thompson in quite a different fashion. He admitted that he made it a special business to go around and find out the feelings of the jurors in regard to this matter, and that he was detailed for that special purpose. (Sensation in Court.) He reported the case to Inspector Dickson according to orders; it was true that he represented himself as a suspended policeman to one juror (McGarry); there were other men on the police force detailed for the same business, but he could not state how many; he had been detailed by the Chief.

The Court then took him in hand, and he stared at Judge Bedle with a grim scowl, and gave his replies in a stiff, half reckless manner that savored of impertinence. He said he could not give the names of the other officers who were "bobbing around" with him. The Court then notified him to be in attendance next day, asking him in the meantime if he had a family, to which he replied in the affirmative. Inspector Dickson, who was in Court, was also directed to attend next day.

Counsel for defence looked at each other in astonishment, and it was quite evident that they regretted they put Thompson on the stand.

The hour of adjournment having arrived, the Court warned the ten jurors who had been selected to beware of holding any conversation with persons which might be calculated to create an impression on their minds one way or the other in the case. The trial was one which excited a great deal of public interest. The Court then addressed the representatives of the press that as the public mind was already greatly agitated regarding the trial newspapers should refrain from any comment during the progress of the trial. The Court did not seek to control the press in its duty of giving a fair report of the case. If the warning should be disregarded the Court would reach the channels through which the information might be conveyed.

This warning to the press was most opportune, as some of the local papers which the Grand Jury were obliged to set forth in their presentment had on the very first day of this trial actually prejudged the issue on the jury panel before the Court rendered a decision.

When the Court opened yesterday morning the work of selecting a jury was proceeded with, and the two remaining seats were soon filled. The jury were sworn as follows:—Edward Ackerman, Charles O'Brien, Laurence Corne, William Madden, John Botts, Frederick Wohlleben, Garret Busch, William Wilson, Andrew Van Buskirk, George Vreeland, Frederick Schroeder and Richard Rapelyea.

District Attorney Garretson opened the case on behalf of the State.

The first witness was Edward L. McHorney, Captain of Police in the First district. He testified to the pay rolls shown to him, stating that pay rolls are made out at the middle and end of each month; Chief McWilliams' salary was set down at the rate of $2,500 a year and $6 56 a day; the total at these rates for the second half of October was set down as $204 17.

"How did you come to make that total?"

"By order of Chief McWilliams; I was also ordered to put down $104 17 for myself; I received in October $158 34; November, $208 34; December, $158 34; January, $108 34; February, $84; before I drew the money on the check received for the second half of October I had paid $50 to Inspector Dickson; I was told by Chief McWilliams it would be expected of me."

Abraham Van Riper, Captain of the Second precinct, was the second witness. He testified to the pay rolls for his precinct, in which his salary was set down for an amount similar to that sworn to by the previous witness; he received for the second half of October $104 17; the amount he should have received was $54 17; he had conversation with Commissioner Edmondson, who told him that he would have to make the best of it and they would try and get the next Legislature to increase the salaries; the $50 that I received over my regular salary I supposed was for the purpose of meeting expenses; the salary set down in the charter for each captain is $1,400 per annum; I was appointed on the 21st of April, 1871; for April I received $32; May, June, July, August and September, $108 34 each; October, $158 34; November, $208 34; December, $150 34; January, $108 34; February, $84 17; don't know whether the reduction was made in February on account of the finding of indictments by the Grand Jury; the order for the reduction came from President Pritchard; the pay roll containing the reduction was made out on the last day of February (the indictments were found on the 17th of February); I was ordered by the Chief to put the sum of $104 17 on the pay roll opposite my name; I had contributed $50 about twenty days before that; I paid it to Inspector Dickson; it was paid for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the republican party last fall.

"And you got that returned to you on the pay roll?"

"No, I did not; the Chief told me to speak to the men about contributing something before election; he did not specify any amount; he said the money would be paid to Inspector Dickson; every increase in my salary on the pay roll was made by order of the Chief; I never paid back to the men any of the money they contributed at my suggestion."

Captain James C. Parker, of the Third precinct, was examined, and gave similar testimony. A check for the second half of October was signed James Parker, but the witness was positive the name was not written by him, though he drew the money; the Chief deducted $50 out of one of my checks for $104; he sent the check for $50 to the bank and had it paid; this is the check the Chief sent to the bank (pointing out the check for $50 above alluded to); the Chief told me the captains were expected to pay $50; sergeants, $25, and patrolmen, $20 each; that was about the 1st of November; from the 20th of April last year to the 15th of February in this year I received for my services $1,265 35, leaving due to me for the balance of the year (to 20th of April) the sum of $34 65.

"Suppose you had been dismissed from the force, did you intend to pay back to the city the amount you had overdrawn?"

Witness shook his head from east to west and smiled.

"Was not one captain dismissed?"

"Yes."

John Benson, Captain of the Fourth precinct, was examined. His testimony was a repetition of that already given. He received a similar amount for salary and paid a similar contribution, which in an unguarded moment he styled an "assessment," though he had previously stated it was paid voluntarily. He received from the city for his services from the 20th of April last year to the 1st of the present month $1,294 85.

District Attorney—Do you purpose to serve for the remainder of the year (seven weeks) for $5 17?

Objected to and objection sustained.

When the examination of this witness was concluded the Court adjourned.

DEATH IN DENTISTRY.

Melancholy Affair in Thirty-fourth Street—Death in a Dentist's Chair—Administration of Nitrous-Oxide Gas.

A very sad affair, resulting in the speedy death of a lady, occurred yesterday morning at the dental establishment of J. B. Newbrough, 128 West Thirty-fourth street. Mrs. Ann O'Shaughnessy, a lady about forty years of age, living on the corner of Twentieth street and avenue B, has long been afflicted with imperfect teeth, which gave her great pain, and repeatedly she has threatened to have them extracted. Mustering up the necessary courage, Mrs. O'Shaughnessy yesterday morning, in company with her particular friend, Mrs. Bigley, living at 372 East Eighth street, proceeded to Dr. Newbrough's place and made known her wishes. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was questioned about inhaling nitrous oxide gas, with the view of alleviating the pain consequent upon the operation, and finally consented to do so. As she appeared to be a strong and healthy woman the dentist apprehended no danger in administering the gas. Accordingly Mrs. O'Shaughnessy seated herself in the chair and was instructed how to inhale the gas, and at the same time the tube was inserted in her mouth. The gas, however, was permitted to escape, and consequently did not have the desired effect. More gas was procured, and after taking two or three inhalations Mrs. O'Shaughnessy refused to take any more, and said she would have her teeth removed without it. At that time Dr. Newbrough asserts that his patient seemed to be little, if any, under the influence of the gas, and in compliance with the wishes of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy he proceeded with his work and extracted about seven teeth, which did not draw very hard. Although suffering from pain and great nervous excitement Mrs. O'Shaughnessy bore up wonderfully under the operation; but after the seventh tooth was extracted she acted strangely, and in a few moments afterwards fell in a fainting fit. Dr. Newbrough instantly applied the electric battery and resorted to the usual means to restore Mrs. O'Shaughnessy to consciousness, at the same time sending a messenger in great haste for Dr. Otis. Everything that could be done failed to accomplish the desired result, and death ensued in fifteen or twenty minutes subsequently, in the presence of the above medical gentlemen, Mrs. Bigley and others, who chanced to be in the house at the time.

Coroner Herrman was informed, and late in the day, in company with Dr. John Beach, his deputy, visited the house and gave permission to the relatives of the deceased to remove the remains to the residence of her husband, where Dr. Beach to-day will make a post-mortem examination and thus definitely determine the cause of death. A sister of deceased at the house which the Coroner called seemed to feel quite embittered against Dr. Newbrough, and intimated that he had not called other medical aid in time, and seemed to hold him responsible for causing her sister's death. Dr. Newbrough says the gas inhaled by deceased was genuine; that he manufactures it himself and uses it fresh every day. It is possible that Mrs. O'Shaughnessy had been suffering from some organic disease, which was accelerated by the gas she inhaled, and also by severe pain and great nervous excitement, but that will be determined by the examination of the internal organs. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, although married for nearly nineteen years, was without children. Coroner Herrman will hold an investigation in the case next Monday.

DEATHS UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

Probably Spotted Fever.

Sergeant Woodward, of the Thirteenth precinct, yesterday morning informed Coroner Herrman that Caroline and Agnes Koch, aged respectively five and a half and seven and a half years, whose parents live in the rear of No. 165 Stanton street, had died suddenly. Dr. Kropsch, of No. 185 Rivington street, who had attended the deceased children, stated that Agnes died at six o'clock on Tuesday evening, and Caroline at nine o'clock yesterday morning. The former was taken sick on Tuesday morning and the other girl the same evening. Mrs. Koch, the mother, states that they had been eating pigs' hearts and livers, and also popcorn and cocoanut candy. Subsequently they complained of pain in the head and sickness at the stomach; the fever was also excessive and continued till death ensued. Dr. Kropsch seemed to be of the impression that the children had died from the effects of some kind of poison. Two other children ate the same as the deceased, also the parents, but none of the others were made sick. The pigs' hearts were bought of a man who peddles them about the streets.

Dr. John Beach made a superficial examination on the bodies, and is thoroughly of the opinion that they died from spotted fever, although that will be determined by a post-mortem examination to be made to-day at the Morgue, whither the bodies have been removed. It is possible, however, that death may have resulted from poisonous meats taken into the stomach.

THE SMALLPOX HOSPITALS.

Report of the Medical Officers of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction—The Death Rate Twenty-one Per Cent—It is Less than in English Hospitals—Yearly Admissions, 2,521—Deaths, 533.

Dr. Macdonald, Chief of the Medical Staff of the Smallpox Hospitals, under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction, has just made extracts from his annual report which will show the ravages of this hideous scourge. The following extracts are especially interesting to all who desire to know the treatment practiced in the hospitals:—

Table "C," comprising the list of diseases of those who have died in the hospital during the year, is of especial interest, and, upon careful examination and comparison, will be found to reflect no little credit upon the gentlemen to whom the medical treatment of the patients has been entrusted. The number of deaths occurring in the hospital during the year will be seen to have reached a total of 533. The entire number of patients under treatment during the year, according to table "A," is 2,521; therefore the proportion of deaths to cases treated is 21 1-10 per cent. The average rate of mortality in English hospitals for the treatment of smallpox patients is shown by recent reports to be about 27 per cent, in view of which fact and the additional circumstance that sanitary precautions and compulsory vaccination are much more rigidly enforced in England than in our own country, the comparatively small death rate in this hospital is very satisfactory. But perhaps a fairer comparison, and certainly a no less flattering one, is between the rates of mortality among those patients permitted by the Board of Health of this city to be treated at their own homes and those removed to this hospital. The regulations of the Board of Health as to isolation and sanitary precautions in the former cases leave it in the power of those only who are in good circumstances to avail themselves of the privilege. It is therefore fair to presume that such patients have had the benefit of the best medical treatment available, the best nourishment and attendance, and the most thorough hygienic advantages. And yet, according to the report of Dr. Morris, City Sanitary Inspector, the mortality among such patients reaches thirty-five and one-third per cent, or over fourteen per cent more than those treated in this hospital. Certainly pauperism is not without its blessings.

Before closing this report I may perhaps be permitted to make allusion to a subject which has given pain and annoyance to all those who have the best interests of this hospital at heart. I refer to the intemperate and harsh criticism of its management and condition by certain journals of this city. An established rule of your department forbids the direct and public refutation of anonymous attacks, and I shall be careful in the general remarks I shall make upon the matter to avoid any transgression of this rule.

There are many things in the nature of this hospital which render the labor of those who endeavor to faithfully administer its affairs particularly arduous, and which are likely in a corresponding degree to be productive of complaint. In the first place, the large majority of the inmates have become so involuntarily. Compelled from the necessities of public safety to leave their homes and to break off for a time all intercourse with family and friends, it is scarcely to be wondered at that some of them should look upon their surroundings and their treatment with no favorable eye. Another ground for dissatisfaction with them is the length of time for which during their convalescence they are compelled to remain in-hospital. Looking at the matter ignorantly and selfishly, and feeling themselves perfectly well, it is impossible always to satisfy them that their detention is due to nothing else than regard for the safety of those to whom they are so desirous to return. So much for the patients themselves. For the public there is the incentive to mistrust that the privacy of the hospital naturally presents. Concealment or anything approaching to it will inevitably beget suspicion, however necessary and justifiable it may be. Public clamor against any other institution under your charge could be promptly met by throwing open its doors to the public and affording them the opportunity for personal investigation. With the Smallpox Hospital this is, of course, impossible. Medical men alone, and few of them, can or do claim admission, and their verdict, favorable as it is, is not widely known. That complaints against the Smallpox Hospital should be made is not therefore singular, nor is it likely that they will cease so long as there shall be a Smallpox Hospital to complain about. Let me therefore briefly state the present condition of the institution, not for the information of your Board, for day to day examination has made you thoroughly familiar with it, but for those who have not the opportunity of personally examining into it.

Upon the 23d of November last your Board so extended the powers and duties of the Chief of Staff of Charity Hospital as to bring the Smallpox and Fever Hospitals within his jurisdiction. In the resolutions prescribing the change you distinctly ordered that no expense should be spared whereby the comfort of the patients might be enhanced or their recovery expedited. Could I feel that recent attacks have any possible foundation, I should acknowledge my sole responsibility, for from the promise of these resolutions you have never receded, and my every requisition has been fully and promptly honored.

The ordinary diet supplied to non-paying patients is considerably better than that furnished to the same class in any other of the institutions under your control. It is in the main prepared according to the dietary table adopted for Bellevue and Charity Hospitals, but the quantities of different articles and the frequency with which they are given are increased and more acceptable articles are substituted for less. In addition to this general diet extras, such as eggs, beef tea, corn starch, &c., are supplied in liberal quantities upon the orders of the attending physicians.

Such patients as can and are willing to pay for their board are charged at the rate of five or ten dollars a week. From this sum your department derives no advantage. Any surplus remaining after the boarders are provided for is devoted to the still further improvement of the diet of pauper patients. To those who pay ten dollars a week meals are furnished by the matron of the hospital identical with those placed upon my own table and that of the resident medical staff, while to those who pay five dollars a good, substantial diet is given. All boarders live in the stone building, and those who pay the higher rate have each a private room, neatly furnished. Of the non-paying patients the females are placed in the stone building also, while the males occupy two pavilions, constructed with a special view to the treatment of contagious diseases and offering all the advantages which the pavilion system is generally acknowledged to afford.

The nurses and orderlies are carefully selected, receive good wages, and are required to spare no effort to promote the comfort of the patients.

These are, in brief, the facts with regard to the condition of the Smallpox Hospital and the advantages which it offers to the inmates. To this those who have had opportunity as patients of testing its comforts will, I doubt not, cheerfully testify.

THE PFEIFFER HOMICIDE.

Discharge of the Prisoner.

Coroner Schirmer yesterday held an inquest in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Pfeiffer, the German woman, late of 3d First avenue, whose death is alleged to have been caused by violence received at the hands of Charles Pfeiffer, her husband. The evidence showed that the deceased was a confirmed inebriate, and very often, while intoxicated, she fell down stairs and [illegible] her room. None of the witnesses saw any violence used, and gave the prisoner an excellent character for industry and sobriety. Pfeiffer himself when called to the stand admitted that he struck his wife a slight blow on the face [illegible] evening, when she, [illegible] with her head [illegible] the [illegible] she was dead. Pfeiffer pointed [illegible] views to which he [illegible]

POST-MORTEM EXAMINATION.

Joseph [illegible], M. D., Deputy Coroner, made a post-mortem examination on the body of deceased, and found [illegible] marks of violence on the face, neck and chest, and [illegible] fracture of the eighth, ninth and tenth ribs, [illegible] and also a rupture of the spleen. [illegible] was caused by internal [illegible] fracture of the ribs. The fracture might have produced death.

The case was then submitted to the jury, who found "that deceased came to her death from fracture of the ribs, &c., [illegible] on or about March 15, 1872, in some manner to us unknown, but probably by a fall while intoxicated."

On the above verdict Coroner Schirmer discharged Pfeiffer from custody, and he left the building in company with his friends.

THE TENTH AVENUE GANG.

Peter Commons, one of the notorious Tenth avenue gang, was arrested by Detective McGowan, of the Twentieth precinct, yesterday morning, at the corner of Tenth avenue and Thirty-third street, upon complaint of Martin Weber, a resident of Staten Island, who charges that while passing the corner of Tenth avenue and Twenty-seventh street about one o'clock on Sunday night, the prisoner and several accomplices knocked him down and forcibly took a watch and chain from his vest. The prisoner denied the charge at the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday afternoon, but was fully committed for trial. On the person of the prisoner when arrested was found a valuable double cased gold watch, No. 21,806, which is supposed to have been stolen. The watch is at present at the West Thirty-seventh street station house, in charge of Captain Caffrey, waiting a claimant.

DISTURBING THE DEAD.

Application to Remove the Bodies in the Churchyard of St. Andrew's.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Prosecution of Physicians for Failing to Report Cases of Smallpox.

Meeting of the Board of Health.

At the meeting of the Board of Health held yesterday afternoon an application was presented from the trustees of St. Andrew's church, at 127th street and Fourth avenue, asking permission to remove the bodies now interred in the ground about the site of the church, recently destroyed by fire, and also to grant the privilege of reinterring in vaults close at hand such other bodies as friends may wish to keep in that place. The Sanitary Committee recommended that one of these applications be denied, on the ground of danger to the public health. Both questions were taken up and discussed in the Board, and on motion of Commissioner Barr the papers were laid on the table. St. Andrew's church was burned down some time ago, and the object of the application to the Board was to obtain more ground to build upon, as the trustees intend to put

UP A LARGER AND MORE EXTENSIVE EDIFICE

Both questions were laid on the table, in compliance with the motion of Commissioner Barr. Dr. Moreau Morris reported four physicians who had been attending cases of smallpox in various parts of the city and had not given any notice of them to the health authorities. The attorney was instructed to commence actions against these gentlemen on motion of President Bosworth, who likewise recommended that as some of these physicians were more guilty than others it would be well to instruct the attorney of the Board to pursue them to the fullest limits of the law. This recommendation was adopted, and rigorous measures are to be taken against the offending doctors. Dr. Morris explained to the Board that in some cases it was extremely difficult for the inspectors to find out who the physicians were in charge of cases, as there seemed to be a collusion between the friends of the patient and the doctors to keep the fact of the disease from the knowledge of the proper authorities. It is to enforce every measure in the power of the Board to arrest the spread of the disease, for at the present time the city is in a state to invite rather than repel the epidemic. The great preventive against the virus, according to the best authorities, is vaccination, and the health authorities have taken every precaution possible to provide an easy and safe system of vaccination for the people. The following reports from the various bureaus were received and adopted:—

The Sanitary Committee respectfully submits the following report on the work of different bureaus for the week ending March 16, 1872:—

The Sanitary Inspector reports a total of 2,660 inspections by the Health Inspectors, as follows:—One public building, 1,446 tenement houses, 374 private dwellings, 66 other dwellings, 5 manufactories and workshops, 8 stores and warehouses, 21 stables, 1 glassworks, 18 manure dumps, 3

FAT RENDERING ESTABLISHMENTS,

27 slaughter houses, 6 yards, courts and areas; 21 cellars and basements, 24 waste pipes and drains, 101 closets, 3 street gutters and sidewalks, 17 other nuisances, and 118 visits to contagious diseases. The number of reports received from the Health Inspectors was 113.

During the week 52 complaints have been received from citizens and referred to the Health Inspectors for investigation. His report shows that during the week have visited 85 premises where contagious diseases were found, and have disinfected and fumigated 60 houses, 80 sinks, together with clothing, bedding, &c. Forty-three cases of smallpox were removed to hospital, and 5 dead bodies to the Morgue, by the Ambulance Corps. His report also shows that 31 sinks and cesspools have been cleansed and disinfected by the night scavengers under permits of the Board, and 210 loads of night soil removed from the city. Permits have been granted to 13 vessels to on vouchers from the Health Officer of this port. The Vaccinating Corps have visited 11,746 families, and performed 8,110 vaccinations, of which 510 were primary and 7,600 secondary. The permanent corps of Health and Assistant Inspectors were specially detailed to examine every house in that section of the city bounded by Fourteenth street, north; Division and Grand streets, south; Third and Bowery, west, and East River, east. During four days' inspection 21 cases have been discovered of smallpox, which had been concealed, most of them without medical attendance.

THE DISINFECTING CORPS

The slaughter houses of the city are reported as being in good sanitary condition, with the exception of that occupied by Thomas Loughran, on north side of Forty-seventh street, east of First avenue, which is reported as being in a filthy condition, and notice sent March 18, 1872.

The following is a comparative statement of contagious diseases reported for the two weeks ending March 9 and 16, 1872:—

	Fevers. Typhus.	Typhoid.	Scarlet.	Measles.	Diphtheria.	Smallpox.
March 9	3	6	80	14	14	75
March 16	3	6	72	25	9	74

The Register of Records reports as follows:—During the past week there were registered 591 deaths, being a decrease of 5 from the previous week and 54 more than for the corresponding week of 1871. Zymotic diseases produced 141 deaths; constitutional, 115; local, 280; developmental, 39, and violent causes, 15.

SMALLPOX

occasioned 17 deaths, or decrease of 7 from the previous week. The deaths by measles diminished from 11 to 9; by scarlatina, from 29 to 20; by diphtheria and croup together, from 25 to 21; by whooping cough, from 21 to 14, and by diarrhoeal disorders, from 18 to 17. The mortality of typhus fever increased from 2 to 4 and that of typhoid fever from 4 to 8. There were 2 deaths from remittent fever and 5 from spotted fever, against 3 and 6 respectively in the preceding week. The deaths from phthisis pulmonalis diminished from 114 to 89, and those from the

from 124 to 121.

The following were the principal meteorological features of the week as recorded for this department at the Cooper Union:—Maximum temperature, 46 degrees; minimum temperature, 20 degrees; mean temperature, 32.72 degrees; being 3.41 degrees less than that of the corresponding period during the past ten years; mean reading of the barometer, 29.919; mean degree of humidity, 54.37.

The Attorney reports as follows:—Number of actions commenced for non-compliance with orders or violations of health laws or ordinances, 102; number of judgments obtained in pending actions, 4; number of actions discontinued upon evidence of abatement of all cause of complaint, 12; number of complaints by inspectors examined and form of order endorsed thereon, 150; number of such complaints examined and returned for further examination and report, 30.

The Captain of the Sanitary Company of Police reports the following as the amount of meat, fish, &c., seized and condemned as unfit for human food:—Sheep, 9; hogs, 8; veal ("carcass"), 3; veal ("bob"), 38; poultry, 153 pounds; fish, 55,600 pounds.

The Sanitary Permit Inspector reports that he has caused to be examined the following named places, where permits have been denied, and found that H. Sturke, 279 Third street, and Aaron Myer, 152 Attorney street, were keeping fowls, and Elizabeth Dietz, Fiftieth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, cows, in violation of the Sanitary code, and the Attorney was directed to prosecute the parties.

DISEASE IN BROOKLYN.

Ravages of Typhoid Fever at the House of the Good Shepherd—Other Contagious Maladies.

The typhoid fever ravages in the House of the Good Shepherd, Henry street, near Atlantic, were first reported to the health authorities on Monday morning by Dr. Simms, the physician in attendance upon that institution. Dr. Cochran then visited the House and inaugurated such sanitary measures as in his opinion were essential to guard against the further spread of the disease. The Sister Superior of the House states that several weeks ago she received a woman into the place, who felt unwell and was subsequently ill with the fever. The impression exists that this woman conveyed the present scourge to the House. This patient, however, recovered and is now well. The Sanitary Inspectors believe that the premises are liable to breed the disease; the drainage is very defective, but the real cause, Dr. Holly thinks, has been the class of people (outcasts) who are taken in there; they are lifted from the gutter, as it were; their blood is impoverished, their diet has been neglected, and they bring disease with them, and if not, are very liable to catch any that happened to be contagious were they in its vicinity.

Dr. Simms reported that there were fourteen cases of typhoid fever, but the health officials found upon visiting the place that there were forty-two patients. These latter were huddled together in a terrible manner, the house being too small to accommodate so many inmates in the sick ward. The failure of the attending physician to report the disease [illegible] gained such fearful headway has been declared reprehensible.

The good sisters, one of whom died while in the performance of her charitable offices, in waiting upon the sick Magdalens, have been constantly upon their feet in this hospital for the past five days. Five sisters are now lying sick. The immediate neighborhood, which is a very thickly settled one, is greatly excited over the close proximity of "the fever" to the places of habitation, and everything that disinfection and cleaning can suggest, as a safeguard against the extension of the disease, is being done. There are numerous cases of typhoid and of spotted fever (or cerebro-spinal meningitis) reported in various sections of the city, which fact, coupled with the information that smallpox holds its own, is a sufficiently alarming exhibit. There were seventy-four cases of smallpox in Brooklyn last week, and thirty deaths occurred from that malady, being an increase of fourteen as compared with the preceding week.

The worst cases were removed from the House of the Good Shepherd in coaches to the hospital, Flatbush, yesterday afternoon. The names of those that were removed were Mary Quinn, Eliza Wilson, Mary Little, Margaret Sullivan, Mary Chapman, Elizabeth Heeney, Agnes O'Brien, Catherine Farron, Mary F. Kelly, Kate Leroy, Kate Fitzsimmons, Frances Corney, Julia Dunn and Annie Arbuckle.

Dr. Simms states that he first knew of the presence of the fever on Friday last, when he visited the sister who has since died. He attended the sick woman above alluded to by the Sister Superior, who, doubtless, brought the disease from her. Several of the other inmates then sickened.

There were on Tuesday forty-two inmates sick, but the Doctor said that all did not show symptoms of fever. The house has [illegible] for a number of patients. Another of the noble band of sisters was taken sick with the fever on Tuesday evening and yesterday she was no better. There are about sixty persons in the House at present. The worldly name of the sister who died Monday was Mary Levy, but her name in religion Dr. Simms did not remember. Hers was the only death there.

Twelve cases of spotted fever—three in [illegible] two in Livingston, two in Twenty-sixth, one in Twentieth, one in [illegible], one in [illegible], one in State and one in Hornblower streets—have been reported to the Health Bureau during the past week. There is a divergence of opinion among the faculty as to whether cerebro-spinal meningitis is contagious or not. The majority [illegible] appear to lean to the opinion, however, that it is not contagious.

THE HERALD CAPTURED CORRESPONDENT.—We present this morning the first instalment of news from our correspondent who has for the past few days been exulting beneath the smiles of the desperate Lowery gang. After making a formal conquest over the wife of the banditti chief—Lowery, it is alleged, has departed for a six weeks' vacation—seeing her to church on Sunday and other little Northern courtesies, he was unceremoniously introduced to two of the outlaws, armed in a terrifying style, who eventually entrusted him with some of their secrets, which he has transmitted for publication. The secrets were divulged, it appears, on some stringent conditions, one of which was that the intruder should in a solemn manner swear that he would not betray them. The most horrible death would immediately follow such conduct. The enterprise of the HERALD seems to favorably impress even these desperadoes, who, despite their bravado, have thus far treated their victim with decency and respect.

BEWARE OF APRIL FOOL HOAXES on the 1st of next April, especially when the returns from the Connecticut election begin to come in.

THE INTERNATIONAL ROWING MATCH.—The names of the members of the London Rowing Club that will compete with the Atalanta crew in their match on the Thames in June next are George Ryan, H. Gulston, William Stout and Albert de Laude Long, and not Stroat, as appeared in our columns yesterday morning.

THE HARTFORD Times—anti-administration—exhibits its love for antiquity by plunging into Noah's ark and bringing forth a paper, written by the venerable Gideon Welles, as a campaign document for the use of the democracy in the pending canvass in Connecticut.

THE LOVERS OF ART AND ART STUDENTS OF AMERICA generally will grieve at our telegram report to-day recording the ravages of the fire fiend in the Dusseldorf Gallery.

THE HARTFORD Courant—administration—believes that "Senator Wilson makes as good a campaign speech as any man in the country." Why should he not? If "practice makes perfect" it is personified in the electioneering abilities of the "junior Senator from Massachusetts."

The Revolution in England—Sir Charles Dilke's Speech—"The Cloud no Bigger than a Man's Hand."

The speech of Sir Charles Dilke in the House of Commons on Tuesday evening, as telegraphed to the HERALD, will make a profound and interesting impression upon our people. The scene in what the English are fond of calling "the most illustrious and venerable legislative assembly in the world" will recall to mind the good old times in Tammany Hall, before committees of seventy and Judge Bedford's grand juries had disturbed our civilization. In the "illustrious and venerable assembly" we learn that while Lord Bury was speaking "there were cheers and shouts and confusion on all sides," and that when Sir Charles Dilke arose there was "a storm of groans and cheers," that there was "derisive laughter in all parts of the house" and "so much confusion that the Speaker's voice was inaudible." When Auberon Herbert arose his voice was drowned with groans; there were many interruptions, and when at last the Speaker insisted upon order all of the conservatives and many of the liberals left their seats. The rule of the House is that unless there are forty members present the Speaker shall declare it adjourned. There must have been a small House, as three efforts were made to count it out during Mr. Herbert's speech. When the division came there were two hundred and seventy-six members present, two of whom voted for the motion of Sir Charles Dilke. All of which, occurring in "the most illustrious and venerable legislative assembly in the world," quite reconciles us to our Washington assembly, which sometimes performs queer antics, but never so extraordinary as what was seen in the House of Commons on Tuesday evening.

We are even more surprised at this demonstration when we come to analyze the motion of the honorable baronet. He simply moved for returns of the money spent upon the Crown and the various members of the royal family, and especially the revenues from the Duchies of Cornwall and Lancaster and the amounts paid to the Prince of Wales. A more innocent motion cannot be conceived; for if Englishmen who pay taxes are not to be informed of the disposition of their money they have no more freedom than the Arabs or the Chinese. The speech which explained and supported the motion was as mild as possible. Sir Charles merely "denounced sinecures" and wanted to know why princes who had allowances from the nation should live in royal lodges, and hinted that if the princes wanted yachts they should pay for them like gentlemen in America, and not make them a charge upon the navy. He furthermore thought that St. James' Palace was an unnecessary expense, that it cost thousands of pounds a year and did not serve even a royal purpose. Considering that St. James' Palace looks like a hospital, and is really an almshouse for decayed nobility, and might be put into the market as real estate for a million or two of pounds, this seems to be a just criticism. What surprises us in this speech is its temperance; yet we find Mr. Gladstone "sharply" chiding Sir Charles for his motion, and reproaching him for inaccuracy of statement. If that were his real objection Mr. Gladstone's proper course would have been to have agreed to the motion, for Sir Charles Dilke, as we understand him, was seeking information. The Premier, however, was swept away by the temper of the House, and he urged it upon every consideration to reject the motion. We are at a loss to understand the position of men like P. A. Taylor, Henry Fawcett and others of the extreme liberals, whose votes have always been radical, but who either remained away from the House or walked into the lobby with Mr. Gladstone. These men voted with Sir Charles Dilke against the allowance to Prince Alfred, and the dowry to the Princess Louise, on the occasion of her marriage to the Marquis of Lorne—acts in themselves as unpopular as the introduction of this resolution of inquiry. Why they should have abandoned him on Tuesday is a mystery that further advices must explain.

What, then, is the meaning of this extraordinary demonstration? The clamors of the House are nothing, for that "venerable and illustrious" assembly is a rowdy body, governed by parliamentary lynch law—volatile, easily moved, especially after dinner, with a good deal of romp about it, and apt to make a noise over Mr. Whalley's denunciations of the Pope or Mr. Newdegate's invectives against the Jesuits or some keen joke of the Prime Minister. Sir Charles Dilke had been making unwelcome speeches against the Crown during the recess, and he might be sure of a stormy reception when he came to the House. But this was something worse than rowdyism and noise. If Sir Charles Dilke and Auberon Herbert were mere agitators who denounced the Crown for a livelihood; if they were representatives of the laboring class, like Mr. Bradlaugh and Mr. Odger, anxious to speak for labor in Parliament; if they were fanatics on religion or divine right, or the pioneers of some reform in taxation, like Bright and Cobden when they began the Corn Law movement, there would have been opposition, and violence, perhaps, and a stormy scene in the Commons, but no such feeling as was shown on Tuesday evening. But Sir Charles Dilke and Mr. Herbert represent the aristocracy. The first is a baronet, a young man of large fortune, of generous, easy culture, who has had unusual opportunities for observation, the author of one of the most thoughtful books of travel that has been published for many years, a gentleman, a student, a man of honor and courage. Beginning his career in politics before thirty, he had simply to move on in the beaten track to become a useful member of the government—Prime Minister, perhaps, like Peel, with a coronet in his older days, like Walpole, for Walpole and Peel came from his class. All of this he has thrown aside, and not in the gloomy years of life, saddened and angry with disappointed ambition, but in the freshness of his youth, in the years of hope and promise. So also with Auberon Herbert, his sole companion in the lobby. He is also a young man—the brother of a peer, with the chance of a coronet himself as an inheritance—a member of an old and proud family, and beginning a career that would have opened to him as surely as it did to Lord John Russell if he had followed whig traditions. These men preached a new gospel. That gospel had been heard in Whitechapel and Bethnal Green, and from the mouths of a grim and pitiless mob tearing down Hyde Park gates. A regiment of guards was always at hand to blow it out with a whiff if it became troublesome. It was the gospel of social discontent and ignorance, only worthy of cancer—something low and vulgar—as hateful as Communism, without the courage of the Commune. But now it is preached in the House of Commons, and its apostles are English gentlemen, in whose veins runs the blue blood of the nobility. For the first time since the days of Cromwell has republicanism found a champion in Parliament; for, as we understand the position of John Wilkes and Sir Francis Burdett and Cobbett, and the earlier radicals, it was not republicanism they advocated, but reform and extension of the suffrage.

Behind this movement there is a growing public opinion which cannot be suppressed by the jeers of the House of Commons. Those who recall Victor Hugo's marvellous story will remember the scene when Gwynplaine, as Lord Clancharlie, threw off his plumed cap and proceeded to address the House of Lords in opposition to a grant to Prince George of Denmark, the husband of Queen Anne. "My Lords," said Gwynplaine, "I am from the depths, and I represent Misery;" and the lords laughed and jeered and shouted like schoolboys at play, and rushed out of the house in uncontrollable glee. The voice comes again, not merely to a laughing house, but to an angry, anxious house, to Commoners who see behind these young men Misery, Care, Want—centuries of political injustice, crimes in India, crimes in Ireland—traditions which have become laws, and which make England to-day the happiest country in the world for men of large incomes and the saddest for those who labor. They see a public opinion which is becoming more and more educated every day. Stronger as England is, and happy as Queen Victoria must be in the loyalty of her subjects, the opinion represented by Sir Charles Dilke cannot be despised. The fact of its being in a minority in the Commons means nothing. Every cause begins with the minority. Before the artillery are put in line the pickets feel the way. The Corn law agitation at the outset had two men to lead it. When Charles Sumner and Salmon P. Chase sat in the Senate as the pioneer republicans they were despised and denounced. Yet in ten years their party took possession of the country and changed the political destinies of America. A minority, however small, is powerful if it represents a principle. We hear of that "desperate courage which makes one a majority;" but this is a higher courage. England ruled by her lords and middle classes cannot sit still, relying upon her army and navy and the Bank of England, and afford to despise this movement. England cannot point to the crowds who swarmed from Ludgate Hill to the Marble Arch, the other day, to see the Queen, as an evidence of immutable loyalty. There would have been as great a crowd to have seen the presumed Sir Roger Tichborne on his road to Tyburn. "What an enthusiastic multitude," said one of Napoleon's marshals to him, as they stood at the window of an Italian palace receiving the homage of the multitude. "The crowd would be as enthusiastic if I stood on the scaffold," was the reply. This political sentimentality means nothing. The storms will come and go, ruffling the surface of the sea, at the mercy of the uncertain winds, but the deep ocean currents—gulf streams and Japan currents—move on forever and forever in their duly appointed array. We cannot read the political signs of a nation like England by looking at the surface. "Somehow," wrote Hawthorne many years ago, "I feel in this country of England a sense of the uneasiness and instability of society—as it were the deep, low rumbling which precedes the earthquake." It is madness to close the eye to these phenomena. We are told in the Scriptures of the cloud that arose in the heavens no bigger than a man's hand, and those who read the parable will see what became of the proud and foolish men who disregarded the omen.

We have only to remember ourselves in 1860 to rate at its true value "the loyalty of England," and the unseemly expression given to it by the House of Commons; remember our demonstrations in favor of love and peace and union in the months after Lincoln's election, and how we mobbed Phillips and Curtis and the pestiferous abolitionists whenever they appeared in public. Yet in a few months we were in arms and waging a cruel, deadly war upon each other, doing murder and pillage and desolation, with the kisses and vows still fresh upon our lips. The elements of war were in our political system. They had been germinating since 1820. The spark fell from Sumter, and the flames arose. The elements of revolution are in the political system of England. Every day they show more life. May God in his mercy and loving kindness make it a peaceful revolution, and teach the statesmen of England wisdom and courage, that the nation may go through the inevitable trial, and attain the ultimate blessings of freedom and justice without being compelled to pass into that dark and fearful valley by which alone we achieved our revolution and attained union, peace and emancipation!

THE BOSTON Traveller—administration—dogmatically, if not judgmatically, remarks that "it is now certain General Grant will be the candidate of the republican party, and that no nomination will be made by the democratic party." Where the Traveller obtained the information furnished in the latter part of the above sentence is not stated. It must be news to many democrats.

THE MORMON STATE MOVEMENT is a painful evidence of labor to no purpose. With much flourish and display the leaders of the Saints, having formed a constitution-framing convention, went on Tuesday last through the form of a State election. The object of all this plainly is to give the control of the present Territory once more into the hands of the Mormon priesthood. As the greater number of them are under indictment for murder or lewdness, this consummation is all the more devoutly to be wished. But the stain of polygamy still darkens their record, and until that is removed they can expect no relief in regard to a State government. It requires the action of Congress to create a new State, and the Congress has not assembled yet which would dare to clothe the indecency and barbarism of polygamy with State rights.

The Shipping Interests of the United States and the Subsidy Jobs—The True Policy of the Government.

The application of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for an increased subsidy from the government, which is now being so pertinaciously urged upon Congress, is only the precursor of a number of similar jobs that, in the event of its success, will follow closely in its wake. According to our Washington advices there is a good prospect of the overthrow of all these schemes to obtain the people's money under the false pretence of fostering the shipping interests of the country; but past experience teaches us that the persons interested in them are sturdy lobbyists who will neglect no means to accomplish their object, and it is therefore incumbent upon the opponents of the subsidy policy to be vigilant and unceasing in their efforts to defeat the pioneer movement. In the particular case of the Pacific Mail Company there is neither reason nor justice in its attempt to transfer a large amount of money from the public treasury into its own coffers. It has not been shown that such aid, even if justifiable, is a necessity, and there is every reason to believe that if granted by Congress it would mainly find its way into the pockets of the lobby and the ring, and would not be applied to the legitimate purposes of the company. The Pacific Mail service ought to be not only self-sustaining but remunerative, and before any demand can be justly made upon the country for assistance it should at least be shown that the affairs of the company have been wisely and economically administered. Now, it is well known that the side wheel boats of that line are the most extravagant that sail the ocean. Side-wheel steamers are discarded on the Atlantic. The Scotia is the only one of that description now running between Europe and America, and it is notorious that she is kept more as a show than for profit, as she does not pay her expenses. Iron propellers can alone be made profitable ocean boats, and the longer the voyage the more important, and, indeed, imperative, becomes the saving of fuel and the economy of space secured by this class of steamers. The boats of the Pacific Mail line are safe and fine steamships, but they are not such as the company would have built if guided by experience and prudence, and it is not proper that the people who have no interest in the service should be called upon to reimburse the corporation for its errors and recklessness of management. There is every reason, therefore, on the simple merits of the case, why the application of the company for an increased and heavy subsidy should be promptly rejected by Congress, and the people will not be disposed, in these days of reform, to regard with favor or without suspicion those representatives who are found advocating and supporting the unjustifiable job.

Apart from these abstract considerations, the country is rapidly becoming convinced that the policy of the government in regard to our shipping interests is radically wrong and is inflicting serious injury upon the nation. In his last annual report the Secretary of the Treasury commented in forcible language on the loss of our commerce consequent upon the decline of our shipping interests. He showed from the returns of the last fiscal year that the ocean commerce of the United States is rapidly passing into the hands of foreign merchants and shipbuilders, and that we lose one hundred million dollars annually in the returns for freights and passengers, the great bulk of which is transmitted directly abroad. "The history of the loss of our commerce," says Secretary Boutwell, "renders it certain that without some efficient action on the part of the government the entire foreign trade of the country will soon pass into the hands of our rivals. The monopoly of the trade between the United States and Europe by foreign merchants and shipbuilders carries with it the monopoly of shipbuilding for the entire world, and as a consequence the Atlantic trade, the trade of the Pacific and the seas adjacent thereto will be carried on in English built steamers." This picture is strongly, but not extravagantly, colored. But to what causes are these disastrous effects attributable? The acts of the Anglo-Confederate privateers during the war of the rebellion, of course, dealt a terrible blow to our ocean commerce. Our flag was driven from the seas, and the carrying trade of the world, for which we were fast becoming successful competitors with England, passed wholly into the hands of foreigners. But nine years have elapsed since the war closed; other interests that had been prostrated during our struggle for national existence have been revived, and are again strong and flourishing. The States have returned to productiveness and prosperity; the country is rich; the national debt is being decreased at a rate that astonishes ourselves as well as foreigners, and the destruction and desolation of war have entirely passed away. Why is it that our shipping interests alone show no revival, but rather droop and decline more and more year after year, until, as Secretary Boutwell says, it becomes almost certain that "the entire foreign trade of the country will soon pass into the hands of our rivals?" Is it because we do not give a paltry subsidy here and there to an ocean steamship line, or is it because the policy of our government is radically wrong, and has succeeded in destroying the most important interest of the nation?

Secretary Boutwell's remarks are the most severe commentary that could be made on the mistaken policy we have pursued during the past eight or nine years. Nothing can be more conclusive proof of our error than the fact that our shipping interests under the government policy have gone from bad to worse, until they are now almost wholly destroyed. We have shut out our ship owners from buying in a foreign market by refusing American registry to foreign-built vessels. The consequence is the loss to the country of one hundred million dollars annually for freights and passengers in the Atlantic trade. We have "protected" our iron interests so effectually that iron ship building in the United States is scarcely attempted. To remedy these evils Secretary Boutwell proposes that we shall guarantee subsidies to persons who may run lines of American built first class iron steamships of not less than two thousand tons burden; and on the strength of this recommendation a hungry lobby crowds the national capital, demanding large grants from the Treasury with all the confidence and persistence of professional beggars. It is time that this blind and pernicious trifling with a great question should cease; for every year of continued depression of our shipping interests inflicts a dangerous injury on the nation. Does Mr. Boutwell suppose that the patching up of a bankrupt transportation company here and there will accomplish a revolution in our commerce, will set our shipyards alive with business, will draw to our shores skilled mechanics and engineers, will develop our vast iron resources and cover the ocean with our vessels? If he does he must possess a fruitful imagination and a sanguine temperament. If his policy is to prove so efficacious in the case of our ocean shipping interests what is to prevent its application to all other interests? Our river freight lines and our canal transportation companies are necessary to the commerce of the country, and when trade is drooping and dividends are small why should they not be entitled to their subsidy as justly as is the Pacific Mail company? If we are to give away the people's money in gratuities to private corporations we shall insist that the distribution be made general.

There is but one remedy for the evils under which we now rest, and that is the adoption of a broad and statesmanlike policy that will serve to direct capital again into the channel from which it was driven by the war of the rebellion, and from which it has been effectually excluded since through the fatuity of our rulers. Let our ship owners, or those who would be our ship owners, purchase their vessels in the cheapest and best market they can find, and let American registry be accorded to every vessel owned by American citizens, no matter where she may have been built. We shall then soon have American lines of ocean steamers competing with those of foreign nations, and surpassing them through the natural enterprise and energy of our countrymen. Let all articles needed in iron ship building be admitted free of duty, and we shall then soon have our Pennsylvania Rip Van Winkles awake to the progress of the age and willing to seek in large sales and quick returns the profits they now strive to squeeze out of class legislation and miscalled protection. Capital once directed into the channel of ship building and ship ownership will not again leave it, and we shall soon see our shipyards full of life and bustle. A great nation like the United States must be powerful on the sea as well as on the land, and it is well known that an efficient merchant marine is the groundwork of naval power. Every year that is lost in the petty policy of lobby subsidies is an injury to the nation's honor and a peril to the nation's safety. We have experienced eight years of such statesmanship, and its effect is before the world. It is now time that it should cease and give way to broader and more enlightened views. The people are tired of lobbies and jobs and government tinkers. They are ahead of their rulers, and can comprehend the great and glorious future that is in store for the republic. Let their voices be heeded by Congress, and let the effect be first shown by the prompt rejection of these lobby subsidy schemes and the conversion of Secretary Boutwell from his tinkering Yankee notions of government. If the Pacific Mail Steamship Company cannot stand alone let it fall to pieces, and then, under the policy of free trade in ships and ship building materials, we shall speedily have lines of ocean steamships, both on the Pacific and the Atlantic, flying the Stars and Stripes and competing gallantly and successfully for the carrying trade of the world.

VICE PRESIDENT COLFAX writes to ex-Governor Hawley, of Connecticut, expressing his pleasure at the result in New Hampshire, and saying "it would be a great pity to sadden any with a democratic victory in Connecticut." The "saddest of any" will probably be the democrats themselves when the result in Connecticut becomes known.

The Smallpox Hospitals.

In another place in these columns will be found an interesting and instructive excerpt from the able and valuable annual report of Dr. Macdonald, chief of the medical staff of the Smallpox Hospital of this city. This hospital is under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction. It is not always that we feel it to be at one and the same time a duty and a privilege to speak well of an institution and its managers. In the case now before us there really is but little, if any, room for exception. Dr. Macdonald's report is in the last degree satisfactory. That the hospital has served a good purpose is manifest from the fact that it received during the year nearly three thousand patients, and that of these only five hundred and thirty-three died. The rate of mortality in this virulent and fatal disease as treated in the hospital has been only slightly over twenty-one per cent. It is no doubt a large death record; but when it is known that in the English hospitals, where it is supposed by many that perfection in the mode of treatment has been reached, the death rate has been twenty-seven per cent, and that in this city the cases taken charge of by the Board of Health and managed without removal from home have revealed a death rate of thirty-five and one-third per cent, or over fourteen per cent more than those treated in the hospital, it will be admitted that it is larger in seeming than in reality. Dr. Macdonald is not without reason for saying that pauperism has its advantages. It will be found by those who read the report that it offers a complete refutation of certain charges made against smallpox hospitals in general. It is shown that while grumbling is common on the part of the patients it is often without cause. Most of the patients are in the hospitals against their wills; in such circumstances grumbling is most natural. When patients become partially convalescent they are impatient to get out; resistance to their wishes makes them grumble. Then, again, fault is found with the food given to the patients; but the report shows that the table is furnished according to the rules adopted for Bellevue and charity hospitals, and that if there be any error in the observance of these rules the error is on the side of liberality. Many complaints have been made because anxious—more anxious than wise—friends were denied access to the hospital. When the contagious, virulent and most dangerous character of the disease is borne in mind, most persons, we think, will justify the management in this particular and reject the complaint. On the whole, we consider Dr. Macdonald's report as highly satisfactory.

The Alabama Claims Negotiations and British Crown Right of Treaty Making.

The correspondence which has been conducted between Secretary Fish and the British Cabinet on the subject of the Alabama claims bill adjustment was brought to the notice of the English Parliament again yesterday. The Right Honorable Edward Horsman, member for Liskeard, a reformer in politics, and a man who has had considerable official experience as a Lord of the Treasury and Chief Secretary for Ireland, moved in the matter, in accordance with his notice, which has been already published in the HERALD. Mr. Horsman did not impugn the essentials of the case as an international one in any respect, particularly with reference to the unity of the American bill of damages, or the liability of Great Britain for its discharge. His anxiety was expressed with reference to the constitutional right, power and independence of Parliament with regard to treaty making, as against any executive assumption tending towards the fixing of an unusual precedent in that respect on the part of the Ministry of the monarch. Mr. Horsman wished the Queen's Cabinet to pledge itself to Parliament that, "in case fresh negotiations relative to the Alabama claims are entered upon with the American government, no proposals will be finally accepted until they have received the sanction of Parliament."

The principle involved in Mr. Horsman's resolution is not of exact interest to the American people in the present instance—his Parliamentary profession, by the wording of the paper, appears to be more serious. When he uses the words "in case fresh negotiations relative to the Alabama", and the remainder, does he mean to convey that the negotiations which have been already had between the United States and the Queen have failed, or does he profess to know that they have been successful to the point which has been already reached and require merely some technical elaboration to insure their friendly completion? The cable news report does not elucidate the perplexity. Premier Gladstone's reply does not make it anything more clear. The chief of the Cabinet confined his explanation to the constitutional point. Parliament shall be at all times duly informed as to the policy and direction of the ministerial action, the Queen's speech at the opening of the session having acknowledged the monarchical liability in this respect by Her Majesty's reference to the Alabama claims case. Ministers are yet in consultation with respect to the terms of the official exposition which shall be made to the Legislature, members would be duly enlightened, but it would be "impossible to allow Parliament the treaty-making power." The American people can thus perceive that the treatment of the Alabama claims case by the Washington government is likely to advance to a beneficial fruition a very grand principle of popular self-government in Britain, by ultimately bringing the treaty-making power within the control of the popular will expressed in Parliament, as it is in the United States, and thus prevent the occurrence in the future of international misunderstandings through the caprice or envy or prejudice of aristocracy of individuals or Cabinet officers.

THE BOSTON Traveller is more prosaical than poetical when it says:—

CHASE TO SUMNER.
Where you are now, so once was I;
Where I am now, you soon will be.

A seat upon the Supreme Bench for Mr. Sumner might not be an unhappy event, in case of a vacancy occurring by the elevation of Judge Davis to the Presidency.

THE KAISER'S SUBSTITUTE FOR THE CONCORDAT IN ALSACE AND LORRAINE.—The federal Councils of Alsace and Lorraine, in which are vested the legislative power for the recently acquired German territory, are engaged in drafting a statute for the regulation of the Catholic Church within the provinces. The Kaiser thus indicates his determination to rule his newly conquered people in his own way; and now that the Concordat of 1801 with France has ceased to have any binding effect in these provinces German laws for the regulation of the Catholic religion will supply its place. This step is decided upon, and there will be no departure from it, as Cardinal Antonelli has been, no doubt, already notified that overtures with the view to the re-establishment of the Concordat in the conquered provinces will not be considered in Berlin.

THE NEW HAVEN Palladium—administration—announces that Chief Justice Chase has gone to New York to urge Mr. Belmont to call a meeting of the Democratic National Committee, to meet at an early day, to take action regarding the calling of a National Convention. The Palladium thinks the Chief Justice might be more profitably employed. Perhaps he is.

Personal Intelligence.

General W. Preston, of Kentucky, is stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

George Francis Train has turned up at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Colonel Robert M. Douglas, of Washington, D. C., is at the St. Nicholas Hotel. This gentleman, who is the son of the "Little Giant," has not embraced the political faith of his father and is the private secretary of President Grant.

Captain Gurdon, of the British Navy, has arrived at the Brevoort House. This officer has for some months been traveling through the Southern States.

General George H. Sheridan and ex-Superintendent of Police J. W. Sworde, of New Orleans, who accompanied Governor Warmoth to Washington yesterday, returned to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and in the evening left there for Boston.

Vice Ambassador T. M. Okubo and seven other members of the Japanese embassy reached the St. Nicholas Hotel last evening.

General Ben Butler arrived from Washington at the Astor House yesterday. In the evening he departed for Boston.

The Rev. Father Doering of the Greek chapel on Second avenue, sails to-day on the steamer Holsatia for Hamburg. He will proceed from there to St. Petersburg, while his wife and child will go to Stuttgard. The object of the reverend gentleman's visit to St. Petersburg is to accustom the Patriarchal Council with the needs of the members of the Greek faith in this city, and to procure permission to erect a church edifice here.

H. B. LOWERY ON A TRIP.

Menaces and Vindictiveness of the Criminal Rovers.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 20, 1872.

I continue the narrative of events in the unparalleled journalistic triumph achieved by the HERALD in its determined purpose to obtain at every cost and every personal risk by its representatives all attainable information regarding the Carolina outlaws who have defied an entire commonwealth, laughed at the power of a mighty nation, and brought to shame the boasted civilization of the nineteenth century. In my despatches of yesterday I detailed the adventures of your correspondent who is now in the hands of the Lowerys, up to the point of his perilous and romantic entrée into the district in which the Lowerys bear almost undisputed sway.

THE FIRST ACCURATE INTELLIGENCE.

The HERALD bureau of information in Wilmington is to-day possessed of full and accurate information regarding the subsequent adventures of your correspondent among the outlaws, which information fully corroborates the previous accounts emanating from the same source. After leaving the train your correspondent boldly penetrated the terra incognita of swamps and forests, and, after overcoming prodigious difficulties, finally reached the residence of old Mrs. Lowery, the mother of the Carolina banditti, who boasts her maternity of the bold outlaws of the swamps as proudly, perhaps, as did the Roman mother of the Gracchi, who could point to no jewels save her children. I shall not attempt to describe the perils and difficulties happily surmounted by your correspondent in reaching the residence of

THE MOTHER OF THE CAROLINA ROB ROY,

Henry Berry Lowery, in the pursuance of his dauntless purpose to give the HERALD readers all the information possible concerning the outlaws. His trials and perils were amply rewarded by subsequent developments. Old Mrs. Lowery consented to carry the HERALD representative to the cabin of Henry Berry Lowery, where he met Rhody Lowery, the wife of the Robin Hood of Robeson county, the Circe who has held for years the enamored allegiance of the outlaw chief, and the siren who may yet recall him to the haunts which he has temporarily forsaken.

THE BANDIT'S WIFE AS A MEDIATOR.

At once between Rhody Lowery and the HERALD correspondent there was established mutual confidence. The "Queen of Scuffletown" promptly realized the dignity of her position as the mediator between the outlaws commanded by her husband and the great representative journal of America, which is giving to the world the authentic narrative of the exploits of her husband and his confederates. Rhody promptly consented to obtain the desired meeting between the outlaws and the representative of the HERALD. In his dexterous wooing of the wife of the outlaw, in his purpose to make her an auxiliary to the grand enterprise of giving to the world the heretofore unfathomable existence of the Lowery gang, your correspondent gave a striking exemplification of tact and enterprise. He remained the

and on Sunday last gallantly attended her to church, and after the services were finished accompanied her back to her cabin. A few moments after the arrival of the HERALD representative at Rhody's cabin she consented to bring about the desired meeting between the outlaws; and the correspondent of the HERALD, absenting himself from the cabin for a few moments, was startled and naturally filled with apprehension at the sight of who, as if by almost supernatural agency, had entered the cabin at the summons of Rhody Lowery, and stood in the door as he prepared to re-enter. These men, who seemed to the HERALD representative to be apparitions of appalling mien and purpose, were Andrew Strong, the brother of the now world famous "Boss" Strong and Steve Lowery, the brother of Henry Berry Lowery, who, through the medium of the HERALD, has already as widely extended a notoriety as attaches to the names of the most famous of the robber chieftains whom fiction has created.

HE IS EYED WITH SUSPICION.

Eyeing the HERALD representative with a suspicion not unnatural in outlaws who have for years defied society and upon whose heads a price of thousands of dollars has been set, your correspondent was immediately impelled to the employment of all his ingenuity and address to secure, first, his personal safety, and, secondly, the great objects of the HERALD mission into the realm of the outlaws. The HERALD'S skilful addresses to Rhody Lowery had, however, happily broken the ice between himself and the outlaws, and the way was speedily prepared for an understanding which, however menacing to your representative, was at least incapable of misinterpretation. Gradually gaining the confidence of the outlaws, as he had already gained the confidence of Rhody Lowery by a prompt and frank statement of his mission, as the representative of the greatest New York journal, your correspondent at once entered upon the objects of his enterprise.

BOSS STRONG ONLY WOUNDED, NOT DEAD.

The first result of his interview with Andrew Strong and Steve Lowery was the discovery of the important fact that "Boss" Strong was not dead, as had been previously reported. "Boss ain't dead nohow," was the constantly reiterated statement of the outlaws, who, however, frankly confessed, and with apparent anxiety as to the result of the wound received by their confederate, that "Boss was hurt powerful bad, though." Having discussed the shooting of Boss Strong, the HERALD representative next addressed himself to the endeavor to ascertain positive information as to Henry Berry Lowery; concerning whom Wilmington has lately been rife with conflicting rumors.

HENRY LOWERY GONE OFF FOR SIX WEEKS.

The denial of the death of Henry Berry Lowery made by the outlaws to the HERALD correspondent was quite as emphatic as was their denial of the death of Boss Strong. "Henry Berry Lowery ain't dead by no means and he will be heard from soon enough," was the reiterated statement of Steve Lowery and Andrew Strong. They stated, moreover, to the correspondent that the outlaw chieftain had "gone away to be gone six weeks and that he had not yet been gone but four weeks." These two leading points as to the fate of the leader of the gang and his most trusted lieutenants having been ascertained from the outlaws, they withdrew and held a conference, the result of which was speedily made known to the representative of the HERALD, and left him in no doubt as to the fearfully dramatic and perilous situation in which he was placed.

THE FARCE OF MAKING HIM A PRISONER.

He was told that having become cognizant of most vital facts pertaining to the status of the gang he must dismiss all expectation of leaving them until they had become satisfied of his purposes towards themselves, significantly reminding him of the fate of Saunders, the detective, and others who had obtained their confidence for the purpose of betraying them.

I SWEAR! I SWEAR ALLEGIANCE!

They proceeded to bind him to fidelity to themselves during his sojourn among them by the most terrible oaths, accompanied by equally terrible imprecations and menaces as to his fate should he prove false to his obligations. Then, while left in the enjoyment of nominal liberty in his personal movements, the HERALD correspondent has been constantly menaced with death in such a form as makes even a bold man shudder at the very contemplation, constantly haunted by the terrible apparition of death in its most shocking forms, and aware that leaves no room to cherish the hope of escape, it is easy to conceive his hopeless situation until the purposes of his detention by the outlaws have been fully realized. He has been seen at several points by citizens of Robeson county, apparently free in all his movements, but none the less subject to the scrutiny of those who hold him in their merciless grasp, and who will not hesitate to wreak upon him a terrible vengeance, of which their previous murderous deeds give ample guarantee, in the event of any inadvertence which may possibly give ground for suspicion of betrayal. To-day the HERALD correspondent made and delivered the first instalment of his correspondence to the HERALD from the dominions of the outlaws, which I have forwarded to the HERALD office by to-night's mail. I have established reliable, though as yet not necessarily regular, means of communication with the representative of the HERALD in the lair of the Lowerys, and your readers will be kept accurately and constantly advised of the details of his perilous mission to the swamp and fastness of the outlaws of Carolina.

HIS APPEARANCE AT LUMBERTON,

IS BOSS STONG DEAD?

Interesting Particulars as to His Supposed Shooting by McQueen—A Lumberton Paper Professes to Know All About It.

[From the Lumberton (N. C.) Robesonian.]

We are gratified to be able to announce this week that another of the Lowery band of outlaws has probably been sent to that bourn from which no traveller ever returns. Boss Strong, one of the fiercest devils of the pack, was shot, and in all probability killed, by Mr. James McQueen, a resolute and determined young man, who had for some time been watching the movements of the outlaws.

THE MAN WHO SHOT THE "BOSS."

The circumstances, as detailed to us by Deputy Sheriff McLean, are as follows:—On Thursday night of last week, about midnight, Mr. McQueen left Shoe Heel alone, provided with rations for a day or two and well armed with a long range rifle and one or two good repeaters, and walked in the direction of Scuffletown. A short time before daylight he arrived in the neighborhood of the cabin of Andrew Strong, one of the outlaws, and, approaching within two hundred yards of the hut, he concealed himself among the bushes, where he remained all day Friday. Late Friday evening he discovered the two brothers, Boss and Andrew Strong, approach and enter the cabin. After the outlaws had taken their supper and everything became quiet

MR. McQUEEN STEALTHILY DREW NEAR AND CRAWLED UP TO THE DOOR.

A small opening at the bottom of the shutter—technically termed in log cabin parlance a cat hole—enabled him to take a partial survey of the interior. The two outlaws were lying upon their backs on the floor, while Andrew's wife and mother were sitting smoking in the corner. Mr. McQueen listened for some time to the conversation that was passing between them, which was confined to the men, and which seemed to relate mainly to complaints of the Lowery members of the band, who, the Strongs thought, were not disposed to allow them a fair share of the spoils taken by the band.

JUST BEFORE DEATH.

At length Boss drew from his pocket a small harp upon which he commenced playing a tune, and McQueen, taking advantage of the sound of the music to drown any slight noise he might make in bringing his rifle into position, threw himself flat on the ground, and, placing the muzzle of his gun at the small opening above described, took which lay at a distance of about three feet from the door, and fired. The ball took effect, and the outlaw shrugged his shoulders once or twice, as if making feeble efforts to lift himself up, when he became perfectly quiet and lay motionless, apparently quite dead. Immediately upon the firing Andrew exclaimed,

"DAR, BOSS, YOU'VE GONE AND KILLED YOURSELF! I been a tellin' you about bein' so careless wid your gun." And one of the women cried, "Lord-a-massa, dat harp done bust an' killed Boss." The true state of the case was, however, in a moment suspected, the "cat hole" was closed, and Andrew took refuge in a corner, where it was impossible to draw a bead on him from the outside.

LYING IN WAIT FOR ANDREW.

Mr. McQueen now concealed himself behind the chimney, where he remained for some time, hoping that Andrew would come out to discover the source of the firing. But the trembling outlaw bravely sent his wife out to reconnoitre, who soon returned and reported no discovery. Andrew, however, still kept his retreat in the corner, and finding it impossible to draw him out Mr. McQueen returned as fast as he could to Shoe Heel to procure assistance. He could find no one, however, who was willing to accompany him back to the scene of danger, and was compelled to wait till Saturday morning before he could collect a force to return.

VAIN EFFORTS TO RECOVER THE BODY—THE WOMEN'S STORIES.

He succeeded, however, at length in mustering a few men, who arrived at the house of the outlaw about ten A. M., but only to find that the game had escaped. They found in the hut only two women, the wives of Andrew Strong and H. B. Lowery, who were busy washing the blood stains from the floor, and stated that the dead body of Boss Strong had been taken away an hour earlier by Stephen Lowery and Andrew Strong, but in what direction they did not know, as they had been compelled to turn their eyes in an opposite direction and threatened with death if they looked after them until the body had been borne quite out of sight. Deeming it useless to make any search for the body, the party returned to Shoe Heel, and though there seems to be his body will probably never be recovered. The failure to secure the body is peculiarly unfortunate, as the reward cannot be claimed until the body is "delivered to the Sheriff of the county."

NO DOUBT THAT THE OUTLAW WAS KILLED,

DISCOVERY OF STOLEN GOODS IN THE CABIN.

Before leaving the house Mr. McQueen and his party made a cursory search of the premises and found a portion of the goods taken from the store of Mr. A. H. McLeod, and also one or two articles taken from the Sheriff's office on the occasion of the recent robbery in this town.

THE WEATHER.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21—1 A. M.

Synopsis for the Past Twenty-four Hours.

The barometer has continued rising from the upper lakes to the Gulf and eastward to the Atlantic, with westerly to northerly winds, falling temperature and clear weather, except over the lake region, where partly cloudy weather, with occasional light snow, has prevailed. Northeasterly winds have continued over the western Gulf States. The barometer is high throughout the Mississippi Valley.

The display of cautionary signals along the lakes will be resumed April 1.

Probabilities.

The barometer will continue rising on Thursday from the lower lakes to Florida and eastward, with westerly to northerly winds and clear but continued cold weather; easterly winds will prevail over the western Gulf States; falling barometer, with winds backing to southerly, will prevail over the Northwest on Thursday and gradually extend to the Ohio Valley and over the upper lakes. The wind will probably diminish in force over the New England and Middle States on Thursday.

Dangerous winds are not anticipated for the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, excepting brisk and high northwesterly from Cape Hatteras northeastward.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

British Parliamentary Anxiety Relative to the Cabinet Negotiations with Washington.

The Treaty-Making Power and Rights of the Crown Impossible to Delegate It from the Monarch to the Legislature.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, March 20, 1872.

During the session of the House of Commons this evening the Right Hon. Edward Horsman, member for Liskeard, a reformer in politics, acting in accordance with his expressly recorded intention, asked, for the second time, Her Majesty's government to "assure Parliament that in case fresh negotiations relative to the Alabama claims were entered upon with the American government, no proposals would be finally accepted until they had received the sanction of Parliament."

Mr. Gladstone, in reply to Mr. Horsman's question, said he informed the honorable gentleman last night that he had been unable to consult with his colleagues on the subject. He added that he was yet without the opportunity to do so, and consequently was not able to give the assurance asked for. He would state, however, "that Parliament would be informed at all times of the spirit, aim, direction and policy of the government on all important questions. So far as the Alabama claims were concerned he believed the speech of Her Majesty at the opening of the session gave all the necessary information."

Mr. Gladstone, in concluding, said it would be impossible for the government to delegate to Parliament the power of making treaties.

Mr. Horsman, in reply to the last portion of Mr. Gladstone's remarks, cited the fact that the American Senate had the power to ratify or reject any treaty which the government may negotiate.

Mr. Gladstone repeated his assertion that "it would be impossible to allow Parliament the treaty-making power," but at the same time stated that it was "the duty of the government to keep Parliament informed of any alteration in the governmental policy."

Treasury Estimates and Parliamentary Discussion of the Budget.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

ROME, March 20, 1872.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies was engaged to-day in the discussion of the budget, which has been made a Cabinet question by the Ministry.

Fiscal Exhibit of the United Nation.

The condition of the national treasury with the coincident consideration of the questions of taxation, public debt, income and expenditure constitute the really serious subject which presents to the Cabinet of the Italian nation consolidated in Rome. The budget for the financial year 1871-72 was presented to the Parliament on the 15th of March last year. It showed a probable deficit of 270,000,000 lire in the budget of 1872, including 24,000,000 of credits claimed by the War Department for the increase of the military forces of the country. Under these circumstances the Minister proposed to the Chamber to renounce the sale of rules of Italian rente authorized by a former law to an amount of 150,000,000 lire, and to replace that resource by an augmentation of ten per cent on the direct taxes. King Victor Emmanuel discussed the plan in Cabinet meeting and had a dispute with Minister of Finance Sella on the subject. The latter positively refused to include in his budget a sum asked for by the Minister of War for various new fortifications, especially for those of Rome, and some high words passed between the two Ministers in consequence at the Council. The King, being informed of what had occurred, sent for Señor Sella, and told him, in some of that very plain language which His Majesty is said to use when in a passion, what he thought of his conduct. His financial policy, he said, "besides being an utter failure, crippled the strength and efficiency of the army; and, by refusing the means absolutely necessary for the defence of the country, endangered the safety of the State. I am heartily tired (exclaimed the King) of your way of doing business, and must request you to obtain the funds required for the expenses of the State in some other way than by totally divesting the country of its protection; for this I will never allow."

German Project of an International Alliance for War.

ROME, March 20, 1872.

It is rumored that Herr Von Arnim, who recently arrived here from Berlin, is the bearer of a proposition for a treaty of defensive alliance between Italy and Germany whereby the possession of Lorraine and Alsace is guaranteed to Germany, and Rome to Italy and both parties are to unite their armies in case of war.

Minister Schenck "Cleared" from the Gallery of the Commons—Sir George Dilke Finds Three Supporters—The Military Volunteer Review—"Orton"-Tichborne's Criminal Case.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, March 20, 1872.

Towards the close of the debate on Sir Charles Dilke's motion in the House of Commons last night, and just previous to the taking of the division, Lord George Hamilton rose to a question of privilege, and called the attention of the Speaker to demonstrations which were being made by "persons in the visitors' and reporter's galleries in violation of the rules of Parliament." The galleries were cleared by order of the Speaker.

Hon. Robert C. Schenck, United States Minister to the Queen's Court, was present in the visitors' gallery at the moment, and was among the persons who were removed by the officers of the House.

THE DILKE LEGION AT THE CITIZEN THERMOPYLÆ.

Sir Wilfred Lawson, member for Carlisle, and Mr. George Anderson, member for Glasgow, in addition to Mr. Auberon Herbert, supported the resolution offered by Sir Charles Dilke in the House of Commons last night for an investigation of the expenses of the Crown. Mr. Herbert and Mr. Anderson were among the tellers appointed to count the vote on Sir Charles' motion.

"ORTON"-TICHBORNE'S BAIL CASE.

When the case of the Tichborne estate claimant, now in prison under a charge of perjury, was called in court to-day no one appeared to bail him, as was expected, and it was announced that he was unable to obtain bail. The application of the claimant to be released on giving bonds for his appearance was therefore postponed sine die by order of the Judge.

Disastrous Fire in Dusseldorf and Destruction of the Gallery of Art—Loss of Most Valuable Paintings.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

DUSSELDORF, March 20, 1872.

A conflagration, attended with most disastrous results, occurred here last night. The Town Council Hall and the world-famed Academy of Art were burned, and a large number of the most valuable paintings in the latter building were destroyed.

The Art Gallery and School of Dusseldorf.

The famous little city of Dusseldorf has of late years contained nothing worthy of particular notice, except its gallery of art and its school of living artists, the latter a favorite resort of American students. The gallery and theatre occupied, until the occurrence of the conflagration, a palace built by the Elector, John William, whose bronze equestrian statue stands in the market place. The main portion of the Art Treasures building was destroyed by the French bombardment in the year 1794. Here, to the year 1805, the famous collection of pictures now known as the Munich Gallery was to be seen. All the works were removed at that time save one large painting, "The Assencion of the Virgin," said to be by Rubens, but of inferior quality. The collection of drawings by the old masters was, however, the chief attraction of the place. It numbered about fifteen thousand pieces, including several by Raphael, Guido, Romano, Michael Angelo, Titian and other famous masters. The water color copies of the most remarkable paintings of the Italian school, from the fourth century, by Rancoul, numbered 330.

Argentine Confederate Annexation from Paraguay and Bolivia—Battle With and Triumph Over Insurgents—Telegraph Inauguration—Parliamentary Election and Prospects of the Presidency.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 22, 1872.

The Argentine government has formally assumed jurisdiction over the Chaco, and has made Villa Occidental, which is a Paraguayan town built upon territory which Bolivia asserts is indisputably hers, the capital of this new annexation, notwithstanding the treaty for its cession by Paraguay remains unnegotiated.

In the Argentine Confederation a battle was reported to have taken place on the 6th of February, three leagues from Curuzu Curatia in Corrientes, between about three thousand insurgents and as many of the legal forces under Babiene, and it is said the first were routed and their infantry all captured or killed.

On the 8th Babiene began his march on the city of Corrientes.

The telegraph between Buenos Ayres and the Pacific was inaugurated as far as Mendoza on the 7th.

Of the thirty-eight imprisoned Tandil assassins fourteen have been condemned to death and fifteen to fifteen years of imprisonment with hard labor.

In Montevideo there was great rejoicing, peace having been made on conditions, the chief of which was that the appointment of the political chiefs of four departments should be made by the Blancos. Colonel Fortunato Flores having used threats to the government to prevent the signing of the peace he was arrested and imprisoned and the government army had been ordered to approach the metropolis to prepare against disturbances by the exalted Colorados.

The elections of the President and the Vice President of the Senate fell on Señor Thomas Gomensoro and Señor Pinheiro.

As the term of the President of the republic ends with February and no successor has been yet elected the President of the Senate will have to assume the Acting Presidency.

SLAVE INSURRECTION.

On the 9th inst. an insurrection of some fifty slaves occurred about thirty miles from Rio Janeiro, on the plantation of Messrs. Cortes & Banno. Armed with their billhooks, the slaves attacked the house about half-past nine o'clock at night, and tried to break open the closed doors to kill two of their masters. However, a few shots from a revolver caused them to give up the attempt and they abandoned the plantation. A force of police being sent up on receipt of a telegraphic despatch, half of the slaves were captured within two or three days and almost all the others within a week.

YELLOW FEVER.

Yellow fever continued among the vessels in the port of Parahyba, and up to the middle of the month twenty-four persons had died. The epidemic had not shown itself on shore.

TELEGRAPHS.

Mr. Wilson, member of the Commissao da Praca, of Para, and manager of the Gas Company, has proposed to the President of the Province of Para to lay a telegraphic cable between Para and St. Thomas, thus joining Para with the European and North American lines, on condition of a small subsidy from the public purse. It was to be laid before the Provincial Assembly, which meets this month of February.

There are a Hundred Ways of Ruining the hair, but only one to renew and rebeautify it. To re-endow it with vegetative power, to kindle into vigor the enfeebled roots, to increase the growth, to beautify the fibres, PHALON'S CHEMICAL HAIR INVIGORATOR must be regularly brushed in. A complete rejuvenation of the hair is then certain. Sold by all druggists.

GOLD BONDS.

BANKING HOUSE OF

JAY COOKE & CO.

We are offering the NORTHERN PACIFIC 7-30 GOLD BONDS at par and interest in currency. They are issued in denominations of from $100 to $1,000 coupon, and $100 to $10,000 registered, and are at all times interchangeable at the pleasure of the holder without charge.

They are secured by a first and only mortgage on the road, its equipments, earnings and franchises, and also on a land grant, which, on the completion of the road, will exceed 23,000 acres to each mile of track, or 500 acres of land to secure each $1,000 bond.

These bonds are at all times receivable by the trustees at ten per cent premium in payment for any lands purchased from the company.

In view of the ample security upon which the bonds are based and the rate of interest they bear, we believe there is no first class investment more safe or profitable.

Holders of United States 5-20 bonds can now convert them into

NORTHERN PACIFIC 7-30'S, realizing an immediate handsome profit and an INCREASE OF ABOUT ONE-THIRD IN THEIR ANNUAL INCOME.

All marketable securities received in exchange, without expense to the investor, at their highest current value.

Governments Firm—Gold Steady—Foreign Exchange Stronger.

WALL STREET, WEDNESDAY, March 20—6 P. M.

On 'Change to-day wheat continued firm and active. The cotton market was quiet and about steady.

THE CALLED FIVE-TWENTIES.

In accordance with notice given ninety days ago, or on the 20th of December, the interest on a further series of $20,000,000 of the five-twenty bonds of 1862 ceased to-day, and the principal thereof is now redeemable on presentation at the Treasury Department. The payments to-day at the Sub-Treasury on account of redeemed five-twenties amounted to $2,470,000, chiefly on account of the last series. Payments are being made every day for the several bonds included in the three calls.

MONEY EASIER.

The money market was easier for several reasons. The foreign bankers got orders by cable to sell out their Erie again, owing to the decline abroad, and this relieved them of much necessity for borrowing, especially as the Sub-Treasury, at the same time, helped them and the banks with the coin for the bonds previously transmitted by them to Washington for redemption. At the start 1-16 was freely bid, and was sometimes paid in addition to 7 per cent. The relaxation became quite sensible as the afternoon advanced, and before three o'clock the rates on stocks were 6 a 7 per cent. The government dealers had meantime closed up their business at 7 a 7 coin.

Nothing new transpired in the market for commercial paper, which was steady and dull.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STEADIER.

Foreign exchange recovered from the unsettled condition into which it was thrown on Tuesday, and actual business was nearer the nominal rates. The following were the closing quotations:—Sterling, 60 days commercial, 109 a 109⅛; do. good to prime bankers', 109¼ a 109⅜; do. short sight, 110 a 110⅛; Paris, 60 days, 5.23¾ a 5.20; do. short sight, 5.16¼ a 5.15; Prussian thalers, 72 a 72¼; Antwerp, 5.23¾ a 5.20; Switzerland, 5.23¾ a 5.20; Hamburg, 35⅞ a 36⅛; Amsterdam, 40⅛ a 40¼; Frankfort, 40⅞ a 41¼; Bremen, 78½ a 79.

GOLD STEADY—109¾ A 110.

Gold was steady on the basis of 109¾ a 109⅞, with a few sales at 110. The mercantile demand was quite a feature of the market and checked a further decline, under the large Treasury disbursements on account of redemption of called bonds. The fluctuations in the price during the day are shown in the table:—

10 A. M.	109¾	1 P. M.	109⅞
10:15 A. M.	109¾	2 P. M.	109⅞
11 A. M.	109¾	3 P. M.	109⅞
12 M	109⅞	4 P. M.	109⅞
12:13 P. M	110	5:30 P. M.	109¾ a 109⅞

In the gold loan market the rates ranged from 2 per cent currency to 7 per cent gold for carrying. The operations of the Gold Exchange Bank were as follows:—

Gold cleared	$58,948,000
Gold balances	2,787,250
Currency balances	3,101,655

The European steamer took out $223,000 in specie, mostly silver.

GOVERNMENTS STEADY.

The government list was steady, with the corresponding character of the gold market, but quite dull. Toward the close the cable brought London prices, showing an advance of ⅛ upon the already advanced quotations of that market, and prices became strong, and closed at a slight improvement, as follows:—United States currency sixes, 115 a 115¼; do. sixes, 1881, registered, 114½ a 114⅞; do. do., coupon, 115½ a 115¾; do., five-twenties, registered, May and November, 111⅞ a 112; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 111⅞ a 112; do. do., 1864, do. do., 111⅞ a 112; do. do., 1865, do. do., 112¼ a 112½; do. do., 1867, registered, January and July, 111⅞ a 111¾; do. do., 1865, coupon, do., 110⅞ a 111⅛; do. do., 1867, do., do., 112⅜ a 112½; do. do., 1868, do., do., 112⅜ a 112⅝; do. fives of 1881, funded, registered, 109½ a 109⅝; do. do. do., coupon, 109½ a 109⅝; do. ten-forties, registered, 107⅞ a 107¾; do. do., coupon, 108 a 108¼.

THE CITY BANK STOCKS.

The following were the bids for the city bank shares:—New York, 135; Manhattan, 150; Merchants', 120; Mechanics', 134; Union, 138; America, 150; City, 235; Phenix, 102; North River, 90; Fulton, 159; Merchants' Exchange, 94; Leather Manufacturers', 185; State of New York, 112; Commerce, 117½; Ocean, 24; Mercantile, 125; American Exchange, 114¾; Hanover, 102½; Irving, 127; Metropolitan, 140; People's, 140; Nassau, 106½; Shoe and Leather, 150; Corn Exchange, 125½; Continental, 94½; St. Nicholas, 112; Marine, 165; Commonwealth, 82; Importers and Traders', 169; New York National Exchange, 97; Central National, 101; Ninth National, 108; Gold Exchange, 103; Bankers and Brokers' Association, 99; German-American, 106.

SOUTHERN SECURITIES IRREGULAR.

The Southern State bonds were in the main strong, especially the Virginia consols, which advanced to 58, owing to the availability of their coupons in payment of State taxes—a provision which will be demand the consols to originate in the process of further funding. The North Carolinas were firm and the new bonds higher. The new South Carolinas were heavy and slowly receded to 53. The State agent in this city encloses us a copy of the proposed amendment to the constitution of South Carolina, about which so many inquiries are made at his office and by the bondholders generally. The amendment was adopted by the Legislature, and is as follows:—

ARTICLE 9, § 7.—The [illegible] that the public debt of South Carolina may not hereafter be increased without the due consideration and free consent of the people of the State, the General Assembly is hereby forbidden to create any further debt or obligation, either by the loan of the credit of the State, by guarantees, endorsements or otherwise, except for the ordinary and current business of the State, without first submitting the question as to the creation of any such new debt, guarantee, endorsement or loan of its credit to the people of this State at a general State election, and unless two-thirds of the qualified voters of this State, voting on the question, shall be in favor of a further debt, guarantee, endorsement or loan of its credit, none such shall be created or made. (Approved March 13, 1872.)

The following were the closing prices of the Southern list: Tennessee, ex coupon, 67 a 67½; do. new, 67 a 67½; Virginia, ex coupon, 53 a 56; do. do. registered stock, old, 45 a 50; do. do. sixes, consolidated bonds, 57½ a 58; do. sixes, deferred scrip, 17½ a 18; Georgia sixes, 75 a 76; do. sevens, 88 a 90; North Carolina, ex coupon, 38 a 38½; do. new, 23 a 24; do., special tax, 16 a 17; Missouri sixes, 95 a 96; do. Hannibal and St. Joseph, 93 a 95; Louisiana sixes, 60 a 62; do. levee sixes, 60 a 65; do. do. eights, 70 a 80; Alabama fives, 62 a 65; do. eights, 80 a 85; South Carolina sixes, 53 a 54; do. new, January and July, 37⅛ a 38; do. do., April and October, 35½ a 36; Arkansas sixes, funded, 55 a 57.

STOCKS STRONG AND IRREGULAR.

The stock market was strong, with a general improvement consequent upon the relaxation in money, the advance in United States bonds in London and the expiration to-day of the call redeeming twenty millions more of the national debt. The market for Erie was not so lively, and that stock was less of a feature here and in London. It in fact, tame in the latter place and [illegible] off from the best figures it attained there in the excitement earlier in the week. The most probable theory of the decline is that the public on both sides of the Atlantic have become alarmed at the resolution of the directors adopted Tuesday afternoon authorizing the recognized bankers of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway to act as the transfer agents and bankers of the Erie Railway in London. This feeling occasioned a decline in London to 41⅞ and in New York to 48. Subsequently the signing by Governor Hoffman of the bill to repeal the Classification act lifted the stock into considerable life again, and, helped by the relaxation in money, advanced the price to 50½. But with the flurry at the close in connection with the sudden trouble in Pacific Mail the stock went off to 49¾. The conflicting testimony of the two rival news agencies as to the fate of the Pacific Mail subsidy resolution occasioned a brisk rise to 63 and a sudden fall to 58¾—the momentary extremes which were reached when one despatch announced that the resolution had been adopted and the other that it had been defeated in Congress at a late hour this afternoon. We leave to the news agents the pleasant task of explaining to their patrons the inconsistency of the two messages. Had the "break" in Pacific Mail occurred at a busier hour instead of just as the Board was about to adjourn it might have caused a livelier sensation in the general market than it did. As it was, it unsettled prices enough to prevent them from closing at the best of the day, the upward tendency previously having been undisguised. The other leading feature of the day was Union Pacific, which was wanted eagerly by the eminent banker the Mynheer Van Koopmanschoopf, of Amsterdam, who, having sold his Northwest preferred, and having been written bad stories about St. Paul preferred, and having, furthermore, sold all his Erie to London and New York, cast about for a new investment and landed upon Union Pacific, much to the surprise of the Vanderbilt party, who, having been "stuck" by Tom Scott, were wondering who it was was so willing to be "stuck" by them. This train of events took Union Pacific up from 37 to 38¾. Next came a rise of about ½ per cent in Hannibal and St. Joseph, following an official sale of 10,000 shares, which was ordered by the President of the company, Mr. B. N. Smith, and conducted by Messrs. Van Schaick & Co., the genial reform Alderman acting as auctioneer on the occasion, and selling at the first session of the board the stock for cash in lots of 400 to 3,400 shares at 41 a 41¼ a 41½ a 41¾ a 41⅞ per cent. The fact that 10,000 shares could be put upon the market "for cash" at advancing figures turned general attention to Hannibal and St. Joseph, with the result of stimulating the outside demand later in the day and advancing the price to 44¼. Boston, Hartford and Erie fell off to 5½, advanced to 6⅞ and closed at 6½.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY IN MIDDAY.

Theodore Hefferich, of 509 East Twelfth street, started down town Tuesday morning and on the way stopped in to see his friends and took several drinks. He at last stopped in a place corner of Pike and Monroe streets. There was a crowd around and he asked the house up. Somebody treated him afterwards and then Hefferich treated again. When about to pay for what he owed he found that he was robbed—not having a cent. He offered the barkeeper his overcoat and watch as security. The barkeeper took the overcoat, but let him keep the watch. A few blocks from the place some of the men who were drinking with him attacked him, knocked him down and took his watch from him. Hefferich was found in Mechanics' alley, lying insensible from the beating he had received. Detective Shalvey, of the Eleventh precinct, arrested one of the men, named Michael Burns, living in Monroe street, yesterday morning. He was arraigned before Judge Shandley, at Essex Market, and held for examination.

CHARLES E. PRATT, the renowned pianiste, will also participate in the grand programme prepared for the special occasion, which will introduce gems from all the most popular operas.

WALLACK'S.
EVERY EVENING UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE,
Mr. Lester Wallack's celebrated drama, in six tableaux,
THE VETERAN.
"The Veteran," as we predicted in anticipation of its production, has proved one of the most successful dramas ever brought out, even at Wallack's, splendid as is its roll of dramatic victories. It would be hard to speak too highly of the perfect smoothness and ease with which the piece now runs. Each character has been cast with admirable regard to the individual capacity and peculiarities of the player. We have already spoken at length in previous notices of the elegance of the setting and mounting, and can only repeat what we said then. The last tableaux is a chef d'oeuvre of startling incident and skilful blending of color and costume. The "Veteran" will doubtless run to the end of the season; but we recommend our readers to go there at once, as the piece will bear seeing twice or thrice.—Extract from the New York Herald.
Box book open from 8 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Due notice will be given of the re-appearance of Mr. Charles Mathews, Mr. J. H. Stoddard and Miss Effie Germon.

DECIDED HIT. ROARS OF LAUGHTER.
Genuine success of John F. Poole's great burlesque, received with shouts of applause.
JULIUS SNEEZER,
The Herald says:—"'Julius Sneezer.'—The performance concluded with the burlesque of 'Julius Sneezer,' which constituted the most mirthful and enjoyable part of the programme. Mr. Dan Bryant impersonated the two opposite characters of Caspius and Marc Antony, and was exceedingly droll. Some of his political 'hits,' with which the burlesque abounds, called forth shouts of laughter. The stabbing scene was very ludicrous. To mention one incident:—Amid wild shouts of triumph, one of the conspirators runs off to give 'the particulars of the tragedy' to the evening papers, while another proposes to prepare a Saturday cartoon for the Evening Telegram. But more wildly absurd than even this was Marc Antony's oration over the dead body of Julius Sneezer, which is surrounded by a gang of Sixth ward roughs, and the grand winding up by a 'terrific horse combat.' The large audience present seemed to be highly amused by the whole performance."

SENATOR JAMES WOOD'S CASE.

The Wood case still hangs fire. There is a hitch somewhere; but just where it is is a question which is giving rise to considerable conjecture, not only among outsiders but also among the unfortunate few men in the Senate who for some reason best known to the majority are not taken into all the secrets of the caucus makers. There are a great many ugly rumors afloat about the matter, but as they cannot be traced to any reliable source I do not think it necessary to do more than mention the fact. I learn, however, from very good authority, that Mr. Wood has concluded not to resign. He claims, I understand, that the Senate is bound to decide his case according to the evidence, and that the evidence does not prove him guilty. Therefore, according to his view of the matter, to resign would be to openly confess that the charges of bribery and corruption had been proven. It may not be a little surprising to people who cannot, for a variety of reasons, look upon the report of the Investigating Committee and the evidence which accompanied it in the same light that the fellow Senators of the accused member do, to learn that there are several Senators who agree entirely with Mr. Wood in his estimate of

WHAT THE EVIDENCE AMOUNTS TO.

I have been assured that, when the testimony has been printed and everything made in readiness to call up the resolution of expulsion, it will be found that his friends will make a bold fight for him and that their number will not be insignificant—that is if something does not happen between the present time and the day the decision is to be given to make them "change front." On the other hand it is stated by parties who pretend to know of what they affirm that if Senator Wood remains away from the Senate his fellow members will

on the report of the committee. This, however, is hardly credible in view of the fact that one of the democratic Senators might easily spoil this plan of operation any day, by either calling up the resolution already offered or offering a similar one, the effect of which would be, of course, to make the Senate show its hand one way or the other. As far as Senator Lord, who reserved his right as a minority of the Investigating Committee to make a separate report, is concerned in the matter of getting some kind of a decision, and that at an early day, this much can be said—that he will make no report whatever, as he believes that Chatfield's resolution bars him out. He will, therefore, if he continues to adhere to his present opinion, leave the whole question as to what ought to be done with the report of the majority of the committee entirely in the hands of the REPUBLICAN MEMBERS OF THE SENATE.

It may be, however, that he may be induced to change his mind as to his not making a separate report if he is inclined to report favorably to Mr. Wood. The great trouble with those members who are ready to fight for Mr. Wood if they see a good prospect ahead is that they have not been able as yet to know what Mr. Lord thinks about the case. He refuses to give his opinion, and they are thus for if he would only make a report, and a favorable one, taking Wood's own view of the weakness of the evidence as against him personally, they affect to believe that a majority of the Senators might be led to adopt it in lieu of the report of the majority. The general impression just now seems to be that if the Senate does expel Wood it will only do so because of the outside pressure that will be brought to bear upon it by the newspapers as reflections of public opinion. Chatfield has been rather quiet since the day he introduced the resolution of expulsion, and it is suspected that he has been induced to remain so by the beseechings of a few of the Senators who feel most kindly to Mr. Wood. When the printed evidence is laid before the Senate the strength of this suspicion will be put to the test, and if he does not call up his resolution it certainly will be confirmed in the mind of many that he has been of the case. In explanation of the reason why they have manifested so much ill feeling against Chatfield since the day he introduced his resolution, several of the republican Senators declare that they considered the resolution unfairly, and Mr. Chatfield ungenerous in not waiting until the Senate could have had the evidence in their possession. Chatfield's own story about the resolution, however, shows that he never thought of generosity when he made up his mind to present the resolution. It is said that, in conversation with a friend about the matter to-day, he said, and [illegible] the language the religious man [illegible] two long days over that resolution, and [illegible] it was my Christian duty to offer it. [illegible] the real reason that induced Chatfield [illegible] where a member of either House [illegible] as a mere [illegible] of conscience. Whether Chatfield's [illegible] the other Senators taking the [illegible] question in hand before the close of next w[illegible] is now an open question.

THE QUESTION OF ADJOURNMENT.

Senator Bowen to-day called up his resolution that the [illegible] adjournment of the Legislature should take place at two P. M. on the 10th of next month. He declared that he had [illegible] good faith. The hundred [illegible] the 10th of April, and he [illegible] the fact that the Senate had a [illegible] with the general business before [illegible] adjournment could take place. How the business of the lower house stood he could not say. Mr. Madden was of the opinion that the members of the Legislature were themselves better judges of when the adjournment should take place than their constituents, who somehow got it into their wise heads that legislators at Albany did nothing but enjoy their wives in [illegible]

STAGGERING OVER LAKE [illegible]

The fact was that they worked too hard and he felt certain that if the Legislature took more recreation than it did the members would be better able to do their work, and would not allow so many loose measures to creep through during the session. He was willing to vote for the resolution, but he felt that it amounted to very little whether it was passed or not. Mr. D. P. Wood and Mr. Benedict both scouted the idea of an adjournment as early as the 10th of April. It would be quite impossible to get through with the business of the session by that time. Mr. Benedict laid it down as Gospel truth that no

INMATE OF A LUNATIC ASYLUM

would risk his reputation as a man on the assertion that the adjournment could take place by the time provided in the resolution. Mr. W. F. Wood reported that if the lost ballot was passed he supposed the Senate would be voting aye upon it do so to express their sense of its utter worthlessness. Mr. Wood then waxed eloquent over the impossibilities of the situation, and, doubtless, feeling that the occasion demanded a speech on his part, he went for that feature. Choice of a resolution that was that made even the meek and most Chatfield's little band cry enough. It was in vain that the latter tried to let the Senate that he had intended to offer a resolution similar to that offered by Mr. Bowen, and that several other equally in the circle stepped out to tell how they would have drawn up the resolution had they only thought of it. Mr. Wood's gestures increased in rapidity and his voice in volume. Probably remembering how successful Mr. Madden had been during the Erie fight last week in quoting from the poets, Mr. Wood made up his mind that his own language was inadequate to describe how hard the patriots in the Senate worked for the good of the people. "Why, sir," said he, looking pathetically at the President, who sat in his seat almost moved to tears by the speaker's delicate allusions to the trials and tribulations of an overworked Legislature—"why, sir, we work very hard, and we have so far done our work well." Here a laugh broke in upon the solemn scene, and the careful scrutiny of the President traced it directly to Mr. Tiemann, who was busily engaged watching the antics of a half-frozen bluebottle fly on one of the iron pillars. The laugh was evidently elicited by the fly, and not by Mr. Wood's remark; so the latter, more at ease, continued:—"We work, as I said before, sir, very hard." The Senator then looked about him as if to ascertain if the Senate was not of the same opinion. Mr. Johnson shook his head in a doubtful sort of way, and Bowen crossed his hands firmly before him on the desk,

AMBITIOUS RELIGIOUS MEN

THE VERY PICTURE OF RESIGNATION.

Thus encouraged Mr. Wood gazed pensively at the ceiling for a second or two and then again declared that the Senate worked hard. Again he stared at the ceiling. He was evidently trying to choose some appropriate line from his favorite poet. His face finally lit up with a smile, and, placing himself in an attitude that a professor of the manly art would have hugged himself with joy over, he exclaimed—"I say that we work hard—yes, sir!" and then he braced himself for the poetical effort,—

"From rosy morn till"—

Here he came to a dead stop, and after pretending to cough repeated, "From rosy morn till"—— There was another halt, and the Senate, unable to control itself any longer, gave vent to a hearty laugh. Nothing daunted Mr. Wood tried it again. "From rosy morn till" ——he repeated, but his memory again betrayed him.

"TILL THE WEE SMA' HOURS,"

suggested Mr. Madden in a loud whisper, he knowing, probably, what time the puzzled Senator had retired the night before. This drew out another laugh, and Benedict finally came to the rescue. "Till dewy eve" he shrieked. Mr. Wood looked thankful, gave the line in full and sat down, if not pleased with himself, thoroughly satisfied that he had impressed his hearers with the fact that at least one of the Senators "worked hard" when he got into a poetical snare. The resolution of adjournment was then passed—17 to 8.

THE CHARGES AGAINST JUDGE PRINDLE.

The following message from the Governor was received and read just before the Senate adjourned for the day:—

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, March 20, 1872.

TO THE SENATE—I respectfully transmit herewith charges and specifications presented to me, alleging official misconduct on the part of Horace G. Prindle, County Judge of Chenango county, with petitions accompanying the same from respectable citizens of said county, asking me to recommend the removal of said Prindle from the office of County Judge and Surrogate, according to section 11 of article 6 of the constitution; and also copies of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors of said county, with reference to said County Judge and his proposed removal from office.

I have heard the counsel for the petitioners and for the said Judge, respectively, upon these charges, some of which relate to alleged official misconduct during his term of office immediately preceding his present term to which he was elected at the last general election, and others to alleged official misconduct during his present term.

The constitution, evidently, contemplates that the truth and sufficiency of the charges, in such cases as this shall be tried by your honorable body and not by the Governor. The final decision is to be made by you and not by me. My recommendation is, nevertheless, necessary to bring the case within your jurisdiction. It would seem, therefore, to be the duty of the Governor if a prima facie case be made out before him, to send it to you for adjudication.

The charges in this case are presented by respectable citizens and substantially endorsed by the county Board of Supervisors, and are supported, many of them, by affidavits, papers, and other proofs.

I therefore recommend that you inquire into the charges so made, and, if the truth and sufficiency thereof shall be established, that the said Horace G. Prindle be then removed from the office of County Judge and Surrogate of said county.

JOHN T. HOFFMAN.

The charges against the Judge are many, and the evidence submitted by the government would form a good sized volume. Among other things it is charged that in numerous instances during the years 1867, '68, '69, '70 and '71 he drew petitions for the granting of letters of administration for the proof of wills, for the granting of letters of guardianship, notices of appeal and orders, applications and other papers for the appointment of referees and commissioners in highway proceedings, petitions and papers for the sale of infants' real estate and other papers, "knowing that the same were to be used by and before him as such County Judge and Surrogate; that he knowingly, corruptly and unlawfully demanded, received and extorted from the several persons for whom such papers were drawn fees varying from two dollars to sixty dollars for his personal services in drawing such papers." The papers submitted by the Governor go over the various charges of corruption in office in detail. The message, with the accompanying documents, were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

THE NEW CHARTER.

It is given out that the Senate Committee on Cities will report the new charter the day after to-morrow. Mr. John Wheeler, Chairman of the Sub-Committee of the Committee of Seventy, and Mr. Jackson S. Schultz, also of the Seventy's Council of War, were present in the Senate during the proceedings to-day, and were actively engaged in interviewing the Senators as to what they intended to do toward making the charter strong and effective, and giving their advice as to what features of the charter as sent up from the House should be allowed to remain intact. Mr. Palmer's committee held an executive session this afternoon, and it is understood were in consultation over the propriety of putting in an amendment that will do away with the department feature of the charter, which calls for five commissioners in each important department of the city government. Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Schultz had a long talk with several of the committee before the meeting, and it is said that they succeeded in inducing them to deal leniently with the charter and leave the cumulative voting clause and that referring to the present Board of Aldermen for the full Senate to take hold of. If this turns out to be true there will be a lively time over these provisions in Committee of the Whole.

A large amount of routine business was transacted in the Assembly. A number of bills came from the Senate for concurrence. Among them was the new Troy charter with some slight amendments, which the lower House immediately adopted. Several hours were devoted to the third reading of bills, most which were of merely local interest. The bill in relation to over which there has been so much discussion, failed to receive the constitutional vote necessary to its passage, the yeas being 45 and the nays 41; but, on motion of Mr. Twombly, the vote was immediately reconsidered, so that the measure will come up again, and will most likely be adopted. Among the bills passed was the one allowing convicts in the State prisons to choose their own spiritual advisers whenever they desire religious ministrations, which is intended to afford facilities to Roman Catholic convicts which they do not enjoy at present. Also the bill in relation to the rates of wharfage, and for the regulation of

WHARVES AND PIERS IN NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN.

It establishes the daily rates of wharfage as follows:—For every vessel of 200 tons burden and under, two cents per ton, and for every vessel over 200 tons burden, two cents per ton for the first 200 tons and one-half of one cent for each additional ton. All canal boats, North River barges, market boats, sloops and schooners employed upon the rivers of the State, in the transportation of coal, oil, bricks, mineral or agricultural products shall pay the rates established by the act passed in April, 1870. Lighters and vessels not engaged in receiving and discharging cargo or ballast shall pay one-half, while vessels or floating structures not used for transportation of freight or passengers shall pay double the first mentioned rates. Vessels sailing without paying wharfage after it has been demanded are liable to double charges. Owners or lessees of wharves, piers or bulkheads are allowed to charge five cents per ton for every day after the first on all goods left remaining deposited on such wharves, piers or bulkheads.

A large number of bills were referred to the Committee of the Whole, familiarly known as the Grinding Committee. The Railroad Committee reported several bills in relation to Brooklyn city railroads. The Committee on Ways and Means reported back the bill for the payment of the [illegible] expenses incurred in

THE PROSECUTIONS OF THE TAMMANY RING THIEVES.

The bill as now reported is the same as [illegible] the House; but it is provided by a preamble and resolution setting forth the circumstances under which the prosecutions were instituted, and that the bureau of municipal correction was established by the Attorney General, under the direction of the Governor. The bill as originally drafted was incomplete, and the preamble and resolutions are inserted to make the matter intelligible. The same committee reported a bill to supply the deficiencies in former of the State, and to pay the floating indebtedness and the estimated [illegible] of the present fiscal year. The bill provides for raising $[illegible] by direct tax, and is subject to ratification by the people at the next general election.

The following are the items:—$[illegible] for deficiencies unprovided for in [illegible] by chapter 56 of the Laws of 1870, $260,000 for deficiencies in appropriations under chapter [illegible] and $[illegible] for deficiencies under chapter 930 of the laws of the same year; $65,000 for interest on the moneys borrowed to pay the three foregoing items; $[illegible] for outstanding certificates of awards of canal damages and the expenses attending the same made by the canal appraisers in 1870 and 1871, and $50,000 for interest thereon; $61,600 for work done on the Champlain Canal improvements, $[illegible] for work done on the Chenango Canal, $[illegible] for work done on the Oswego Canal and $[illegible] for interest on these items; $[illegible] for awards for damages and extra compensation made by the Canal Board in 1871 and $71,0[illegible] for a similar purpose authorized by the Canal Commissioners in the same year; $[illegible] to supply the deficiency in the canal debt sinking fund and for interest on the canal debt which was due September 30, 1871; $557,0[illegible] to supply the same fund with means to pay the interest, which will be due September [illegible], and [illegible] for interest on the same; $4,0[illegible] for the present acknowledged deficiency and estimated liabilities of the general fund up to September 30, 1872, for the payment of which no appropriations have been made, but which have been incurred and created according to the report of the late Comptroller, transmitted to the Legislature January 2, 1872.

THE ERIE BILL.

The indications are that notwithstanding the passage of the Southmayd Erie bill, which is now a law, as the Governor signed it to-day, there will be a lively fight on the Erie question before the session closes. The coup d'état in New York which overthrew Gould and his confederates naturally enough made the passage of the bill a matter of course, even the members who expected to make their little pile when the measure came out of the hands of the committee being compelled for appearance sake to do just what they would not have done under more auspicious circumstances. A bill introduced by Senator O'Brien to-day, in fact, has given new hopes to the lobbyists, who were losers by reason of the Grand Opera House strategy, and the members who had given up all hope of being able to turn an honest penny by doing the bidding of Gould & Co. had they remained in power, have to-day, for the first time since Thursday last, felt that

While the lamp holds out to burn
The vilest sinner may return with profit to the old game that was knocked in the head by the blarsted Britishers at the very moment when they felt that the spoils were all their own. The real object of the bill introduced to-day is to kill in an indirect way

THE MADDEN AMENDMENT TO THE SOUTHMAYD BILL, which prohibited any director of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad Company becoming a member of the Board of Directors of the Erie Railway. Archer and Sherwood are here expressly to see to it that this bill becomes a law without delay, and it is this fact which has given cause for joy among the legislative bone-hunters. Early this morning several of the Erie men got together in secret conclave and talked the whole matter over, and the result was that a resolution respectfully recalling the Southmayd bill from the Governor was drawn up and placed in the hands of a Senator who is known to be of the olden time. He was given to understand that it was to be introduced on the first opportunity he could get; but not until the Senators generally had been sounded on the question. When the Senate met the gentleman quietly bided his time and carefully looked out for that first chance; but the individuals who were instructed to do the sounding in the meantime gave him an unfavorable report, and so he had, despite himself, to keep the resolution in his desk. The Governor, by some means or other, got wind of the little arrangement, and before the sounders could make success certain, as far as their plans were concerned, signed the bill; hence the supplementary bill, which is intended to overcome the difficulties of the situation. O'Brien asserts that he knows nothing of the nature of the bill, but that he presented it simply because it was handed him by a gentleman in whom he has all confidence. This gentleman, it may be mentioned, as a matter of news, hails from the Attorney General's office, and is known to be a bosom friend of Henry Sherwood, the successor to Tweed in the board of Erie directors. It would be quite impossible to decide with what joy the bone-hunters received the news of the introduction of

to them. As a matter of principle it is no question whether the bill is a good or a bad one. All they look to is what they can do to make up for the losses they sustained speculatively by the bad fortune which took the decision of the Erie Classification act virtually out of their hands. Judging from the way they talk they look upon the new bill as a strike of wonderful good fortune, by which they can play the points they had set in order for the other bill, had the fates left everything to the Legislature in the matter of deciding between Jay Gould and Justice.

Under the circumstances it is more than probable that the fight over the bill may be a long and a bitter one, and that the hungry members, who are now being treated with positive contempt already by their washerwomen and downright persecution by their landlords, who don't see how on earth they are ever to get paid for their board and lodging, giving the legislative credit, will do their best to make the thing pay. If the bill is strongly pressed it will doubtless require the

to make its defeat an impossibility, but the new directors should see to it, if they find the opposition too much like a bid at auction, that the strikers are exposed. The new bill proposes to amend section 2 of the bill already passed, so that it shall read as follows:—

On the second Tuesday of July next there shall be held, at the office of the Erie Railway Company, in the city of New York, an election for seventeen directors of said company, the inspectors of which election shall be designated in writing by the Governor, the Comptroller and Attorney General, and in case of the failure to attend and act of any such person so designated his place or their places may be filled by the inspector or inspectors in attendance on such day of election. At such election all the stockholders of said company shall be entitled to vote either in person or by proxy, according to the number of shares held by them respectively, subject to the regulations and provisions hereinafter contained, and to those elsewhere provided by law; and any such proxy which shall in substance authorize such voting by the attorney, and which shall be authenticated in the manner provided by law for the proof or acknowledgment of deeds, shall be sufficient, provided, however, that no person shall be entitled to vote at such election under any proxy made or granted prior to the passage of this act, and the seventeen persons receiving the highest number of votes at such election shall be directors of said company for the year next following the said second Tuesday of July. And hereafter the annual meetings of the stockholders of said company for the election of directors shall be held on the second Tuesday of July in each year, and the directors elected thereat shall hold their offices for one year from such second Tuesday of July. No injunction shall be granted to prevent or suspend the holding of election by this section ordered to be held on the second Tuesday of July next; nor shall any injunction be granted to prevent any person from voting on any shares at such election, unless upon notice of eight days to the person claiming to own or to exercise the right of voting on such stock.

A large delegation of citizens of the Nineteenth ward appeared this afternoon before the Joint Committee on Railroads in advocacy of

THE SINKING OF THE TRACKS ON FOURTH AVENUE.

General Sandford spoke in favor of and I. C. Buckhout, the engineer of the Harlem road, submitted a plan which the company were willing to adopt, but the citizens would have none of it. The arguments advanced for and against the company's and the citizens' plans were pretty much the same as those already given before the Common Council in New York.

The Committee on Railroads of the Senate held a meeting this evening to listen to arguments for and against which, by resolution of the Senate, must be reported to-morrow. Mr. Fairchild, of the Central Railroad, and Mr. Gardner spoke against the bill, and although Senator Johnson, the father of the bill, was present for a short time during the evening he nor anyone else appeared to argue for it. It is reported that there will be a scene in the Senate to-morrow when it is reported, as it will be, adversely.

SCHR E H BARNES, Avery, at Norfolk 18th, from New Haven, bound to Alexandria, reports on the 15th inst, at two AM, off Cape May, collided with schr H Conrad, sunk, carrying away all her head gear and hawse pipe. Put in to repair.

SCHR J RICARDO, Jova, at Philadelphia 18th from Cienfuegos, reports, March 10, lat 85 08, lon 72 42, passed a Spanish brig, steering W, with loss of foretopgallantmast, maintopgallantmast, maintopmast, jibboom and bowsprit. March 4, lat 23 02, lon 85 30, passed the upper deck of a vessel, the debris floating around; 12th, 30 miles off Chincoteague, during a heavy gale, lost jibboom and foremost head.

SCHR JULIA A RICH, Shea, from Boston for Portland, was out in the gale of Friday night, and had sails split and sustained other damage. She succeeded in getting into Machiasport on Monday, having been blown a long distance out of her course. She is owned by Messrs C & E J Peters, of New York.

SCHR ADELIA KELLEY, of Harwich, before reported wrecked at South Wellfleet, was built at Essex, Ct, in 1857, and was wholly owned in Harwich. She was insured partially at several offices upon the Cape. Her crew consisted of five men; three of them, Zabod Burgess, Daniel Twire and R B Snow, belonged to Harwich, and are among the lost. Mr. Burgess, who was temporarily in command, was a native of Harwich, where he leaves a widow, but no children.

SCHOONER HYNE, Hall, of Rockland, Me, with iron, from Boston, which left Holmes' Hole 4th, arrived morning of 29th, after having been twice blown off, and experienced very heavy weather. The Hyne arrived at Boston Bay last Friday, but met the gale of that day and was forced to sea the second time, and blown off east of Cape Sable. She stove her boat, split her sail, lost her galley, sprung the bowsprit and received other damages. Sixty tons of iron were thrown overboard to lighten the vessel. One of the crew, a German, was lost off the bowsprit and drowned.

SCHR JOHANNES (NG), Blohm, left Rio Grande early in January last, with bone ash, bound for Hamburg. Experienced heavy weather and contrary winds, causing her to commence making water; pumps became choked and useless; vessel left on Feb 5 in a sinking condition about 100 miles off St Sebastian, where crew landed, on Feb 6, in long boat.

ST THOMAS, March 14—The steamship Columbian is still in the harbor. Mr Blaxland, partner of Mr Murphy, has arrived out here, and, he being an engineer by profession, it is hoped the steamship will soon be in order.

The royal mail steamship Elbe, from Hayti and Jamaica, broke down when about three miles from the harbor. The Mersey went out, and is now towing her in. The after crank pin is broken, and it will require some six or eight weeks to repair her. The mails for Europe will probably go via New York in the Merrimack.

The brig Hermes (Br), from Philadelphia bound to Laguayra, with general cargo, arrived here on the 9th inst, in distress, sails blown away and mast sprung. She will probably discharge some 400 bbls to step a new mainmast.

The schr Sarah A Reed, of New York, Captain Reed, bound from Para to New York, arrived on the 12th inst, with loss of trussletrees. She is undergoing some repairs and will leave in a few days for New York. She is laden with rubber and will not discharge.

Ship Sharon (Br), of St Johns, NB (before reported by cable), Capt Wilson, bound from New York to Liverpool, with wheat, corn and provisions, arrived here on the 13th inst, in distress. She encountered a heavy gale a few days out of New York and was thrown on her beam ends; had to throw overboard some 200 tons of cargo. She has lost mizenmast, broken off below the deck, and all attached, and everything above the mainmast. She is said to be leaking; but the pumps are choked, and it is impossible to say how much water she is making. A survey has been held, and the ship recommended to discharge cargo.

Capt Marshall has delivered the balance of the specie saved from his vessel (the Rainbow) to the consignees here, and proceeds to New York in this steamer.

Schr Western Star, lately from Boston with ice, has been on the Marine Railway, and is now caulking her upper works.

Vessels are now arriving from windward in search of sugar freights, but the crop being backward in Porto Rico there is little to offer them. Some six or eight vessels have been taken at 40c, gold, per 100 lbs of sugar, and $3 75, gold, per 110 gallons molasses to United States.

Freights on wood from St Domingo to United States—none at present; last rate paid $5 50, gold, free on board.

A.—A.—HOMES FOR THE PEOPLE, AT WHITEstone, L. I.
Great opportunity to buy Houses and Lots.
[illegible] Houses at $1,250 to $10,000.
Choice Lots, adjoining the depot, at $??? to $???.
Streets macadamized, curbed, guttered and sewered and no assessment to purchasers. Whitestone, only 11 miles from Hunter's Point, is situated on the Long Island Sound and possesses rare attractions as a place of residence. It has good society, churches and schools and unequalled railroad facilities. It is the terminus of the Flushing and North Shore Railroad, which, for regularity, promptness, speed and safety, is unsurpassed; 41 trains run daily from 5.50 A. M. to midnight. Time to Thirty-fourth street, 45 minutes. The company are now building an additional steel track from New York to Whitestone, and will soon break ground in extending the road to the East River, where extensive docks are being built. These projected improvements will quicken the growth of this beautiful, healthy and enterprising village, and enhance the value of the above property. Whitestone is just the place for business men, clerks, teachers and mechanics, for it is practically nearer the business centres of New York than Harlem or Prospect Park, Brooklyn, and can be reached easier, quicker and more comfortably. Taxes limited by charter to one-half per cent on valuation.
N. B.—A commutation ticket for one year given to every purchaser of a house; also to lot buyers if they build. Terms very easy; on lots, 75 per cent on mortgage for five years, if purchaser will build all may remain; on houses, the principal part on mortgage and monthly payments to suit.
All persons looking for suburban houses are particularly invited to call and obtain free excursion tickets, maps, &c., and examine this property before buying elsewhere.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1872.

The Sedan of the Pacific Mail Lobbyists in the House—An Honest Man, &c.

The subsidy of $1,000,000 proposed for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company received its quietus to-day in the House. The HERALD prefigured this result yesterday. This result is the consequence of a three days' struggle of honest and timid members against the heaviest and most cunning lobby ever known about the National Legislature. It must be known that there are many capitalists and railroad men—directors, attorneys &c.—in Congress, and many more out of Congress who have access there. All these were arrayed against the representatives of the people.

The contest against this special subsidy was begun by Mr. Wood, of New York, against Mr. Brooks, his colleague. It was the politic training of the veteran ex Mayor of New York which foiled at the outset the fallacious rhetoric of Mr. Brooks and Mr. Potter. When the republicans, under Governor Blair, Mr. Stevenson, Mr. Hay of Illinois, and others, rallied their forces, and were joined by the rallying cries of Kerr, Peck and Cox from the democratic side it seemed that the conflict had lost its partisan feature, and that it was a fight of money and selfishness against integrity and true economy. Mr. Dwight Townsend and some five other democratic members from New York State deserted their friends and, in spite of the appeals of Cox, Wood, Roberts and others, voted for the subsidy. As the debate to-day progressed it seemed as if Dawes, Garfield and others, who became reticent as the debate went on would throw their vis inertia for the bill, but the gallant charge of Blair of Michigan, Whitthorne, of Tennessee, and others, overcame the howl for the subsidy.

When the vote came to be taken Farnsworth, who was not expected to oppose the bill, failed somewhere and embarrassed the contest with amendments that seemed to hurt, but really strengthened, the bill. The first voting looked as though Pacific Mail stock was going up. Many telegrams were sent off to the Exchange as if in anticipation of the result which did not take place. On the final vote however, only twelve democrats with Swann at their head crept down to the lure, while the rest of the democracy aided by the gallant republicans under Blair & Co. accomplished the result. The deed was done, as Mr. Cox said when urging to-day full and longer debate. The death of this bill kills a whole brood.

To Wood, Cox, Blair, Stevenson, Hay and a large number of honest men almost unknown to the public is this result due. There will be no more subsidies this session. The twenty other schemes involving $?,?00,000 have lost their heart. It is a matter of regret that the vote in committee should only show less than a dozen against the measure, for if the yeas and nays had been ordered or possible there would have been a dozen more votes against this device to help a few at the expense of the people.

The Rival Republican Factions of New Orleans Meet in the Antechamber of the White House—The Programme on Both Sides.

A remarkable meeting of Louisiana politicians took place to-day at the White House. A delegation of colored citizens of New Orleans, consisting of Messrs. Burch, ex member of the Legislature; Lewis, Administrator of Police; Hall, member of the Legislature, and Casanave, a wealthy business man, called by appointment at half-past one o'clock, in company with Senator Kellogg, Collector Casey, Marshal Packard, ex-Speaker Carter and State Senator Ingraham, to urge Ingraham's appointment as surveyor of the Port of New Orleans, as a representative of the large colored vote of the State. The delegation found the President engaged, and left, but, returning in a short time, found Senator West and Governor Warmoth waiting in the ante room and engaged for an interview with the President at two o'clock, as Kellogg learned to his surprise upon inquiry of the Governor.

In due time West and Warmoth were summoned to the Executive presence, and Secretaries Boutwell and Belknap, with Postmaster General Creswell, who were present on business, were requested to remain during the interview, which lasted nearly three-quarters of an hour. The Governor was closely questioned by the President, respecting the troubles in the State, and explained and defended his action in connection with the late proceedings at New Orleans, charging the responsibility mainly upon the attempts of the federal officers to interfere with the government of the State and to control its whole political machinery. He alluded to his desire to unite the rival State committees under the chairmanship of United States Marshal Packard as a long step towards combining the whole republican strength for the Presidential campaign. The meeting terminated without result and took no other ultimate shape than a call of respect from a State official present in Washington upon the National Chief Magistrate and [illegible] conversation between gentlemen in public life upon political topics. While awaiting Warmoth's departure and their own turn, the discussion among the members of the colored delegation and their attendant politicians was of the liveliest character and the significance and propriety of the meeting of their National and State Executives was argued from every point.

At last as Warmoth came into the ante room the delegation was called, and went in accompanied by Senator Kellogg and ex Speaker Carter, leaving Casey and Packard outside. Casey then entered into conversation with Senator West in one of the recesses of the windows, while Warmoth and Marshal Packard got into a warm controversy by the fireplace. [illegible] the Governor had his promise [illegible] on, [illegible] he had no strength in the [illegible] of the circle of his own [illegible] could only [illegible] all the voters in the [illegible]. The Governor retorted [illegible] as [illegible] until the [illegible] was [illegible] the President's room. At a late hour [illegible] left the White House.

It is understood to-night that the [illegible] colored men were so far successful as to [illegible] recognition of their claim to be represented in [illegible] federal [illegible]. The Montana Indian War Claims—Costly Volunteers.

The Montana war claims were this morning placed in the hands of the House Military Committee and an inspection of the documents submitted reveals a most interesting state of affairs in connection with the case of these ?00 soldiers who were called out by the Territorial Governor for a six months' service in an Indian campaign. The claims presented amount to $980,000, while the War Department officials declare that $250,000 would have been sufficient for the maintenance of the men had they been treated as soldiers, although nearly five hundred thousand dollars has been recommended for their payment. An examination of the accounts shows the purchase for these men of some articles that were never before heard of as belonging to a soldier's equipment and fare. For instance nearly twelve thousand dollars was expended for tobacco, at $3 a? per pound, while numerous buffalo robes at $? each are charged, to say nothing of tea at $4 ?0 per pound, sugar at seventy-five cents and coffee at ninety cents. Most of these claims belong to the Ocean National Bank of New York city.

Belger and His Re-Instatement—A Relic of the War.

The Military Committee of the House had another meeting to-day on the Staff Promotion bill. Friends of Major Belger (who was lately restored to the service by special act of Congress, after being out seven years, through dismissal by President Lincoln) have arrived here to aid in the passage of the bill as it will make Belger one of the ranking colonels of the Quartermaster's Department, taking him up from the bottom of the list of majors.

Reward the Brave—The Crew of the Wyoming.

The Naval Committee of the Senate have reported a bill for the relief of the officers and crew of the United States ship Wyoming, which it will be remembered vindicated the flag in the harbor of Yokohama in 1863, in a combat with piratical vessels which she destroyed. The indemnity paid by the Japanese government was the result of the good conduct of the officers and crew of the Wyoming, and this bill provides that they shall be compensated out of this fund as a reward for their valor.

The New Treaty with Japan—Ito and Okubo Taking Home the Protocol.

The Japanese Ambassadors during their short residence in Washington, have managed to despatch much business, and to-night Vice Ambassadors Okubo and Ito, accompanied by their secretaries, left for San Francisco, from whence they sail on the 1st of April for Japan. They are bearers of the preliminary draft of a protocol for a new treaty with the United States, which is to be submitted to the Japanese government for approval, and they expect to return to Washington in the latter part of May with authority to carry into effect the protocol here agreed upon by the Embassy.

The rest of the Ambassadors will remain in this city until their business is completed.

Japanese Coins.

The Japanese Embassy has presented to the government a complete set of their new gold and silver coins, which will be deposited in the cabinet of coins at the Philadelphia Mint.

The South Carolina Ku Klux Case.

The argument on the motion to dismiss the writ of error in the case of the United States vs. Avery and others on a certificate of division of opinion from the Circuit Court of the District of South Carolina in the Ku Klux cases was argued to-day in the Supreme Court by Henry Stanbery and Reverdy Johnson for the defence and Attorney General Williams for the United States. The Court thereupon took the case under advisement until to-morrow morning, when, if they do not decide to grant the motion of government to dismiss on the technical ground reported, the case will be heard on the merits, the same counsel partaking in the argument. The Court adjourned soon after two o'clock to consider the matter.

The Mixed Commission.

The United States and British Claims Commission resumed its sessions to-day. They transacted much routine business but made no decisions, and adjourned till Saturday.

THE GREAT OIL CONSPIRACY.

A Mass Meeting at Parker's Landing—General A. B. McCalmont's Warning—An Enthusiastic Meeting.

PARKER'S LANDING, Pa., March 20, 1872.

The mass meeting of oil producers held at the Opera House this afternoon was attended by all the representative men of the oil region, men of wealth and eminently qualified in a mental sense to cope with those comprising the gigantic ring known as the Southern Improvement Company. The object of the meeting is to effect the most perfect organization possible among the producers, in the hope of giving an effectual blow to the great conspiracy. Trains from the North and South brought a great many people, and long before the hour fixed for the meeting the house was filled to the utmost extent. General A. B. McCalmont addressed the meeting at some length, saying that he was there to-day not to instigate a riot but to give a solemn warning to the corporation which was fostering a monopoly upon them to beware, and to the powers behind the throne—Vanderbilt, Tom Scott and Gould and their clique—to heed the voices of the thousands of men their equals in intelligence, to heed the voices raised against the cruel wrongs imposed upon them.

The gentleman spoke for upwards of three-quarters of an hour and made an able effort in denunciation of the South Improvement Ring. He was followed by Mr. C. W. Gilfillan and afterward by several heavy producers of oil of this region, after which the committee was appointed to confer with President Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to ascertain if the facilities of his road could not be extended to Parker's Landing, the greatest oil producing region in the world. The committee is also authorized to go to Washington to confer with the Congressional Committee on Commerce. The meeting was very enthusiastic and the universal sentiment was not to sell a drop of oil out to the agents of the Southern Improvement Company, and the feeling is so bitter here that it is highly probable should any one attempt it violence would be offered. There are now over seventy thousand barrels of oil now here held by producers and as the tanks are all full and the facilities for shipment possessed by concerns uninterested in the ring are inadequate, it is difficult to tell what the producer will be compelled to do yet. The excitement has in no way abated from that which existed two weeks ago and the same determination to hold out against the monopoly is manifest. It would be little but folly in the present state of public feeling to use such a [illegible] as [illegible] of property as would be terrible to contemplate.

The Oil Men's Conference in New York.

Dr. Shamburg, Messrs. Wm. Parker, Wm. Hasson, J. J. Fisher, A. P. Bennett, L. G. Patterson, Henry Byram, W. S. Sheffle, A. Vandergrift and John Pitcairn, a committee appointed by the refiners and producers of petroleum in Pennsylvania, have been in the city two or three days, with a view of combating the great Southern Improvement monopoly, instead of supporting it, as was published on Tuesday. The immediate object of their visit is to consult with General McClellan, Commodore Vanderbilt and Tom Scott upon a tariff of freight on oils that will enable the producers to compete with the Southern Improvement Company, and break up the monopoly.

Yesterday they had a conference with General McClellan of the Erie and Tom Scott, of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, and urged upon them the propriety of entering into a joint contract with the Producers and Refiners' Association of the oil region for the transportation of oil at fixed rates for a period of five years. The committee expect the bill incorporating the association they represent to become a law to-morrow in the Pennsylvania Legislature, when they will be ready to enter into the contract with the three trunk lines. They do not seek to bind the railroads to give them a monopoly of the freights but to induce the representatives of these three lines to fix a paying schedule, abolish all rebates, and charge the Southern Improvement Company and all competitors the same rates as the Pennsylvania producers pay. It is understood that the representatives of the Erie and the Pennsylvania Central look with favor upon this proposition but no decisive action could be arrived at owing to the absence from the city of Mr. Vanderbilt. The final conference takes place on Tuesday, when it is expected that satisfactory terms will be agreed upon if Mr. Vanderbilt will enter into the arrangement.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The United States sloop-of-war Ticonderoga arrived in the harbor of Rio Janeiro from a northern cruise on Tuesday, February 13, and left again on February 26 for Montevideo, to relieve the flagship Lancaster, which was to take her place at Rio Janeiro. The Ticonderoga was ordered to meet the sloop-of-war Portsmouth, on her way from the United States to Brazil with officers and crew to relieve the Lancaster, the officers and crew of which were then to join the Portsmouth and return to the United States. Admiral Lanman was to go home in the mail steamer which brought out his relief, supposed to be Admiral Jenkins.

P. A. Surgeon W. S. [illegible], Lieutenant W. B. Newman and Master C. H. Arnold all arrived in Rio Janeiro on February [illegible] by mail steamer Merrimack and went to Montevideo to the Ticonderoga, there to join the Wasp, for which vessel they have orders.

The steamer Hassler, with Professor Agassiz and [illegible] party on board, left Rio Janeiro on Thursday, February [illegible], for Montevideo, where they intend to make a stay of five days or a week.

The United States man-of-war Shawmut was, according to the latest advices, still at Ciudad Bolivar, Venezuela.

Governor Noyes to-day appointed N. R. Horton, of Pomeroy; John G. Peebles, of Portsmouth; Robert Martin, of Steubenville; Thomas J. Spencer and [illegible] Eggleston, of Cincinnati, as [illegible] to look after the improvement of the Ohio River.

AMUSEMENTS.

Italian Opera—"Mignon."

The Academy of Music was crowded to excess last night on the occasion of the first performance of Ambroise Thomas' "Mignon," the rôle of which was created in this city by Mlle. Nilsson. It seems as if immediately before the Swedish Nightingale closes her season the enthusiasm of the metropolitan public is on the increase, and certainly last night she and Capoul were the recipients of the highest honors ever paid to artists. Jamet made a thorough success [illegible] character of Lothario and the trio in the last act [illegible] was [illegible]. On Friday night [illegible] will be given for the first time in this country with the following cast:—Mlle. Christina Nilsson as Ophelia; Mlle. Annie Louise Cary as the Queen; Signor [illegible]; Mons. Jamet as Hamlet; [illegible] Polonius. We understand that the opera [illegible] will be presented with [illegible], and that [illegible] fully illustrated [illegible] regarding the scenery and appointments [illegible]

Edwin Booth as Bertuccio.

Tom Taylor's [illegible] "The Fool's Revenge" was last night presented [illegible] at Booth's Theatre. If we could look upon the stage as an institution for the display of the talent of one man we might compliment the direction on the selection of a piece which furnished Mr. Booth with a very [illegible] for the display of his powers. The character of the malicious, revengeful jester gave occasion for the bringing into play of whatever versatility the actor possessed, and it would be unjust to say that Mr. Booth did not acquit himself creditably in simulating the folly of the privileged fool as well as in the portrayal of the deeper [illegible] and [illegible] passions which Bertuccio allows us to see as the revelations of his inner self. [illegible] it appears to us that the further Mr. Booth [illegible] himself from the temptations of classic [illegible] the more effective he becomes in his impersonations. There is something cold and [illegible] in his nature that if it finds encouragement develops into measured elocution and graceful but unimpassioned action which chill by their [illegible]. In the representation last night there was more of the character of the man with its hidden emotions and storms of passion, and less of the rhetorician than we have in most of Mr. Booth's performances. The house applauded [illegible] and [illegible] liberal applause upon the actor. Although the play is full of interest and carries the attention of the audience well through to the dénouement, it has the serious defect that with the exception of Bertuccio the characters are rather sketched than drawn. Even had it been otherwise the weakness of the cast would have rendered the subordinate parts uninteresting. Mr. Pangs, as Dell'Aquila, displayed excellent intention and read his part with evident appreciation, but could not absolve himself from staginess. Miss Young played Fiordelisa with much correct feeling, but the part is somewhat beyond her present force, though we think that time and study can scarcely fail to develop in her talent of a high order.

Fifth Avenue Theatre.

"Fernande," Sardou's inimitable play, which has been so cleverly and artistically adapted to the American stage by a littérateur of this city, was presented last night at this theatre for the benefit of Miss Fanny Morant. The well known bénéficiaire succeeded in attracting a very large and enthusiastic audience and she played the rôle of the jealous, vindictive Clothilde with even more fire and passion than at the first representation of the play. The rest of the cast was as follows:—The Marquis André, Mr. Louis James; Philip Pomerol, Mr. D. H. Harkins; the Commandeur Jarbi, Mr. James Lewis; Roqueville, Mr. De Vere; Bracassin, Mr. G. Parkes; the Baron, Mr. F. Chapman; Alfred, Mr. Pierce; Frederick, Mr. Beekman; Antoine, Mr. Godfrey; Fernande, Miss Mary Cary; the Countess Clotilda, Miss Fanny Morant; Georgetta (Pomerol's wife), Miss Fanny Davenport; Madame Seneschal, Nellie Mortimer; Madame De La Brenne, Kate Claxton; the Baroness, Louise Volmer; Peachbloom, Roberta Norwood; Gibraltar, Ida Verance; Therese, Louise Volmer; maid servant, Miss Griffith. The principal changes in the cast from the first was the substitution of Miss Mary Cary for Agnes Ethel as Fernande and Mr. James for Mr. Clark as the Marquis André. The rest of the cast remained intact and was as efficient as before. Mr. James played the part of the young Marquis far more efficiently than his predecessor, and created quite a favorable impression. We regret to say that we cannot make the same statement about Miss Cary, who failed utterly to give tone to the tender sympathetic character of Fernande. To-night "Wives as They Were" will be presented for the first time this season.

ART MATTERS.

Exhibition of Snedecor's Collection of Paintings at Leavitt's Art Rooms.

One of the most pleasing and refreshing features of the exhibition which was placed on view on Tuesday night was the presence of a large number of water color paintings belonging to various European schools, but principally to the French. This department occupies the smaller of the two rooms which form the gallery. The works are nearly all of a very pleasing and interesting nature, happy in subject and brilliant in color. Delicacy of nuances and flatness of tints are obtained with much greater happiness in water color than in oil, and, though there may not be the same force or intensity of color, the charm of delicacy more than replaces it. As an example of unusual richness of color we will cite Berne Bellecour's "Lady and Parrot." The bright plumage of the bird has been reproduced with marvellous fidelity. In the painting of the carpet we have instance of the same power in a different direction. The eye is at once attracted to it and on the careful and elaborate reproduction of the texture of the carpet, which is soft in substance and strong in color. Vibert's grotesque spirit is represented by "The Narrow Pass," an incident of monastic life in Spain which we are fain to believe sufficiently rare. It is, however, full of a certain malicious drollery which makes it interesting. The pictorial qualities are certainly very strong, and will no doubt secure for this work considerable attention. There are many other works in this department that we should like to notice, but cannot to-day without neglecting the larger collection completely.

The oil paintings number about one hundred and fifty and among them are many works of a high order of merit. Perhaps the most pleasing feature of this part of the exhibition is the number and excellence of the American works which are found on the walls. In the place of honor at the end of the main room is placed Hart's

"UNDER THE ELMS."

It seems to cast its fresh and sunny influence on all the works about it. There is something at once so realistic in the quiet of the scene that it would not be difficult to imagine ourselves loitering in the shade of the trees listening to the music of the brook as it murmured by in its lazy midsummer fashion. The artist has fully realized the poetry of the noontime time when all nature seems to take a quiet siesta, preserving all her freshness and sweetness, with much of warmth and

TENDERNESS IN HER SHADOWS.

Nor are the excellencies confined to the pictorial qualities of the work. Joined to these is a rare technical merit, and evidence of that careful, loving labor which Mr. Hart ever gives to his paintings. To this conscientious work is due in no small degree the artist's success and reputation. Close work always tells in the end and is the surest road both to fame and fortune. It would be well that all our artists would keep this truth well in mind and guide themselves by it. Casilear's "Genesee Scenery" is also a most praiseworthy work, full of quiet charm. The trees on the left have been well studied and painted with knowledge and decision. In composition the picture is especially happy, and the vast meadow expanse which is carried into the background gives an unwonted depth to the scene, which seems to stretch miles away. Everywhere in this painting there are traces of firmness combined with Great Fire in Indiana.

LOUISVILLE, March 20, 1872.

The Ohio Falls Car Works at Jeffersonville, Ind., were destroyed by fire this afternoon. The fire was discovered about half-past two o'clock among the shavings in the planing mill, supposed to have caught from a spark from the smokestack, and spread to the remainder of the works and the lumber yard in the same enclosure, all of which were consumed. The works were the most extensive and complete of the kind in the country. The buildings alone covered five acres of ground besides a number of sheds and lumber yards. A large amount of machinery of the best quality, with a large quantity of car material, were in the building. The works employed about six hundred men and did an immense business. The works had orders at the time of the fire for 2,000 cars. Sixteen passenger cars [illegible] finished, a number of freight and other cars were burned.

The works cleared a net profit last year of $200,000.

The loss will reach $500,000 and insurance about $?0,000, mostly in Northern companies. Six hundred and sixty men were thrown out of work [illegible] nearly all of whom lost their tools. Several persons had a narrow escape from death during the fire. One man is missing, and it is feared was burned to death. Louisville engines were sent over to assist the two government [illegible] engine from Jeffersonville, but [illegible]. The company say they will rebuild the works immediately.

LATER.

The original cost of the works was $?00,000 [illegible] they had been largely extended since then. The missing man was found to be [illegible], a machinist, whose body was recovered from the ruins to-night. He went back to get his coat and was overcome by the smoke and heat before he could get out. [illegible] a wife and child. Later information places the net loss over the insurance at $?00,000. The total insurance is $2??,??0, in the following companies:—National of Boston, Home of Columbus, Atlantic of Brooklyn, Enterprise of Philadelphia, Kenton of Covington, Citizens of New York, Gas [illegible] of Newport, Ky., Georgia Home and Merchants of Louisville, Fire and Marine of Springfield, Commerce of Albany, Hoffman, Continental, Star and Standard of New York, Hartford of Hartford, Peoples, of Worcester, Franklin, of Indianapolis, West Chester, New York, Phenix, Brooklyn and St. Nicholas, New York, $2,500 each. Allemania, Cleveland, $2,000 [illegible] Cincinnati, Franklin, Louisville, North British and Mercantile, Louisville Insurance and Banking Company, Enterprise, Cincinnati, American Central, St. Louis, Virginia Home, Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Royal, Liverpool and London, Mercantile, New York and Merchants, Providence, $5,000 each. Amazon, Cincinnati, Triumph, Cincinnati Underwriters, New York, and Imperial, London, $10,000 each. Queen's, Liverpool and London, Home, New York, $15,000 each, Tradesmen's, New York, $4,000. In addition to the above the car wheel works had policies to the amount of $60,000 on materials not destroyed.

The companies have insurance on property not affected by the fire as follows:—In the Franklin, Philadelphia, $11,000; Andes, Cincinnati, $5,000; Phenix, Brooklyn, $4,000; North British and Mercantile, $2,500; Home, New York, $10,000.

Burning of an Opera House in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20, 1872.

A fire occurred at seven o'clock this morning in the upper part of Simmons & Slocum's Ethiopian Opera House on Arch street. The interior and roof were destroyed.

A fireman was injured by the falling of a cornice to which he was clinging.

The building is owned by Simmons, Slocum & Gassed.

The loss by the fire it is now estimated will not exceed $50,000. Insurance, $25,000 in the Royal, and the London and Liverpool and Globe $10,000 each, and the Farmers' Mutual, of New York, $2,500.

Fire at the Logan House, in Altoona, Pa.

ALTOONA, Pa., March 20, 1872.

The new extension of the Logan House took fire at midnight and was destroyed, with a portion of the east wing, the upper stories of which were burned. The furniture was mostly saved. The main building, including the large dining room, is uninjured, and passengers arriving by the trains find accommodations. The building will be repaired at once. The loss is estimated at $60,000. The property is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Loss of Life in Watertown.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 20, 1872.

The house of a farmer named Robert Bowles, near Theresa, was burned on Monday night. The family were obliged to leave the house in their night clothes, and several of them had their limbs badly frozen. Mr. Bowles was so severely burned while attempting to save the children that he died the next day. He was a wealthy farmer and besides a large amount of property destroyed he lost a number of government bonds in the flames. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Fire in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 20, 1872.

The extensive sash and blind factory of Robinson & Cunningham, on Canton avenue, together with the agricultural implement manufactory and the Baltimore car wheel factory adjoining, were burned this morning. Owing to a high wind the buildings were speedily consumed. They covered an area of one block. The loss by the fire is estimated about $80,000. Robinson & Cunningham suffered to the extent of about $75,000 and the Baltimore Car Wheel Company, the balance. Robinson & Cunningham were insured for $38,500 in the following offices:—Firemens, $12,800; Maryland, $5,325; German, $2,500; Union, $2,500; Potomac, $2,000—all of Baltimore; Royal, of Liverpool, $6,375; Franklin, of Philadelphia, $1,500; Fire and Marine, of Wheeling, $1,875; Franklin, of Wheeling, $1,250; Citizens' Fire and Marine, of Wheeling, $625; Farmers' Mutual, of York, Pa., $1,250; West Virginia, $1,000, and Peabody, of Wheeling, $1,000. The Baltimore Car Wheel Company were insured in the Cleveland office for $2,000.

Fire at Greenpoint—A Dyewoods Mill Submerged by the Fire Department—Losses $30,000 by Water and $300 by Fire.

At about six o'clock yesterday morning a fire was discovered on the fourth floor of the extensive dyewoods mill of James L. Hanway & Co., situated at the intersection of West and Green streets, Greenpoint.

When the night watchman in the mill discovered the fire he immediately gave an alarm, and several workmen employed in the neighborhood hurried to his assistance. The hose continually kept on the premises for the purpose was then used with great effect in subduing the flames, and the fire was thus prevented from making much headway. On the arrival of the steam fire engines an immense volume of water was thrown on the burning story to insure the safety of the building, and, that having been effected, an investigation was made. It was then ascertained that the fire was confined to a very small space, causing a damage not exceeding $300, but the water poured in torrents down through the lower floors and damaged dyestuffs variously estimated at from $20,000 to $30,000. The entire property was fully covered by insurance in various companies. The Fire Marshal is investigating the cause of the fire, which some suppose to be of incendiary origin.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Chamber of Commerce invite any member or other persons interested on the subject, to furnish in writing any statement of facts or reasons which they may deem desirable in order to facilitate a proper examination of the merits of the new coinage bill now before the Congress of the United States.

The directors of the Mercantile Library have determined to obtain the opinion of the members of that association as to whether the library [illegible] be kept open on Sunday. ADMIRAL POLO.

Interview with the New Spanish Minister at Washington.

HE SAYS "LET US HAVE PEACE."

Admiral Polo's Favorable Opinion of the United States.

CLEMENCY TOWARD THE CUBANS.

Admiral Polo de Bernabe, whose appointment as Spanish Minister to Washington has formed the theme of much newspaper comment—almost more or less erroneous—arrived in this city yesterday evening by the steamer [illegible] from South America. Some [illegible] despatches have placed regarding this gentleman by their contradicting and repeating his nomination that when it was positively [illegible] he would take the place of the retiring Minister, Don Mauricio Lopez Roberts, there were still people sceptical enough to believe it. This doubt has now been dispelled by the actual arrival of the gallant Admiral.

The HERALD, [illegible] feeling to set right the unfavorable and contradictory statements regarding the opinions and character of the new Spanish Minister, despatched a member of its staff to elicit from his own lips the truth as to these reports. The writer called at the Clarendon Hotel, where Admiral Polo is now staying, and had himself announced, not without [illegible] misgiving as to meeting with a cold, discouraging reception. From what he had heard he expected to be received as Byron describes Satan to have received Archangel Michael on all occasions—"like a haughty Castilian looking down upon a mushroom civilian." But in this he was agreeably disappointed. The Admiral is in the vigor of life and has an open, pleasing countenance and an engaging manner. He combines the frankness of a sailor with the polish of a high toned gentleman.

Admiral Polo, as he informed the writer, is now fifty years of age, and was born in Valencia, Spain. He has seen thirty-four years' active service, rising step by step to his present grade in the Spanish navy. At the age of eighteen he fought in the Carlist war, on the side of the Bourbons. When the revolution which dethroned Queen Isabella broke out he was sick in Germany, and on his return obtained from the provisional government the command of the Spanish fleet in the Mediterranean. When King Amadeus arrived in Spain he was a member of the Board of Admiralty, and was afterwards sent to command the South American fleet, which position he had once before filled with the rank of post captain.

Admiral Polo is accompanied by his deputy, who is also his brother-in-law, and his son, a bright boy of about fifteen, who were present when the following conversation took place. The Admiral speaks English quite fluently. The writer began in this wise:—

"I have taken the liberty to call on you, Admiral, to obtain some precise information regarding yourself and your mission, and, if possible, to correct the unfavorable reports which have been circulated."

"I have been told that I am represented as being prejudiced and hostile towards the American nation. I can assure you it is a great mistake. I am a sailor with a great love of my profession, and have never meddled, nor ever wanted to meddle with politics. In proof of this I may tell you that I declined the mission of London, which I was offered by the provisional government in 1868. I prefer, however, the United States to any other foreign country and have always felt sympathy with the American people. I met with a highly flattering reception when I visited New York in 1860. I then commanded the Carmen. I remember I spent many pleasant hours with your naval officers and some distinguished people in this city. I was also tendered the freedom of the city of New York. I had the testimonial framed and carry it always with me."

"Then there is no truth whatever in the report that you are prejudiced against or hostile toward the American nation?"

"None whatever. Although mine is a war profession yet I consider war the thing by all means to be avoided. Like your President, I have seen enough of war and am a man of peace. I do not yet know the questions pending between the two governments, but I have no doubt that all the differences can be settled in a friendly way. It is my opinion that war is the very last extremity to resort to. I would first exhaust all possible means of diplomacy, and, even when things look very threatening, let some time elapse to restore calmness, and then renew negotiations."

"I suppose, Admiral, it is also untrue—what has been reported—that you have written a pamphlet speaking in very unfavorable terms of the people and navy of the United States?"

"No, sir. I never wrote a pamphlet at all. I do not understand how such a rumor could have been started. I am for strictly keeping the law and international obligations, not giving way to passions and prejudices."

"What is your opinion, Admiral, regarding Cuba?"

"Well, I believe that the insurrection should be at first completely suppressed, and then the people educated up to free institutions."

"Were you not sorry, sir, when you heard of the executions of the students?"

"I was shocked. I was shocked."

"Does your appointment, Admiral, signify a change of policy with regard to the United States?"

"No, sir, it does not. There can be but one policy—a policy of peace."

"How long do you intend to remain in this city?"

"Only a few days. Señor Roberts has not yet presented his letters of recall, but everything will be arranged in a few days. My credentials have already arrived, and all I hope is that I shall be as fortunate in keeping up friendly relations with your government as Señor Roberts has been."

COLLISION ON THE HUDSON.

Schooner Sunk by a Collision with the Propeller J. L. Hasbrouck—Narrow Escape of the Crew—Barge Damaged.

At seven o'clock on Tuesday evening the propeller J. L. Hasbrouck, of Poughkeepsie, with the barge Charles Spear, of Newburg, in tow, ran into a schooner opposite Fifty-ninth street, New York city. The schooner, name unknown, was loaded with brick and sank in five minutes after the collision. She was nearly cut in two by the bow of the propeller, which struck her amidships. Three of her crew were promptly taken on board the Hasbrouck. A fourth jumped overboard through fright, but he was rescued and the accident was unattended by loss of life or personal injury. The schooner was tacking at the time of the collision, which occurred at dusk, and the propeller's men say they were not to blame for the accident, that the schooner had no lights up and the change in her course was made so suddenly that the pilot of the Hasbrouck, having a heavy barge in tow, was unable to avoid the collision. The propeller was very little injured by the accident. The barge had all her bow lines broken and sustained other damage by being struck by the [illegible] of the schooner. The schooner was owned in Haverstraw. The trip of the Hasbrouck and Spear to Newburg was a very long one, occupying from six o'clock on Tuesday evening to six on Wednesday morning. Heavy ice was encountered in the Highlands. If the present severe weather continues a day or two river navigation between Newburg and New York will be seriously impeded, as new ice is forming all the time.

RHODE ISLAND DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 20, 1872.

The Rhode Island Democratic State Convention met in this city this morning. A. J. Barnaby was chosen President. Nominations for State officers were made as follows:—For Governor, Olney Arnold, of Providence; Lieutenant Governor, Charles R. [illegible], of Warren; Secretary of State, William [illegible]; Attorney General, George N. [illegible]; General Treasurer, William [illegible], of Newport.

A [illegible] upon the propriety of sending delegates to the National Convention [illegible] called, the [illegible] delegates were chosen to the Democratic National Convention to be held:—Amasa Sprague, [illegible], William B. Beach, Nicholas Van Slyck, Nathan B. [illegible], Elisha C. Clarke, Thomas A. Reyno[illegible], Edward W. Brennan. No resolutions were adopted. A State Central Committee was appointed and the Convention adjourned.

CONGRESS.

ANOTHER ROUT OF THE LOBBIES.

The One Million Amendment to the Pacific Mail Subsidy Defeated in the House.

Chicago's Relief Bill Passed in the Senate.

THE TARIFF UNDER CONSIDERATION.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1872.

SALE OF SHAWNEE LANDS.

Mr. CALDWELL, (rep.) of Kansas, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported without amendment the bill to confirm the sales of the Shawnee Indian lands in Kansas.

Bills were introduced as follows:—

BRIDGES AND RAILROADS.

By Mr. RAMSEY, (rep.) of Minn.—Authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Red Wing, Minn.

By Mr. LOGAN, (rep.) of Ill.—Authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Quincy, Ill.

By Mr. HITCHCOCK, (rep.) of Neb.—Granting the right of way to the Cheyenne, Iron Mountain and Pacific Railroad and Telegraph Company.

On motion of Mr. MORTON, (rep.) of Ind., the bill authorizing the construction of a railroad bridge across the Ohio River at or near Evansville, Ind., was taken up and discussed until the expiration of the morning hour.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of

THE CHICAGO RELIEF BILL.

Mr. CARPENTER, (rep.) of Wis., again argued that it was unconstitutional.

Mr. TRUMBULL, (rep.) of Ill., argued that it was not.

Several amendments were offered and rejected, and the bill as reported from the Finance Committee was then passed—yeas 20, nays 17.

Mr. SHERMAN, (rep.) of Ohio, moved to resume the consideration of

THE TARIFF BILL.

Mr. CHANDLER, (rep.) of Mich., announced that he would oppose the consideration of this Tariff bill at every stage, because he regarded it as a bill on which the Senate ought not to waste a moment.

The bill was then taken up and Mr. MORRILL, (rep.) of Vt., addressed the Senate at length.

Mr. HAMILTON, (dem.) of Md., followed with an argument against a protective and in favor of a revenue tariff.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN, (rep.) of N. J., obtained the floor, but yielded for a motion to go into executive session, which was carried, and the Senate soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1872.

REPUBLICS NOT UNGRATEFUL.

Mr. MAYNARD, (rep.) of Tenn., introduced a bill to pension the widow of Admiral Farragut at the rate of one-fourth of his pay at the time of his death. Referred.

Mr. TOWNSEND, (dem.) of N. Y., presented a petition for a lighthouse on Block Island.

Mr. SPEER, (dem.) of Pa., offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of State for information as to the amounts paid to newspapers for publishing the laws of the United States. Adopted.

OHIO RIVER BRIDGES.

The House, on motion of Mr. HOLMAN, (dem.) of Ind., took up the bill reported by the Committee on Commerce to authorize the construction of bridges across the Ohio River, and to prescribe their dimensions. The bill requires all bridges above the mouth of the Big Sandy to have one span, not less than ninety feet in height, above low water, and forty feet above the highest water: all below that point to have one span, not less than 100 feet high, above low water, and forty feet above the highest water, and all below the Covington and Cincinnati Suspension Bridge to have in addition to such high span a pivot draw, giving two clear openings of 160 feet each.

After considerable discussion the bill was passed.

SIXTEEN CENT TOBACCO TAX.

Mr. PLATT, (rep.) of Va., presented a petition of the operatives in the tobacco factories of Petersburg, Va., for a uniform tax of sixteen cents a pound on manufactured tobacco.

Mr. SAWYER, (rep.) of Wis., from the Committee on Commerce, reported back, with amendments, the Senate bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Clinton, Iowa, for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad. The amendments were agreed to and the bill passed.

REGISTERING A DUTCHMAN.

Mr. CONGER, from the same committee, reported a bill to issue an American register to the Dutch bark Alice Tarleton, of Boston. Passed.

YACHT'S NAME.

The House bill to change the name of the pleasure yacht Lois to that of Sea Witch was taken from the table, and the Senate amendment to it was concurred in which changes the name of the yacht William M. Tweed to that of Julia.

SHIPPING SEAMEN.

Mr. CONGER, (rep.) of Mich., also reported a bill to authorize the appointment of Shipping Commissioners to superintend the shipping and discharge of seamen on American merchant ships and for the further protection of seamen. He explained that the bill was modelled upon the English law on that subject, and that it had received the approval of the mercantile community, and that the commissioners were to be appointed by the United States Circuit Judges. The bill is very voluminous, containing sixty-seven sections, shipping articles or agreements, one to be signed by each seaman, in the presence of a commissioner. Any ship carrying a seaman to sea, except a stowaway, without his signing such an agreement shall incur a penalty of $200. Stipulations for the allotment of wages must be inserted in the agreement; no advance of wages or advance note shall be given to any person but the seaman himself. Seamen are to be discharged and to receive their wages in and to receive certificates of discharge. All questions in dispute between masters and seamen are to be decided by the commissioner. The commissioner is to take charge of the wages and effects of the seamen dying in the United States and deliver the same to the United States Circuit Court of the district. The bill provides penalties against seamen for desertion, disobedience and other offences. The wages of seamen are not to be subject to attachment or assignment. The act of at boarding houses within twenty-four hours after the arrival of their ships is made an offence punishable by fine and imprisonment. The bill contains, also, a schedule of the commissioner's fees, fixing $2 as the fee for engaging each member of the crew and fifty cents for discharging him, and $5 for any apprenticeship agreement. It contains also a scale of provisions to be allowed and served out to the crew during the voyage.

After considerable discussion, suggestions and amendments, the bill went over until to-morrow.

The bill for the reorganization of the civil service, which was the special order for to-day, was, on motion of Mr. WILLARD, (rep.) of Vt., further postponed till this day four weeks.

THE PACIFIC MAIL SUBSIDY.

The House then, at half-past two, went into Committee of the Whole on the Post Office Appropriation bill, Mr. WHEELER, (rep.) of N. Y., in the chair, the pending question being on the increase of subsidy to the China Mail steamers. The time for debate was extended to four o'clock, when the vote is to be taken.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (dem.) of New York, advocated the amendment, contending that it was not a subsidy, but simply a provision for extending the mail service.

Mr. BLAIR, (rep.) of Mich., opposed the amendment, and declared his belief that the Americans would conquer in the struggle for the trade of the Pacific Ocean, and for the restoration of the flag on the Atlantic Ocean, not by subsidies, but by their own energy and enterprise.

Mr. PACKARD, (rep.) of Ind., advocated the amendment. If the commerce of the Pacific could be gained by energy and enterprise alone he would be content with that, but if not he would lend the aid and support of the government to it.

Mr. HAY, (rep.) of Ill., desired to put himself on record as well by speech as by vote against the policy of subsidies. It was a system of special legislation and in the interest of those who kept the lobbies. The committee rooms and the galleries were crowded with their agents.

Mr. HAZELTON, (rep.) of N. J., advocated the amendment. He announced his belief in protection and his opposition to what he called the "heresy of free trade." England had become great long before she adopted that heresy, her conquests having been made chiefly under the protective policy. He went for this amendment in the interest of commerce.

Mr. STEVENSON, (rep.) of Ohio, opposed the amendment chiefly because he recognized it as the first of a series of subsidy measures. This country could not compete with empires and monarchies in granting monopolies and subsidies. The American people believed in another principle—that of equality, and equal chance and a fair show for all. Congress should throw down the barriers and admit ships to American registry wherever built. Then it should amend the tariff, so as to cause the maintenance of ships cheaper than at present, and to diminish the cost of articles bought abroad, and so encourage commerce.

LET COMMERCE BE FREE,

and let a free flag wave over it.

Mr. DICKEY, (rep.) of Pa., advocated the amendment. There were three parties on this question of subsidy—First, those who were nominally opposed to all subsidies except their own; they were very much in favor of commerce when it dug out a bar in the channel of a river in their own district or built a custom house. The gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Stevenson, always went for deepening the channel of the Ohio, as if the commerce of the world began and ended on the Ohio. Another class, and including the gentlemen from Illinois and Kentucky (Messrs. Farnsworth and Beck), believed that the only proper kind of subsidy was the subsidy to the shipbuilders of the Clyde.

Mr. BECK, (dem.) of Ky.—You want to give it to the nickel fellows in Pennsylvania.

Mr. DICKEY—They are willing to help the steamship company, provided they build their ships on the Clyde.

Mr. W. R. ROBERTS, (dem.) of N. Y.—That is not true.

Mr. DICKEY—That is the logical deduction of the argument. A third party believed, with the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Coburn), that commerce was simply cheap freight for himself. He (Mr. Dickey) believed there was such a thing as commerce carried on in American ships, built by American mechanics, commanded by American captains and sailed by American crews.

Mr. STORM, (dem.) of Pa., opposed the amendment on the principle of [illegible]—"oppose the first appearance of evil." Every lobbyist would go for the amendment, every New York banker and broker would go for it; everybody who had stock in the Pacific Railroad or Steamship company would go for it, because the Mail Steamship Company was but the TAIL OF THE CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

By the combination of these two companies competition, which is the life of trade, would be crushed out. The Panama Railroad, which was their rival, would be destroyed.

The discussion was further continued by Messrs. Coughlan, (rep.) of Cal.; Snyder, (rep.) of La.; Hawley, (rep.) of Ill.; Peters, (rep.) of Me., and Carroll, (dem.) of N. Y., in support of the amendment, and by Messrs. Whitthorne, (dem.) of Tenn.; Marshall, (dem.) of Ill.; Randall, (dem.) of Pa., and Kerrick, (dem.) of Mo., against it.

Mr. FRYE spoke of the great depression of the shipbuilding interest, saying that on the Canadian side of the St. Croix River, which separates Maine from Canada, there were numerous vessels being built, while on the American side, having the same interests, not a hammer was heard. He denied that the shipping interests had been injured by the depredations of the Alabama and such privateers. On the contrary, it was stimulated and benefited by them. What was wanted was

A DRAWBACK ON SHIPBUILDING MATERIALS.

Mr. MERRICK protested against having a mercenary commerce. He would rather that the country had no commerce at all. The sooner the people realized the degradation to which they were brought by the protective policy the better for them. They would apply the remedy.

The committee at four o'clock proceeded to vote on the various amendments.

Mr. CROCKER'S amendment, providing the government to take possession of the steamers in case of war, was agreed to.

The next question was on Mr. FARNSWORTH'S amendment, keeping the subsidy at [illegible] and allowing the service to be performed by foreign built ships. It was rejected by 63 to 89.

THE TEST VOTE.

The amendment making the service semi-monthly and the compensation $1,000,000 was defeated by 87 to 92.

The announcement of the vote was applauded on the democratic side.

The committee then proceeded with the remaining portion of the bill.

Mr. UPSON, (rep.) of Ohio, moved an amendment to prohibit employees of the departments from acting as agents or attorneys for the prosecution of claims within two years after leaving office. [illegible]

Mr. FARNSWORTH moved to amend by applying the same rule to members of Congress, but it was ruled out of order. Mr. Upson's amendment, having been modified, was [illegible] [illegible].

The committee rose and reported the bill to the House. The bill was passed, and the House, at five o'clock, adjourned.

THE DOUBLE BARRELLED ARMS INQUIRY.

The House Committee—Examination of Secretary Robeson and Commodore Case—A Ten Thousand Rifle Story.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1872.

The House Committee on Expenditures in the War Department met this morning. Secretary Robeson was sworn, and testified that early in the year 1871 the Navy Department made an arrangement with the War Department for the manufacture of ten thousand Remington rifles for the use of the navy. A Board of Naval Officers had been appointed for the trial of breech-loading arms with the view of selecting the best for the naval service. The Board experimented with all the breech-loading arms and selected Remington's as the best. After their report the Navy Department contracted with the War Department for the manufacture of 10,000 arms for the navy. While the arms were in progress of manufacture it was discovered there was a defect in the plan. He did not think the defect was a radical one, but the arms were not exactly what the navy wanted. The price the navy was to pay was to be ascertained by the government after they were finished. He thought between fourteen and fifteen dollars apiece. The navy was to pay in addition $1 a rifle as royalty on Remington's patent. While the arms were being manufactured and before delivered Messrs. Poultney, Trimble & Co., arms dealers, of Baltimore, applied to the Navy Bureau for the purchase of their arms, offering to pay a proper price for them. This firm had given an order for the 10,000 arms to enable the navy to purchase 12,000. These Remington arms were manufactured at the Springfield Armory, and the contract was consummated March 21, 1871, when the Franco-German war was virtually over.

The arms were not delivered until April. He recollected correctly peace was concluded on the 26th of February, and the Germans entered Paris on the 1st of March. The navy made about forty thousand dollars by the agreement with Poultney, Trimble & Co. The inducement for making it was threefold: first, to obtain 12,000 stand of arms for the same amount that 10,000 would cost; secondly, because the arms originally manufactured were not perfect; and third, because General Dyer desired to have the men at the Springfield armory kept at work. The Navy Department had always sold everything not wanted when it could sell to advantage. The custom had been to sell surplus arms and supplies, and even ships, ever since the organization of the government, under all administrations and at all times. Witness was informed some of these arms were sold in Turkey, Egypt and England.

Commodore Case, Chief of the Ordnance Bureau of the Navy Department, being sworn, corroborated the statements of the Secretary of the Navy; the board of officers who selected the Remington arms were appointed in 1869 and reported in 1870; they met at St. Louis; the defect discovered in the arms was that the sight was nearer the breech-block than desired; an inch and a half higher up the barrel gave a better sight; by the arrangement with Poultney, Trimble & Co. the Navy Department made a net profit of $21,6[illegible], or 2,000 rifles; the arms sold to that firm were delivered at New York and resold to parties in London.

The Chairman (Mr. Williams) asked—Have any agents of foreign governments ever made objection or protest against the sale of these arms?

Commodore Case replied: I never heard of any such objection or protest ever having been made to the department.

Mr. Barber inquired whether witness had any knowledge or information as to whom Poultney & Co. expected to sell the arms?

Witness replied—None whatever.

Mr. Acker asked—Do you know of any person in the War or Navy Department personally interested in the sales?

Commodore Case—I know nothing whatever.

The committee desire to examine General Dyer, but cannot now do so, owing to his critical physical condition.

The committee adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman, and will make their report before the Senate arms examination shall be concluded.

The Senate Committee.

The Senate Arms Committee to-day examined Messrs. Hall, McGowan and Riley, clerks of the Ordnance Bureau at New York, with reference generally to delivery of arms.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE INQUIRY.

"Tom" Murphy Corrects Himself—Examination of Bliss.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1872.

The New York Custom House Investigating Committee met this afternoon.

Ex-Collector Murphy made a correction of previous testimony. He had stated that he had received a letter from General Porter about disagreements in the Republican General Committee. He now wished to say on reflection, and after conversation with General Porter, that Porter never wrote such a letter. The letter came from the Secretary of the Treasury. In his reply to Senator Casserly yesterday he meant to say that a republican who held was not fit to hold office. He did not wish to be understood as referring to merely personal or business relations.

On being cross-examined by Senators Bayard and Casserly he said the letter from the Secretary of the Treasury was private, in which the writer inquired as to the names of certain persons in the Custom House. The witness thought he furnished the required list. He saw General Porter last night at his hotel in company with other gentlemen, and there spoke to him about having written the letter. General Porter said he never wrote such a letter. Bliss, who was one of the company, said he was certain the letter was written by Secretary Boutwell, for he had seen it. He was one of those who recommended General Arthur to be his successor as Collector at the port of New York, and used his influence to obtain the favor of the appointing power.

MR. GEORGE BLISS, JR.,

of New York, being sworn, said, in answer to a question by the chairman, that he came to the Custom House the day Horace Greeley was being examined, and found him testifying to matters of which he knew nothing of his own knowledge. He knew Mr. Greeley made incorrect statements, and he stayed there the entire day. Many of his republican friends whom he met asked the witness to attend the examination before the committee. He assumed to represent members of the republican party, as he regarded this investigation as an attempt to make, in some measure, which he supported, and as an attack on his personal friends, and, therefore, he did what he could to protect them by bringing out the truth. Witness gave a circumstantial statement of the causes of the trouble in the republican party in New York, introducing the name of Horace Greeley in the connection and giving various names of Tammany republicans who were rewarded with office under the municipal government. He was also examined on other subjects. On cross-examination by Senator Bayard witness said he was subpœnaed at his own suggestion. He had suggested methods and lines of examination of witnesses before the committee when it sat in New York. He had prepared questions to be asked and handed them to Senators Howe and Pratt. He was acting in behalf of republicans in and out of the Custom House. He had been a member of the bar for seventeen years. He was examined at length relative to his arrangements with John Bennett to secure the Greeley organization influence, and confirmed the statement of Mr. Murphy as to the scheme for defeating Horace Greeley as delegate to the State Convention, and the giving of money to Bennett in furtherance of the object.

CAPITAL AGAINST THE ADMINISTRATION,

The committee adjourned until to-morrow at one o'clock.

FIRE IN JERSEY CITY.

Shortly after five o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the large frame building used as a glass factory by Goesling & Co., at the corner of Henderson and Bay streets, Jersey City. Despite all the exertions of the firemen the building was consumed. The tool shop and part of the residence of Mr. James Carroll, adjoining, were also consumed. Mr. W. Knight's stable was slightly damaged. The flames spread across to two rows of brick tenement houses, and the sleeping inmates were soon aroused. The scene that followed was one of intense excitement. The wooden stoops and window cornices caught fire, and the occupants were wild with terror. Sergeant Gilkinson and Officer Eaton, while endeavoring to remove some of the inmates, were prostrated by the heat and smoke, but all the occupants of the house were taken out. Streams of water were then directed on the buildings, and they were saved, though the furniture was much damaged by water.

Goesling & Co. lose about fourteen thousand dollars, which is almost entirely covered by insurance; Henry Carroll, owner of the building, $5,000, fully insured; W. Knight, $200; James Carroll, $250. The loss to the city in apparatus connected with the Jersey City Water Works, and stowed away in Mr. James Carroll's tool shop, does not fall short of $5,000.

A TRAIN FAST IN THE SNOW.

FONDA, N. Y., March 20, 1872.

The train which left here this morning at thirty-five minutes past nine on the Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville Railroad, with three engines, is fast in a snow bank, a mile long and six to ten feet deep, near Gloversville. It will not get through to-night. The storm was terrible.

EX-COMPTROLLER CONNOLLY.

HIS RUMORED FLIGHT TO EUROPE.

His Lawyers Don't Want to Know Anything About Him, and Mr. Fithian Denies that He Has Fled.

The report of the proceedings in the case of Hagerty and Banch, the alleged voucher forgers, before Judge Cardozo, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, on Tuesday published in yesterday's HERALD revived a common topic of discussion around the City Hall, which had almost passed from the memories of the loungers who haunt the vestibule of the County Court House. This was nothing other than the vexed question of the present location which ex-Comptroller Connolly just now honors with his presence. The statement of District Attorney Garvin in Court on Tuesday that he found it impossible to find Mr. Connolly has effectually revived the old question, and has created

NO SMALL SENSATION.

In political circles sensations have followed each other so quickly since Mr. Connolly was admitted to bail and retired from public life that the recollection of his case and his remarkable absence from the political arena were swamped in the unexpected appearance of Andrew Garvey, the great plasterer, on the witness stand at Mayor Hall's trial and the other extraordinary events which followed the first great crash. At first the question was on every lip for a day or two, but so many questions relating to

"WHERE IS DICK CONNOLLY?"

THE FALLEN PILLARS OF TAMMANY

have been so often asked and never answered that the curious gave up questioning in disgust. Yesterday, however, Mr. Connolly's disappearance was discussed with as great relish as ever. For some days back a HERALD reporter has been endeavoring to find out Mr. Connolly's retreat. Mr. Connolly's relatives and bondsmen, Surrogate Hutchings, Mr. Joel A. Fithian—both sons-in-law of the ex-Comptroller—and his other relations, have absolutely refused to give any information to reporters regarding Mr. Connolly's movements, alleging that they have quite enough to do to without interfering in his affairs. On Tuesday evening the reporter learned from a gentleman formerly very well acquainted with Mr. Connolly, and one who might to be considered a very good authority, that Mr. Connolly had left this country about six weeks ago, and that his destination was the Island of Jersey, one of the islands in the English Channel. This gentleman further stated that Connolly had reached his destination, and that he had been heard from from the other side within the last few days. This information the reporter's informant said he had received from the most trustworthy source. Yesterday another gentleman, formerly associated with Mr. Connolly, gave the reporter the same information as "the most profound secret," and was somewhat taken aback at hearing that the reporter was in possession of the news before. Whatever of truth is in this rumor the reporter traced it to what ought to be very responsible authority. The first person he called on to verify the report was of the ex-Comptroller. The gentleman said point blank that he did not know where Mr. Connolly was, and that if he did know he would not tell. He next called on Mr. Samuel G. Courtney, one of Mr. Connolly's lawyers, when the following conversation took place:—

Mr. COURTNEY—I do not know anything about Mr. Connolly, nor do I want to.

REPORTER—I have heard a report that Mr. Connolly has left this country.

Mr. COURTNEY—Have you? Well, I have not. Several weeks ago I heard from Mr. Connolly, but latterly I do not know anything of his movements. He may be in any part of the world for aught I know now.

REPORTER—Well, do you know whether he will turn up again or not?

Mr. COURTNEY.—You may safely state in the HERALD that when Mr. Connolly is wanted here by his own business that he will be on hand. Till then he will not appear.

REPORTER—Might I ask, is there any special reason for this course?

Mr. COURTNEY—Yes; there is tangible reason, too. You see he has a very heavy case to try himself, by and by, which involves an immense amount of property. It would be a great hardship for him to come here now to be put on the witness stand in these other cases to be badgered and browbeaten in cross-examination. He is determined to go on the witness stand in no case but his own, and when the time for his trial arrives I believe he will be here.

REPORTER—Then you know nothing of Mr. Connolly's whereabouts?

Mr. COURTNEY—No, sir; I do not, and I do not wish to know, even from you, if you could tell me.

The reporter subsequently called on Mr. Joel A. Fithian, at his office, in Nassau street. He told Mr. Fithian that he had heard a rumor that Mr. Connolly was at the other side of the Atlantic, and that he wished to verify it. Mr. Fithian quickly answered—

"Mr. Connolly is not in England, sir, and I pledge you my honor on that fact."

Further information Mr. Connolly's relatives refuse to give, for the reasons above stated.

EXAMINING THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE.

The Judiciary Sub-Committee Overhauling the District Attorney's Office—Inquiry Into Floating Charges of Irregularity to be Instituted.

One of the Sub-Committees of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, consisting of three members—Messrs. Strahan (Chairman), Vedder and Hill—entered upon their duties pursuant to a resolution of the Legislature, at the District Attorney's office, in this city, yesterday morning. The resolution, which was passed upon the 12th of February last, sets forth that "Whereas grave charges and reflections have appeared in the public press in and about the city of New York against and upon the office of District Attorney of the city of New York, it was resolved that the Judiciary Committee of the House of Assembly be directed to investigate the said and, in addition thereto, that said committee be particularly directed to investigate the said office as to the number of indictments on file therein, for what offence, the number of recognizances taken in the said office, the nature and sufficiency thereof, the amount of moneys paid on forfeited recognizances and such other matters as the said committee shall deem best for the public good, and that the said committee have power to send for persons and papers and report back as soon as prepared so to do before the final adjournment of the present session."

Escorted by Judge Garvin and Assistant District Attorney Stewart, the committee inspected the various rooms in the department, examined minutely the different receptacles for papers and documents, and finally took their seats in the clerks' room, occupied by Messrs. Vandervoort and Sparkes, in closets around the walls of which are stored all for the past ten years in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Sessions. It was supposed by the committee that these indictments were on file in the District Attorney's office, but Judge Garvin explained that though the indictments were drawn and subpœnas issued from his office, after a case was tried the indictment was stored in the clerks' room, out of his custody—yet books were kept in which were recorded the final disposition of each case tried. Assistant District Attorney Stewart explained the usual mode of procedure in cases where indictments were found, and made a complaint that papers were very frequently sent from the magistrates' courts and it repeatedly occurred that cases were sent in, the evidence in which, though justified an indictment, but not a conviction, causing some [illegible], which he endeavored to obviate by placing a memorandum upon them previous to [illegible].

The District Attorney said that when it was thought by him that there was no case at all the indictment was returned to the magistrate. Mr. Sparkes prepared an annual statement showing the number of indictments, trials, sentences and acquittals.

Mr. Strahan carefully examined the index books and registers of indictments, found and the disposition made thereof; also the records of committals, acquittals, cases bailed, &c., and requested that Mr. Sparkes would have ready this morning a schedule of the total number of convictions during the years 1869, 1870, 1871, and as far into the present year as possible. Judge Garvin promised that this should be done, and expressed his willingness to lend every possible assistance in his power to facilitate and further the investigation. The committee then adjourned until eleven o'clock A. M. to-day.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

The Commissioners of the Department of Public Instruction met in stated session yesterday, at four o'clock P. M., nine Commissioners in attendance and President Smyth in the chair.

Communications were received from the trustees of the various schools relative to salaries of teachers, repairs of school buildings, &c.

A resolution presented by Mr. Lewis, and adopted by the Board, provided that the salary of Alexander Montrose, Principal of Grammar School No. 21, be paid during the months of January and February, the trustees of the Tenth ward not having made provision for the same.

Resolutions were passed relating to the salaries of Mr. Vanderpoel, counsel to the Board, and Dr. O'Sullivan, physician to the Board.

The committee of investigation of the case of Miss L. Swayne, assistant teacher of male department of Grammar School No. 20, who lately protested against the action of the trustees of the ward in removing her to an inferior position, decided that her protest should be respected, and that she should be given her former position.

The question of the proper age of candidates for admission to the Normal College came up and was discussed with considerable zeal. The resolution before the Board, providing that girls should not enter the college before attaining their fourteenth year, was opposed by Mr. Smyth on the ground that the Board have no control at all over the question. He argued that by the statute law any person at any age can enter any public school, provided that the person can pass the required examination. The resolution fixing the age of admission at fourteen was adopted.

THE BRUSSELS MURDER.

A Strong Chain of Evidence Being Forged Around the Prisoner Vogt.

Release of the Accused Sought on Writ of Habeas Corpus—Judgment of the Court Reserved—The Prisoner's Identity—An Important Witness on His Way from Belgium to This City.

The particulars of the recent arrest in Philadelphia of a Belgian calling himself Carl Vogt, and his incarceration in the Tombs in this city on a charge of having in his possession, and putting into circulation, certain bonds and shares alleged to have been stolen from the safe of Le Chevalier Dubois Bianco, a Belgian nobleman, who, on the morning of October 2, 1871, was found murdered at his villa, a short distance from Brussels, have already been fully given in the HERALD. A narrative of more painfully thrilling interest, and giving more vivid portrayal of the curious intermingling of varied phases of criminality, as well as revealing how the thread of crime often evolves itself from the most mysterious entanglement, is seldom recorded. It was believed, of course, that sooner or later an attempt would be made to negotiate the stolen securities. Some of them have been negotiated, and tracing, as alleged, their negotiation to the prisoner is certainly an important initiative step in bringing to light the authors of this most atrocious murder—a murder whose atrocity was heightened by the attempt at concealment through subsequently setting fire to the dwelling of the unfortunate victim.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS.

Immediately after his arrest Vogt procured counsel. It required no extraordinary amount of legal acumen on the part of the latter to see how strong a point might be made of the fact of there being no extradition treaty between Belgium and this country. Accordingly, to bring this matter to the test, and in the hope, no doubt, of at once procuring the release of Vogt, he procured a writ of habeas corpus, and upon this had him brought yesterday before Judge Cardozo, of the Supreme Court. The prisoner had to remain some time in Court before his case was reached. Of course, knowing the nature of the charge against him and the possibility of this charge developing itself into the grave one of murder, he was the centre of very inquisitorial observation, a scrutiny he bore most unflinchingly. He is a short, thick-set man, of strongly marked Teutonic features, and was well, though plainly, dressed. His heavy, stolid features were perfectly immobile until his counsel rose to his feet on the case being called.

PLEAS FOR THE PRISONER.

It was urged by the prisoner's counsel that there was no justifiable ground for his detention in custody. The facts of the preliminary examination he insisted did not connect him with the murder. A stronger point than this, he claimed, was that between Belgium and the United States there was no extradition treaty, and consequently that the prisoner must be discharged.

WHY HE SHOULD BE HELD.

Assistant District Attorney Sullivan conceded that there was no extradition treaty between this country and Belgium, but insisted that though the prisoner could not be detained to answer a charge of being the murderer of the murdered Belgian nobleman he could be held to answer the accusation of larceny, inasmuch as a portion of the bonds and shares of which Le Chevalier Dubois Bianco was robbed had been brought to this country and put in circulation here. He asked that further time be allowed to complete the chain of evidence being forged against the prisoner.

A TELLTALE LETTER.

Mr. Sullivan concluded his objections to the release of the prisoner by reading the following alleged intercepted letter from him to his wife, and which he claimed was almost conclusive as to his guilt. The letter was written in French, and the following is the translation as read:—

NEW YORK, March 15, 1872.

MOST BELOVED WIFE—I entreat you, before all, to keep cool. All will be well, by the aid of God, but it may take some time yet. I suppose that the esteemed Petry family will be some consolation to you. Any one may be so unfortunate. The thing I want you to do is to put all the keys away from the little box, and also that of your trunk. Your jewelry box give to Mrs. Petry, and also the album. Your brother's letters destroy, and have my two guns brought into my room. In one of the pairs of new shoes is a [illegible]. Also the box with your bracelets, and, in fact, all that has any reference to this matter destroy. The little box give to Mrs. Petry. Destroy all letters and accounts. There is a letter from Rubino, George's cousin; take that and all cards of banking houses sticking in the looking glass over the wardrobe. See also whether there are any papers in the little portemonnaie in your big trunk, in case there may be something there from Brussels. They must be put out of the world. If there is nothing there leave it as it is. When you are asked don't answer anything. Several people have been to see me at different times, but I sent them to Mr. Gross. I will be brought into Court to-day, where I will see Mr. Petry. Have you asked for your bill? Mr. Petry will communicate to you what will be the result of this day's investigation and how the affair is going to end, which Mr. Gross has told you already. When you write to me always address your letters to Mr. Gross. Use two envelopes. The outside one address to Mr. Gross and on the other my name. Burn up this letter immediately. Nothing else will do. Write soon. Mr. Gross told me the trunk covered with zinc is here. They have not given it to me yet, however, though I hope to get it to-day. Have you understood me correctly? Put all the keys of the trunks on the ring and put the others away. I greet you from my heart. Be kissed and embraced by yours to death.

CARL VOGT.

DENYING THE LETTER.

The prisoner's counsel said that the above was not a correct translation of the letter.

Mr. Sullivan said that the Court could readily ascertain whether it was correct or otherwise.

THE PRISONER REMANDED.

The Judge said he should certainly do so, and asked to be handed the original letter, as well as the translation and all the other papers in the case. This was done, and he at once dismissed the writ of habeas corpus and remanded the accused to prison.

IDENTITY OF THE PRISONER.

The guilt or innocence of the prisoner of the very grave charges preferred against him is likely very soon to be proven or disproven. Count Duval, a relation of the murdered man, has been in frequent communication by cable despatches with Mr. Mali, Belgian Consul in this city. In a recent despatch he stated that the description of Vogt is exact with that of a man known by the name of Joseph Stepp, who, he says, disappeared in October last from Brussels, and is generally supposed to be the murderer and robber of the stolen securities.

ON HIS TRACK.

On Saturday last Count Duval sent a further cable telegram to Mr. Mali, in which he stated that he should set sail on the succeeding morning for this city with proofs against the prisoner.

THE REGISTER'S OFFICE INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Niles, of the Judiciary Committee, devoted further attention yesterday to inquiries about the alleged overcharges in the office of Register Sigel; but he reports that all the lawyers and others of whom he inquired bore testimony to the correction of the abuses, and even the gentleman who first complained of illegal exactions now admits that the abuses have ceased. Mr. Niles reports that the Register has reduced the fee for recording deeds and mortgages twenty-five cents each, for chattel mortgages four or five cents each, and established a schedule of charges for searches of titles that, while higher than the statute provides, are alike just to all, and as low as is consistent with the interests of those having business of this kind to transact. All overcharges except for searches, he reports, have been cut off, and he is of the opinion that, as at present administered, the management of the office will give satisfaction.

HOMICIDE IN WASHINGTON STREET.

The Result of Card Playing on Sunday—Flight of the Accused.

Coroner Young was called to 21 Washington street to investigate the case of death of Thomas Doyle, who died on Sunday night under suspicious circumstances. It appears that on Sunday afternoon Doyle, William Murphy and several other persons met in a barroom at the above number, and, after drinking several rounds, engaged in card playing for more liquor. At length Doyle commenced abusing Murphy, and finally accused him of being the father of an illegitimate child. Murphy continued his abuse and refused to desist, and patience at length ceasing to be a virtue, Murphy struck Doyle on the head with his fist, knocking him down. Deceased arose from the floor and going to his room subsequently became insensible and died in an hour afterwards.

POST-MORTEM EXAMINATION.

Deputy Coroner F. T. T. Marsh made a post-mortem examination on the body and found a large clot of blood on the left side of the brain, compressing nearly the entire left hemisphere of the brain. In the opinion of Dr. Marsh death was due to compression of the brain from extravasation of blood, the result of violence.

Coroner Young will hold an investigation in the case in a day or two.

William Murphy, the accused, having decamped after the occurrence, Coroner Young issued a warrant for his arrest, and placed it in the hands of the Twenty-seventh precinct police for execution.

THE TWENTY-SECOND WARD SHOOTING CASE.

Arrest of the Attempted Murderer—Dangerous Condition of the Wounded Man.

On Tuesday evening a difficulty occurred in a restaurant in West Forty-second street, in which Patrick Murphy was shot in the breast by Peter Casey, a bartender. Casey made his escape at the time and Murphy was removed by the Twenty-second precinct police to the Reception Hospital in Ninety-ninth street. The police then went in search of Casey, whom they arrested yesterday morning, and took him in the afternoon to the Yorkville Police Court. Justice McGuire, who was on the bench, remanded him back to the station house until further evidence is obtained. The ball from the assailant's pistol entered Murphy's breast, but its precise location has not yet been ascertained, because the physicians have not deemed it judicious to probe the wound. The injured man's condition is said to be critical, and it will be impossible to tell whether or not his wound will prove fatal for at least three or four days longer.

THE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE.

Testimony as to the General Administration of Justice—Evidence of a Stenographer in Relation to Bad Language Used by Judge Barnard—The Sub-Committee on the County Clerk's Office.

The Judiciary Committee resumed their examination of the charges against Judge Barnard yesterday morning at ten o'clock. The proceedings commenced with the examination of Mr. John Taylor Johnson, President of the New York Central Railroad, who stated that he was a lawyer by profession, but for the past twenty years he had not practiced his profession. He was largely interested in American securities, and to the best of his belief he thought that there was a want of confidence in the judges, not with reference to any particular one, but more as to the general administration of justice in the whole State. He believed that want of confidence in the judiciary materially affected the value of American securities abroad. He thought that this want of confidence arose chiefly from the scathing criticisms of the press upon various judges, particularly those of the Supreme Court and those connected with the Erie suits. The question was then asked if the matter exciting public sentiment had not arisen from defect in the Code of Procedure. The witness thought that such might be the case, and the law ought to prevent the intolerable system of appointing receivers and referees without the proper safeguards. He was then asked if he thought if the judges were perfectly honest that the Code as it now exists would give satisfaction to those demanding the administration of justice. The witness said he did not think it would.

Mr. William Booth, a sugar refiner, was the next witness put on the stand. He testified that he was president of several banks, and was largely engaged in financial transactions. He stated that he thought the manner of the present administration of justice was detrimental to the value of American securities on the other side. Witness also stated he was one of the commissioners who had been appointed to inquire into the abuses in the Comptroller's office.

Mr. William F. Havemeyer, former Mayor of New York, was then examined. Mr. Havemeyer stated that for many years he had been intimately connected with public affairs and he thought there was a great want of confidence in the judiciary of this city, more especially in Judges Barnard, Cardozo and Ingraham.

Q. Are you not the chairman of the Committee of Seventy? A. Yes, sir, I have that honor.

Q. Were not the proceedings to restrain the operations of the Tammany Ring put into effect by Judge Barnard's granting the injunction, and was not that the first blow that led to the ultimate downfall of the Tammany Ring? A. I believe that to be the case.

Q. Was not that injunction afterwards modified upon the petition of Comptroller Green, who said that it tied up his hands, and in order to carry on the business of the city the injunction should be modified? A. Yes, sir.

Q. By Mr. Parsons—Did not the denunciations of the press cause a strong public feeling that might have made Judge Barnard grant the injunction? If he had not done so would he not have been acting against the public sentiment. A. Certainly, I think it did.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh was then put on the stand. He testified that he was Superintendent of the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad Company; was examined in reference to the seizure of the road by Fisk and Gould.

Mr. Charles Tracy was then examined in reference to some papers relating to the Union Pacific Railroad Company.

Judge Fullerton was then called and examined in reference to the $50,000 which he received from the Union Pacific Railroad Company to effect a settlement of the litigation of James Fisk and Jay Gould against that company. Witness stated that he was then acting under the directions of Mr. Bushnell, one of the directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company; to arrange matters between the litigating parties so that they might go on with the construction of the road and the issue of their bonds. He had an interview with Mr. Fisk, which resulted in Mr. Fisk agreeing to stop proceedings on payment of $50,000. Mr. Fisk stated to him that he had a great deal of pride in the position he had taken in the fight, and that he would probably be laughed at in the street if it was understood that he had discontinued the suit for any pecuniary consideration. It was, therefore, arranged that the matter of consideration should be kept a secret between him and Judge Fullerton. The money was paid to James Fisk, Jr.

G. Hill, a clerk in the law office of John E. Develin, was then examined in reference to the injunction granted by Judge Barnard restraining the Tammany organization from taking possession of Tammany Hall.

J. Ramsey then testified in relation to the Albany and Susquehanna charge.

G. E. Miles, a stenographer of the New York Tribune, testified that he had been reporting in the Courts for the Tribune and had on several instances taken down jokes of Judge Barnard. Witness stated that he had been employed by Mr. Stickney, of the Bar Association, to take notes. Judge Curtis then asked Mr. Stickney if he had let Judge Barnard know that they had a reporter in his courts: Mr. Stickney said "Certainly not;" Mr. Curtis then said he did not think it a very creditable piece of business on the part of the Bar Association; in the suit of Vadiny vs. Egan Judge Barnard made use of some very improper language; on Stokes' trial he also made a remark "to turn those scoundrels out as they would take watches if left alone." Witness also stated that Judge Barnard stated before some lawyers that whoever wrote an article in a daily paper was a liar, and it was probably written by the most infamous lawyer in New York city. Judge Barnard denied that he had ever made such a remark. In his cross-examination witness stated that he had been employed to take these notes by Stickney through certain lawyers. He had been partially paid for this job by the Bar Association, and he took the notes down for money.

Several other witnesses were then examined, including Jay Gould. The committee then adjourned to meet this morning, at ten o'clock.

Messrs. Flammer, Tilden and Hay, the Sub-Committee on the County Clerk's Office, met last night, at six o'clock, but adjourned until this evening at the same hour.

PIGEON SHOOTING.

A Pleasant Gala Day at Greenville—Two Sweepstakes Shot by Amateurs—Valuable Prizes—John Sharp, H. F. Pierson and E. H. Shorb the Winners.

The grounds around Tom Taylor's suburban retreat, the "Idle Hour," at Greenville, N. J., were well crowded yesterday afternoon by amateur marksmen, drawn there by the announcement that two grand pigeon contests would take place, the first being for a diamond cluster pin, valued at $200, and the second for a purse of $25, gold, and a sportsman's solid silver drinking cup. Both of the sweepstakes took place, the contestants in the first shooting at five birds each, and in the latter at three birds each, 21 yards rise, 80 yards boundary, 1¼ ounce of shot, from H and T traps. There were twenty-four entries for the diamond pin, several paying the entrance money a second time so eager were they to possess the prize. It was won by Mr. John Sharp. The second sweepstakes had eight entries, the purse of gold being carried away by Mr. H. F. Pierson, and the second prize, silver drinking cup, by Mr. E. H. Shorb. The day was exceedingly unpleasant for such contests, and particularly unfavorable for an exhibition of good marksmanship, it being very windy and excessively cold. The birds shown were among the best trapped this season. The following scores will give an excellent idea of the shooting:—

COCK FIGHT IN NEW JERSEY.

On Tuesday night New Jersey and New York met in the pit, showing on either side seventeen birds, half cocks and half stags. They agreed to fight all that fell in, the cocks weighing from 4 lb. 4 oz. to 4 lb. 12 oz., and the stags from 4 lb. 2 oz. to 4 lb. 14 oz., for $50 a battle and $250 the main. Fifteen couples were matched, and the fighting proved of a spirited and vindictive nature. New Jersey won nine battles and the main. Much money depended on the result.

MAYOR HALL.

The Question of the Jurisdiction of Judge Daly to Hold a Fresh or Extended Term of the General Sessions Getting Complicated.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE IN A FIX.

What Recorder Hackett Thinks of It.

The Court of General Sessions in its double jurisdiction opened yesterday: one branch of the Court before Chief Justice Daly, in the court room of the General Term of the Common Pleas, in continuation of the trial of Mayor Hall; the other branch, the March term, before Recorder Hackett, for trial of all cases coming legitimately and in the regular order before it. The great question that has been bothering the brains of the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas for the last three days, and which botherating argument of counsel has only served to make worse bothered, is as to the constitutionality of his Court to continue the trial of the case. Had the trial of the Mayor not been broken in upon by the death of one of the jurors sworn to try the case it could have been proceeded with legally to the close, because the term of the Court on which it was first called up was extended for the purposes of the trial. But, as counsel for the defence claim, with the death of the juror ended the term of the Court. Then to resume the trial now, whether with the eleven jurors who have sat upon the case up to the present moment, with a twelfth added, or with a jury sworn to try the case de novo from a new panel, they say, is unconstitutional, as no two terms of the General Sessions can be holden at the same time except, as in a late case, where special legislation was called on to legalize it for a period. It will be seen by reference to the business proper of the General Sessions transacted yesterday before Recorder Hackett that His Honor the Recorder throws the weight of his reading of the statute and his experience of the law in the scale against Judge Daly's interpretation of the same, and that he (the Recorder) looks upon the "other branch" as unconstitutional, and that the only legalized term of the General Sessions is that over which he presides in the old brown building over the way from the new marble county Court House, where Judge Daly is holding ephemeral court. The opinion of Recorder Hackett on this question may help to simplify matters to-day in the case of the People vs. Mayor Hall, and bring the long-winded arguments of counsel and the procrastinating deliberation of the Court to a speedy and satisfactory close.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

The argument as to the power of Judge Daly to continue the trial of Mayor Hall, and, if he has the power, how he will exercise it, was continued yesterday. Mayor Hall and the prosecuting counsel were prompt in their attendance, and Judge Daly opened the Court at a quarter past eleven o'clock.

Mr. Peckham, on the part of the prosecution, spoke in answer to the arguments of the defence on Tuesday. He claimed that Mr. Stoughton's argument or suggestion was not to the jurisdiction of the Court, but merely as to the practice to be pursued by the Court in obtaining a new jury, a matter which might easily be satisfied by varying the order. Mr. Burrill had presented some new points as to the jurisdiction. He thought Mr. Burrill had understood the order of Recorder Hackett.

Judge Daly reiterated his previous statement, that his jurisdiction did not depend on that order, but on the fact of disability or absence of the Judges of that Court, which might be shown without any order whatever. He assumed that the proceedings of the Court were altogether regular down to the time of the death of the juror.

Mr. Peckham proceeded to argue that the statutes of 1846 and 1859, independent of the act of 1851, gave the power of holding two terms of the Court concurrently. He claimed that, though the statutes of 1852 and 1872 seemed to be at first passed for this purpose, yet on examination it would be found that they were passed for other purposes.

Judge Daly again called attention to the delicate position which he occupied, and said that while, if he clearly saw the law to empower him to go on, he should not hesitate to assume the responsibility, still, if he came to the conclusion that there was very grave doubt as to that power, he should not exercise a doubtful jurisdiction, where, if he was wrong, the whole proceeding must be a useless expense and trouble. The question arose from the fact that another Court of General Sessions was sitting, and was, first, whether two branches could be in session at the same time without a compliance with the formalities required by the statute precedent to a double session, and then the further question, if that was decided in the negative, which Court was regular.

Mr. Peckham said that if two terms could not coexist then it was clearly the Recorder's Court that was irregular, nor could any adjournment of this term restore regularity to that Court. The Court had held that this Court was regular down to last Tuesday; that regularity could not be taken away by any subsequent accident. If there could be no double term then the Recorder was holding no Court. This term was commenced by the City Judge. It was his absence, not the Recorder's disability, which gave Judge Daly his right to sit. The right to summon a panel at any time during the term depended upon the Revised Statutes, but that statute limited the number of a panel to thirty-six. A subsequent statute permitted the General Sessions to call a panel of eighty-four, and the act of 1847 simply removed the limitation of number.

Judge Daly called attention to the fact that the old panel had not been exhausted, but had been discharged.

Mr. Burrill read the law authorizing the summoning of a new panel to show that it contemplated the existence of one panel when the new was called. The old panel was not under it to be discharged till the jurors on the new were in attendance on the Court. As there was here no panel to be discharged no new panel could be summoned.

Mr. Peckham claimed that the summoning of the new panel was itself a discharge of the old panel; at any rate it was not an objection which a litigant could raise. In answer to Mr. Burrill's point that the statute applicable to jurors for a Court of Oyer and Terminer applied to this Court he showed that these statutes were only made applicable in cases of felony, and not in cases of misdemeanor.

Mr. Tremain followed on the same side, claiming first that the Recorder's order sending the case to Judge Daly was a nullity, the power arising from the absence of the City Judge from the term. This absence, he claimed, was absence from the term, to be determined by simple observation, and not from proof. It might be that some Judge might be found so wanting in a sense of propriety as to come forward and claim his seat, and might perhaps have the power to oust His Honor from the judicial seat. But that was not the case here. Both Judges were absent from this term, and His Honor was rightfully here undisturbed. The fact that two contemporaneous sessions had never been held did not show that the power did not exist. It merely showed that the necessity had not arisen. It was impossible to interpret together the statutes of 1847, of 1852 and 1872, without recognizing the existence of that power. It had been said that His Honor was sitting here merely to try this case, and in fact that was the purpose, and he trusted His Honor would not withdraw from that honest purpose. But the power of transacting all business of the Court of General Sessions came upon the Judge when he took his seat. There was nothing in the order extending the term till the case on trial was concluded that limited the power of the Court. That case was not concluded; the indictment was not yet disposed of. The jury even were not yet discharged. Whether the former proceeding were a new trial or the continuance of the trial, the Court had power now to extend its term for any time it might think proper.

Mr. Tremain renewed the argument of Mr. Peckham that whether the recorders were regular or not—a question not necessary for His Honor to decide—this term was clearly regular and in its right.

The Court had spoken of not assuming doubtful jurisdiction. It would be strange if the defendant, himself a most able lawyer, aided by seven or eight of the ablest lawyers, could not in a certain sense raise a doubt. The prosecution had full confidence in their views; they had presented them in full knowledge of the important consequences that might result from it. If His Honor differed from them in his view they were relieved; if not they would not be relieved of their duty and the consequences of their action.

Mr. Stoughton had yesterday said that they did not desire to go on with a trial; an acquittal in [illegible] would not be pleaded in another trial, and had spoken of the possibility that the same spirit which animated the prosecution might lead to a new trial. He repelled the idea that any public officers would be so derelict of duty as to retry this case after an acquittal. What was meant by this same spirit? The prosecution had listened to days after days of objections and rearrangements of decided questions and technicalities, without objection, without calling for the imposition of rules. They had given every latitude to the defence, every opportunity. He desired to impute no motives to the other side, but he could not forget how they had been invited to this trial with assurance that no technicalities were to be raised. It might not again be possible to secure the attendance of a Judge in whom all parties had confidence. The Court should, he thought, give some weight to this consideration.

Mr. Tremain then discussed the power of the Court to summon a new panel.

Mr. Burrill called attention to the two cases of Cummings and McCann, and claimed they did not overrule the case of McGuire, in which it was held that a precept must issue from the Court to the Sheriff before the summoning of a panel of jurors.

Mr. Clinton again called attention to the act of 1872.

At ten minutes of two the Court adjourned, Judge Daly announcing that he would not give his decision till Saturday.

Some question even arose as to when the adjournment should be to, as the jury are ordered to attend to-day. It was finally adjourned till to-day.
